PARTY DEBATES HORNER'S FATE IN NIGHT PARLEY

Report Doctor Told Him Not to Run.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 8.—After 10 hours' discussion of the 1940 state slate, Democratic leaders of Illinois let it be known late tonight that they had not completed their conferences. The state central committee has been called to meet at 3 p. m. tomorrow to draft a slate, but there was some doubt that it would be able to go thru with this program.

Harry B. Hershey.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, speaking for the slate makers, said, "Everything is in status quo. We are still working and will continue tomorrow morning."

Constantly growing rumors that Gov. Henry Horner plans to retire, reversing a previous decision to stand for a third term, proved a subject which the slatemakers did not discuss.

"Nothing on That."

"There's nothing on that," the mayor replied in response to questions about that rumor.

"Your remark that 'Everything is in status quo' might mean that present officeholders would be reslated," a reporter suggested.

"It might," the mayor replied.

"It means the book is closed," remarked National Committeeman P. A. Nash.

Gov. Horner did not participate in this meeting with reporters, which came at about 11 p. m. He had been in bed for an hour, it was explained. Horner met on and off with the dozen leaders who spent the afternoon and evening in the executive mansion, but did not eat with them.

Examined by Doctor.

The governor's physician examined him this morning and, according to reports, advised him not to run again. He has remained in frail health, with frequent periods of exhaustion, since his severe illness in 1938.

Should the slate group fail to reach an agreement by 3 p. m. tomorrow, it is probable that Harry B. Hershey, state chairman, will recess the committee until a later date. Taking part in the conference were Mayor Kelly, Committeeman Nash, United States Senators Scott W. Lucas and James M. Slattery, Ald. J. M. Arvey of Chicago, Chairman Charles K. Schwartz of the tax commission, Director of Finance S. L. Nudelman, City Clerk L. D. Schreiber of Chicago, who is treasurer of the state committee, and, from time to time, Chairman Hershey.

Variety of Problems.

This array of party might has to choose an entire state ticket, cope with the problem of the governor's health, attempt a solution of Horner's feud with his lieutenant governor, John Stelle, and emerge with a slate balanced as to geography, religion, and availability for office.

While the assemblage was tackling these problems, the hotel lobbies echoed with rumor after rumor. First, Chairman Hershey was said to have been chosen to inherit the governor's mantle, then it was Congressman-at-Large John Martin, who was given the acclaim.

A partial slate of names was bandied from politician to politician. This had Col. Albert A. Sprague of Chicago running for senator in place of Slattery, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes in the governor's seat, Chairman Hershey for lieutenant governor, and Lieut. Gov. Stelle for secretary of state. Sprague also has been mentioned as a candidate for governor.

The slate makers' task was further complicated by apparently well founded reports that Attorney General John E. Cassidy will not be a candidate for renomination. He is said to have resolved to resume his private law practice in Peoria. Apparently sentiment as to a successor has not crystalized.

Q.—What do you think the prospects are for a harmony ticket? A.—Of course there's going to be harmoney. We never considered that there would be anything else.

Q.—What about the status of Mr. Stelle? A.—O, you know whenever the Democats get together, we always kiss and make up.

Discover Reds Are Defended in White House

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—Details of a debate under the White House roof early this week which found Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and two radical congressmen defending communism in the American Youth congress came to light today.

Frank B. Keefe.

The youth congress is under the domination of communists, according to evidence gathered by the Dies committee on un-American activities. The congress has been befriended by Mrs. Roosevelt, who attended committee meetings when officials of the organization were questioned.

The President's wife invited representatives of the youth group to the White House to confer with members of congress on the activities of the organization.

Dies Opponents Attend.

In a house floor speech today Representative Frank B. Keefe [R., Wis.] noted that of the 27 Democratic congressmen invited by Mrs. Roosevelt, there were 16 of the 21 members who voted against continuance of the Dies committee investigation. Among these were Kent E. Keller and Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois.

Several Democratic senators, including Burton K. Wheeler of Montana and Josh Lee of Oklahoma were also invited as were House Majority Leader Sam Rayburn and others.

Some Members Are Shocked.

These members of congress were reportedly shocked when a Miss Williams proclaimed that representatives of 15,000 communists were in the youth congress. "They are with us all the way," she declared.

Some of those present started to protest that there was danger involved in the infiltration of communism into a nation-wide organization of American youth. They asserted that the obvious purpose of the communists was to stir unrest and dissatisfaction with the American system of government in young people.

Mrs. Roosevelt then defended the rights of communists to invade the youth organization. Representatives Vito Marcantonio, American Labor party member, of New York City, and Radical Keller of Illinois spoke along the same lines. Marcantonio is president of the International Labor Defense, named by the Dies committee as the legal representative of the communist party.

"It is exceedingly interesting," Representative Keefe told the house, "to note that the opponents of the Dies investigation were honored with invitations to this event."

Democrats Invited.

The Democrats who were invited to the White House by Mrs. Roosevelt and who opposed continuance of the quiz into un-American activities were, in addition to Sabath, Keller, and Marcantonio, the following:

Michael J. Bradley [Pa.], John M. Coffee [Wash.], Matthew Dunn [Pa.], Thomas F. Ford [Cal.], Lee E. Geyer [Cal.], Franck R. Havenner [Cal.], Frank E. Hook [Mich.], Ed V. Izac [Cal.], James P. McGranery [Pa.], Mrs. Caroline O'Day [N. Y.], Walter M. Pierce [Ore.], Joseph B. Shannon [Mo.], and R. G. Terenowicz [Mich.].

"It is to the everlasting credit of most of the senators and representatives who were invited that they expressed themselves as definitely against the infiltration of the young communist league into the American Youth congress," Keefe told the house. "I regret that the first lady of the land defends the rights of communists in this youth congress."

LOS ANGELES ROCKED BY 2 EXPLOSIONS IN FIREWORKS PLANT

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 8 (AP).—Two explosions in the Golden State Fireworks company plant in North Redondo Beach shook a 40 mile radius in the Los Angeles area late tonight.

The factory, situated two miles from the heart of Redondo Beach, burst into flames with the first blast, and the fire was visible for miles along the coast.

Five houses were wrecked and two persons injured.

Mrs. Nettie Denmar, resident of one of the houses, was rescued from the flaming structure. She suffered a fractured leg. S. F. Bragg, another resident, was treated at the Hermosa-Redondo hospital for burns. There were no reports of any dead.

The first explosion was felt as far northeast as Pasadena, 25 miles distant. The fireworks plant supplies a world-wide market and is a storing place for a large amount of powder. The plant is situated in the El Nido district of Redondo Beach.

Missouri Strong Man Dies; Once Carried a Cow ¼ Mile

Springfield, Mo., Feb. 8 (AP).—The biggest man in south Missouri died today. Pneumonia, following influenza, proved fatal to 425 pound Benjamin Franklin Beck, 49 years old, of Cabool. Beck was the village Samson. Once Beck carried a sick cow a quarter of a mile to the owner's barn.

Spend 4 Million a Week to Curb British Prices

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, gave details in the house of commons tonight of the government's efforts to keep down food prices and prevent inflation.

Simon disclosed the government now is spending about $4,260,000 weekly in this effort. The net result has been to keep the index figure for the cost of living 12 points below its "natural level." He made the following points:

Without the weekly subsidy of nearly $1,720,000 the standard four pound loaf of bread would cost 17 cents instead of 14½.

The Price of Milk.

Without the weekly subsidy of $940,000 milk would cost 13 cents a quart instead of 12.

Without the weekly subsidy of $1,280,000 meat [probably imported] would be 1¾ cents a pound more expensive. Home killed meat would cost 3½ cents a pound more.

Without the weekly subsidy of $320,000 the recent reduction of 3½ cents a pound in the price of bacon would have been impossible.

Charges "Financial Cover."

Simon made his statement in reply to questions by Laborite A. V. Alexander, who suggested that the $200,000,000 mentioned last week by the chancellor as the cost of keeping down food prices was a "financial cover for economic mistakes." Alexander accused the government of missing valuable opportunities of buying cheaply in the early days of the war.

Rationing of commodities receiving government subsidies was not always necessary, Simon said. The demand for bread, for instance, was relatively inelastic, he declared, and he would not like to recommend rationing of milk.

Finns to Conduct School by Radio for Refugees

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 8 (AP).—It was announced today that a radio school would be inaugurated on Feb. 12 in an effort to keep up the education of children removed from danger areas to the country. There are to be lessons in German, English and Swedish and courses in arithmetic and other elementary subjects. Emphasis is to be placed on helping the children remember what they previously had been taught rather than extending the scope of learning, the announcement said.

CAPTURE POSTS ON MANNERHEIM LINE; TURKS SEIZE GERMAN OWNED SHIPYARDS

Hitler Naval Experts Ousted; Marines Put in Charge.

Berlin Remains Calm

BERLIN, Feb. 8 (AP).—Diplomatic words, followed by even more emphatic press comment, are likely to ensue as a result of Turkey's action in seizing the Krupp shipyards, informed sources said tonight. Nothing serious, however, is expected to result.

Germany regards Turkey's action as inspired, if not demanded, by England and France, and sees in it another attempt by the western powers to broaden the area of conflict. But Germany will not be provoked, these sources said, and probably will let matters rest with a diplomatic protest.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Feb. 8 (AP).—Turkey, nonbelligerent ally of Britain and France, and guardian of the Dardanelles, today suddenly seized the German owned Krupp shipyards on the Golden Horn and placed her own marines in charge.

The Turkish government at once discharged the German naval engineers and technicians who had been outfitting Turkish submarines in the huge marine works.

Other Seizures Expected.

The confiscation of the Krupp works will be followed by government seizure of other German property in Turkey "sooner or later," it was reported authoritatively.

Official quarters refused to explain the reason for the shipyard seizure, declaring only, "spring is coming"—which many observers fear will bring a Russian or German drive thru the Balkans to seize the Dardanelles.

Foreign observers, however, saw the seizure of the Krupp plant as a logical sequence to the recent declaration of Sukru Saracoglu, Turkish foreign minister, that "Turkey is not neutral but only nonbelligerent for the moment."

German Residents Leave.

Large scale departures of German residents from Turkey, particularly business men, were disclosed in official quarters. Some of those leaving had been discharged from government advisory posts. The German business men who were departing said they had found it difficult to continue their operations because of alleged Turkish obstructionism.

German business men have had monopolies in some fields in Turkey and German specialists were numerous in this country until the outbreak of the European war and Turkey's subsequent alignment with Britain and France.

German influence has been on the wane, however, in recent months, and the activities of German Ambassador Franz von Papen, Fuehrer Hitler's ace troubleshooter, have come in for criticism in the Turkish press.

Possibility of Soviet Attack.

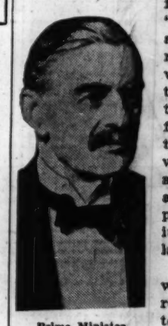
Discussing the possibility of war, an apparently inspired article in the Turkish press today said:

"The allies [Britain and France] have counted on the possibility of a Russian attack across the Balkans toward the Dardanelles. Allied and Turkish armies will give adequate support to the defenders."

Coincidentally, in Bucharest, the Rumanian ministry of national defense posted orders for every officer possessing technical training to join the colors April 1.

MORE AID ON WAY TO HELSINGFORS —CHAMBERLAIN

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain today scornfully declared "acts of murder" at sea by the German air force would not win the war, asserted the western conflict was going the way Britain wanted it to, and announced new aid from the empires "now is on its way" to Finland.



Prime Minister Chamberlain.

His statements were made in a review of the war to the house of commons.

Chamberlain's statement that "we have no reason to be dissatisfied with the opening phases of the war" coincided with disclosure that a third contingent of Canadian troops had reached England, in five transports. The force had artillery and ambulance units, technicians, and a few flyers. The first man to land was a United States citizen who said he had enlisted "for fun." There also was a group of Indians, described as "excellent snipers."

Praises Finland's Struggle.

Chamberlain combined a fierce indictment of Russia for using its "huge air fleets in a vain endeavor to shake the spirit" of the Finnish people by bombing homes and hospitals with high praise of Finland's "heroic struggle." He asserted, "the help given from this country has been of real value to Finland."

Unofficially, it was said, the first contingent of British volunteers may leave for Finland next week. "Hundreds," informants said, have been enrolled by the Finnish legation. These men, all over 27 years old, are outside the classes likely to be called this year for Britain's army.

Planes and other war material already have been sent to Finland from England, but the quantities remain undisclosed.

Chamberlain saved his most stinging phrases for the three German aerial invasions of British coastal waters which took a heavy shipping toll last week. The "killing of fishermen, merchantmen, and lightship crews," he said, constituted "not war, but murder."

Blasts Raiders' "Gangsterism."

"Such acts of gangsterism can have little if any practical effect on the outcome of the war. . . . They can only make us more resolved to carry on the struggle until civilization is purged of such wickedness. . . . We face the future with calm determination and unshaken confidence."

Telling of the destruction of three and perhaps four German bombers in last Saturday's raids, he added scornfully, "it would appear instructions have been given to enemy pilots to do their utmost to avoid contact with our defenses."

While giving no details of Monday's meeting of the British and French war council, which he attended in Paris, Chamberlain said the council "now is a vital instrument in successful prosecution of the war."

Russians Grab Eight Positions in Great Battle at Summa.

MOSCOW, Feb. 8 (AP).—Soviet Russia's Red army tonight reported its attacks on Finland's Mannerheim line had resulted in the capture of 13 steel and concrete forts.

[The Finnish military communique last night made no mention of losses to the Russians and reported that for the seventh successive day Finnish soldiers had beaten back Russian forces totaling 250,000 men attacking at four main points along a 500 mile front in the biggest offensive of the war.]

The Leningrad military headquarters' night communique said eight of the forts were taken in the fortified area of Hotinen, in the Summa district, near the western end of the Mannerheim line.

Five on Eastern Flank.

The other five forts were reported captured on the eastern flank of the line between Lake Ladoga and Suvasijarvi [near Suva lake].

The Summa sector, the theater of some of the heaviest fighting on the Karelian isthmus, is about 20 miles south of Viipuri [Viborg], ancient Finnish city on the Gulf of Finland and major objective of the Russians.

The Red army previously had denied the existence of any large scale offensive on the Karelian isthmus and tonight's communique said the forts fell during "clashes of advance infantry units which took place in the last few days."

Say Finns Suffer Heavily.

In both actions, the Russians said the Finns suffered great losses. The communique:

"Feb. 8: Hostilities restricted chiefly to activities of scouts. Clashes of advanced infantry units, which took place the last few days on the Karelian isthmus, resulted in the occupation by soviet troops of the fortified area of Hotinen in the Summa district. Eight iron and concrete artillery forts were taken.

"In the sector between Ladoga lake and Suvasijarvi soviet troops captured five defensive iron and concrete artillery forts. In both cases the enemy suffered great losses.

"Soviet aviation bombed military objectives."

Finns Claim Successes.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 8 (AP).—For the seventh successive day Finland's defenders today beat back Russian soldiers a quarter of a million strong attacking at four main points along a 500 mile ice bound front in the biggest offensive of the war, Finnish army reports stated.

Declaring the Russians apparently were using every possible weapon, the Finns said that Russian saboteurs, disguised in Finnish uniforms, had been dropped from airplanes by parachute behind the Finnish lines. Several were captured, the Finns said.

Finns acknowledged that these parachute saboteurs have done considerable damage. They have tried to cut Finnish lines of communication, determine the location of Finnish troop concentrations, and stir up discontent among the Finnish population. They carry sticks of dynamite and hand grenades, which they throw if attacked.

Heaviest on Isthmus.

Another 100,000 northeast of Lake Ladoga.

About 5,000 at Suomussalmi and Kuhmo, approximately 175 miles farther north, at the eastern end of Finland's narrow "waist."

No one here would estimate the Finnish strength or Finnish losses on any front beyond the statement that both figures were "far fewer" than those for the Russians.

[The total Finnish armed forces were authoritatively estimated at 400,000 at the start of the war.]

No Important Advances.

Nowhere, according to the Finns, did the Russians make an important advance. "Some thousands" of Russians died on Tuesday alone in the isthmus fighting, today's high command communique said.

Battles were reported continuing today particularly on the isthmus,

New Orleans, La., Feb. 8 [Special].—It seemed to be only a routine matter when Miss Audrey N. Campbell of Washington, D. C., telegraphed the St. Charles hotel here and asked to have a necklace she had left in her room forwarded by express.

Manager John J. O'Leary, to whom the string of pearls had been delivered by the maid who found it, wired back to ask the valuation. Miss Campbell replied that $80,000 was about right. Mr. O'Leary had the string appraised and found that it was. It cost $80.50 for express charges and insurance.

Miss Campbell, who is 26 years old, is the granddaughter of Levi Z. Leiter, former Chicago merchant. She inherited about $1,500,000 from his estate and an additional $500,000 from her mother. She was formerly a resident of Chicago.

MR. JOBST LOOKS AND LOOKS IN THE BEAUTIFUL SNOW

The fat robber who held up Carl J. Jobst last night got $160, but that was the least of Jobst's complaint to police.

Jobst, a liquor dealer, was on his way from Chicago to his home at 111 17th street, Winnetka, when three men curbed his car at Central Park avenue and Hartzell street, Evanston. The leader weighed at least 225 pounds. He took Jobst's money and also Jobst's car keys.

"You'll find these keys on the next corner," he said as he and his accomplices left.

Jobst found the keys all right, but not until he had dug thru 6 inches of snow over several hundred square feet. It took him two hours.

It was at Suomussalmi that the Russian 163d and 44th divisions met disaster earlier in the war in attempts to drive across the Finnish "waist" to the head of the Gulf of Bothnia to cut Finland in two and block overland shipment of supplies from Sweden.

Sent as Reinforcements.

The Russian troops at Suomussalmi apparently were sent up as reinforcements after the rout of these two divisions.

The Finnish communique said "our troops defeated an enemy detachment of about the strength of a battalion which had tried to advance across the frontier south of Raate. The enemy's losses were 250 killed and large quantities of infantry weapons and other war material fell into our hands.

"In the Kuhmo sector [to the south of Raate and Suomussalmi], our troops improved their positions."

Noteworthy in the communique was the statement that the Finnish air force was increasing its activity against the enemy's transport lines. Continued activity against the Murmansk railroad was reported. This is the most important soviet supply route for the extreme north. Swedish volunteer antiaircraft units were credited today with shooting down their first Russian plane.

Town of Kajaani Bombed.

The communique said:

"In the home area a couple of rural localities and the town of Kajaani were raided [by Russian planes]. In Kajaani several fires broke out. According to reports received so far, two civilians were killed.

"According to confirmed reports, enemy losses during the day were four planes. Of enemy planes previously reported as believed to have been shot down, the wreckage of one bomber now has been found."

Minor criticism of the Finnish administration meanwhile appeared for the first time since the outbreak of the conflict.

The conservative newspaper Aamulehti complained editorially that there were some "men at the front who have not received warm articles of clothing relatives sent them long ago. Faults are becoming so glaring that in one way or the other they must be corrected."

Norway Guards Arctic Province

Norway is taking precautions to guard Finmark (diagonal lines), its northernmost province, against possibility of attack by Russians, who now hold finger of Finland extending to Hoyhenjarvi. Russia long has coveted Finmark, which has three ports—Alta, Hammerfest, and Vadsoe.

Russian Manpower

Figures in boxes at various points indicate number of Russian troops at those points, according to Finnish information. Russians yesterday announced capture of eight Finnish forts in the Mannerheim line (1) and five other positions on the eastern end of the Finnish defense line (2). Kajaani (3) was bombed by Red planes again, and the Finns announced they had repulsed a soviet attack from the direction of Raate (4).

FRENCH WARNED TO RENDER CHUTE SPIES 'HELPLESS'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 8.—A new warning against parachute spies was issued today by the prefecture of police in Paris. The population was told, "In case enemy agents who have been turned loose in parachutes should come to earth the duty of every one is to reduce them to helplessness."

A fire in an enemy plane that lands in France should be extinguished, the circular adds, but no one should try to take away any débris or documents that may be on board. Should the plane come down undamaged, "the duty of persons present is to prevent the occupants from setting fire to the machine or from getting away."

The circular exhorts the population to keep its eyes open, "especially in the neighborhood of military establishments, factories, electric power houses, railway junctions, viaducts, canals, locks, etc., to notice any person who might be carrying on suspicious activities."

FINNS DISCOVER VICTORIES MIGHT CAUSE DEFEAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIIPURI, Finland, Feb. 8.—The repeated successes of the Finnish fighting forces against the much larger Red army have placed a dilemma before the Finnish government and military authorities, officials asserted today.

Finnish diplomats in certain countries, including the United States, have reported that after the news of the many Red defeats donations of help for Finland have fallen off and there are delays in sending war materials, especially airplanes. Finnish officers said the army needs planes to be able to continue its resistance against the soviet.

Altho the Finns have defeated important Red invasions, details of these successes are being withheld, partly because military authorities fear their revelation would further delay the arrival of fighting planes and other urgently needed arms, officials said.

GermanShipQuits Brazilian Port with Raw Materials

PARA, Brazil, Feb. 8 (AP).—The German merchantman Konigsberg, 6,466 tons, sailed today for a secret destination loaded with 2,000 tons of rubber and other raw materials.

MEXICANS FIRE ON CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENCY

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Feb. 8 (AP).—A band of 80 men fired on a house where Gen. Juan Almazan, independent presidential candidate, spent last night, it was reported today. One of Almazan's followers was killed. Almazan escaped harm in the second attempt on his life within a month. The shooting occurred at Zacapu, Michoacan, west of Mexico City.

The interior department said Eduardo Neri, Almazan's campaign manager, had lodged a formal complaint and that state officials and the zone military commander had ordered that all proper guarantees be given for Almazan's personal safety and freedom of conduct. The department said Neri charged members of the police department were in the band which fired at the house.

The man killed was Lieut. Elias Sumuano. On Jan. 14 the bodies of two of Almazan's adherents were propped up in the audience while the general delivered a speech at Pachuca, capital of Hidalgo state. They had been killed when the candidate's special train was ambushed near the city.

TWEEDSMUIR'S CONDITION GIVES RISE TO ANXIETY

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 8 (AP).—Lord Tweedsmuir, 64 years old, Canada's governor general who suffered a brain concussion in a fall Tuesday, grew increasingly weaker tonight, arousing grave anxiety among his doctors.

An official bulletin, signed by his personal physician and an attending specialist from Montreal, said Lord Tweedsmuir had spent a restless night.

Another bulletin tonight said the governor general "has spent a restful afternoon, and there is no essential change in his condition."

Lord Tweedsmuir was injured in a fall in his dressing room and was unconscious for an hour after the accident. He has been in ill health, and last month indicated his desire to retire from office on the expiration of his present term. Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King subsequently said a successor would be appointed this summer or early in the fall.

Lord Tweedsmuir, as John Buchan, attained fame as an author, soldier, and administrator. He has served as governor general since 1935.

BERLIN RESUMES REPATRIATION OF BRITISH CIVILIANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—The first British civilians to be exchanged for Germans since Jan. 1 are leaving Berlin this week. They are women.

Two left for Trieste, Italy, yesterday en route to Palestine. One of them carried her 10 month old baby. Two others left for England today by way of Amsterdam, and another is to depart tomorrow or Saturday. From now on repatriation of both British and French is expected to be speeded up.

Those now leaving are being exchanged for 45 German women who arrived here last week from England. Thirty German women returned here last Dec. 15. It has been the practice for Germans to release the British after their own nationals arrived here from England.

Men over 60 years old and boys under 18 also are eligible for exchange.

Accuses Canadian Premier of Betraying British Cause

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Feb. 8 [Special].—Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative party leader, tonight accused Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King of betraying the cause of Great Britain and Canada by refusing to allow Britain to establish air training centers in Canada in 1937 and 1938. Manion said in a speech that the prime minister's refusal had put Great Britain at a serious disadvantage in her race for air supremacy with Germany.

NORWAY GUARDS ARCTIC REGION; EYES RED ARMY

Finmark Long Coveted by Russian Nation.

BY ANDREAS BACKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 8.—Norway is taking increased precautions to assure the defense of Finmark, its northernmost province.

Russia long has coveted the district, which has the ports of Alta and Hammerfest on the Atlantic coast and Vadsoe on Varangerfjord, a finger of the Arctic ocean northwest of Petsamo, Finland.

Already Russian troops hold Finnish territory in the Petsamo district from the arctic to Hoyhenjarvi, about sixty miles along the Norwegian frontier.

Watchers can see the Russian military movements across the Pasvik [Pacific] river, which separates Norway and Finland, and the Finnish-soviet fighting at Hoyhenjarvi. At least one Russian air bomb has fallen on the Norwegian side of the Pasvik river.

Army, Navy on Guard.

Even before the Russian invasion of Finland began, the Norwegian cabinet had discussed the possibility that the Russians might advance claims on Finmark. At that time a great part of the Norwegian navy and many troops were sent north to protect the Norwegian frontier.

Less than 100 years ago, when Finland was a part of czarist Russia, and Norway and Sweden were united under a single king, Finmark was the object of an international political struggle.

When Norway was separated from Denmark in 1814 and united with Sweden, Norway had no fixed frontier with Russia. Finmark and Petsamo and other districts in the far north had to pay taxes to both Norway and Russia. In 1826 Norway and Russia agreed on the Pasvik river as the boundary.

Russians Displeased.

In later years the Russians became displeased and the situation became tense when Russia was seeking to enlarge its empire.

A Norwegian-Russian conference failed to settle the differences, and in 1852 Russia closed its frontier with Norway. Norway and Sweden regarded this as unfriendly behavior, and that was the situation in 1853 when Russia went to war against Turkey. In 1854 England and France and later other western powers declared war on Russia and the Crimean campaign resulted.

Because of England's concern over the Russian menace to northern Norway, the British sought to convince King Oscar I. that the only way to get rid of the Russian menace was to march against St. Petersburg [now Leningrad]. The British efforts failed, but Norway and Sweden entered the November treaty [1855] under which Britain and France guaranteed them against any war for their promise not to hand over any territory to any other power.

Senate Seeks to Encourage Private Assistance for Finns

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—With Republicans renewing their attacks on the New Deal's moral and material assistance to communist Russia, the senate today passed a resolution intended to encourage private aid for Finland. The vote was 65 to 3.

Senator Harrison.

The resolution, sponsored by Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee, expresses the sense of the senate that the Securities and Exchange commission should expedite the registration of Finnish government bonds for sale to private investors in this country.

Senator Harrison said he offered the resolution because he could not support the pending bill authorizing Export-Import bank loans to Finland and other countries.

Loan Bill Coming Up.

The senate tomorrow will take up the bill reported by both the banking and currency and foreign relations committees to increase the revolving credit limit of the Export-Import bank from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000. The purpose of the proposed increase is to permit loans of not more than $20,000,000 each to Finland, China, and other countries for the purchase of American agricultural and manufactured products.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and other Republican leaders assailed the Roosevelt administration's gold buying program, from which soviet Russia derives enormous benefits, and the maintenance of diplomatic relations with the Moscow communist régime.

Senator Vandenberg placed in the Congressional Record a letter from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau concerning the Russian gold purchases. From 1934 to 1939, inclusive, Morgenthau reported, the United States imported a total of $30,696,000 of gold directly from soviet Russia and during the same period imports of gold bars bearing the Russian stamp, plus Russian gold coins, aggregated $216,441,655.

New Shipment Reported.

"For your information, the bureau of the mint reports that approximately $5,000,000 of gold shipped directly from Russia [Vladivostok] has just arrived in San Francisco," Morgenthau wrote to Senator Vandenberg. "This gold is being sold to the United States mint at San Francisco."

"We are buying this gold, which I understand costs not more than $11 an ounce to mine, at $35 an ounce," Senator Vandenberg told the senate. "It is all part of one general gold policy. In the case of Russian gold, directly and indirectly purchased, we have paid somebody a handsome profit of perhaps 165 million dollars.

"We do not want the gold. We cannot use it. Every extra ounce is a liability, rather than an asset. Yet we still buy and buy and buy. In the case of Russia, we subsidize a nation whose public policy about 99 per cent of America condemns."

Hull Defends Terms.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull declared in response to a resolution by Senator Vandenberg that the maintenance of diplomatic relations with soviet Russia had not been made "wholly contingent" upon the fulfillment of pledges made by the Moscow régime when President Roosevelt recognized it on Nov. 16, 1933. Senator Vandenberg's resolution had requested the President to report to the senate whether the Russian government had violated these undertakings.

Senator Vandenberg explained that Mr. Roosevelt's recognition of soviet Russia was conditioned upon the specific promises made by Maxim Litvinov, soviet spokesman, and incorporated in the official correspondence between Litvinov and the President. These included a pledge to pay the Russian government's debt to the United States and an undertaking "to restrain all persons in government service and all organizations of the government or under its direct or indirect control" from subversive activity in the United States.

Recalls 1935 Protest.

Secretary Hull said the government on several occasions had had grounds to believe that soviet Russia was not living up to the undertakings and had made appropriate representations. A protest was delivered to the Moscow government on Aug. 25, 1935, Hull recalled, and the soviet reply was a denial that it "had taken upon itself obligations of any kind with regard to the communist international."

As to the debt matter, Hull recalled that the state department on Jan. 31, 1935, issued a statement saying: "There seems to be scarcely any reason to doubt that the negotiations which seemed so promising at the start must now be regarded as having come to an end."

Senator Vandenberg commented that the state department politely convicted Moscow of two definite breaches of the Litvinov pledges prior to the disclosures of the Dies committee on un-American activities but did not mention these revelations. The unanimous report of the Dies committee, filed on Jan. 3, said it had been established conclusively that the communist party of the United States "is completely dominated by the communist party of soviet Russia." It expressed the opinion that the party's activities violated the American treaty of recognition.

FRANCE MASSES 275,000 TROOPS IN THE NEAR EAST

Prepares for a Possible Thrust by Russia.

PARIS, Feb. 8 (AP).—France tonight gave soviet Russia a warning glimpse of the French man power which stands ready to defend the near east against any possible Red army thrust, turned down a soviet protest against seizure of Russian documents during a Paris police raid and saw a Polish expeditionary force off for the Finnish battlefields. The day's developments:

1. Authorized persons asserted France has 275,000 troops concentrated in the near east as a precaution against the possibility, among other things, of any Russian military activity there or against the Balkans.

[After publication by American newspapers, a London dispatch saying the total British and French concentration in the near east numbered about 500,000 men was canceled by the British censor.]

Reject Soviet Protest.

2. Reliable reports said the government rejected a protest by Soviet Ambassador Jakob Suritz against a police raid Monday on the Russian commercial offices—a raid some sources said was part of a campaign against communist propaganda in France.

3. An expeditionary force of Polish veterans of the losing fight in Poland against Germany and Russia, augmented by Polish-American volunteers, was sent to Finland to aid in the fight against the Russian invaders.

4. French parliamentary support for Finland spread to the senate where the Democratic left approved a motion congratulating the French government on the "important effort it has accomplished in favor of Finland."

Colonial Troops in France.

5. Phillippe Roques, propaganda chief of the ministry of colonies, wrote in the publication Our Fight that French colonies by the end of 1940 will have sent 700,000 native and black troops to bolster France's war machine, leaving behind an additional two million reserves.

The source which told of the French troop concentration in the near east said they were so placed to "prepare for all Russian or German threats in the Balkans or the Caucasus."

Britain and her ally, Egypt, also have extensive forces in the near east—the British in Egypt, where defense of the Suez canal zone is one of their duties, Palestine and elsewhere.

Weygand in Command.

The French concentration—centering in Syria—is commanded by Gen. Maxime Weygand, 72 year old former chief of the French general staff, who arrived in Cairo, Egypt, yesterday with Admiral Jean Esteva, commander in chief of the French Mediterranean fleet, to inspect British and Egyptian defenses.

On the French domestic front reliable sources said the government refused to consider Soviet Ambassador Suritz's protest against the raid on the Russian commercial offices in which three men were held temporarily and documents were seized.

The envoy made his representations Monday, after the raid, demanding the release of the men and return of the documents. Basis of the rejection was said to be that the men did not enjoy diplomatic immunity nor did the offices ever have extra-territorial privileges.

FOES CLAIM SEA VICTORIES

Figures on the British, French, German, and neutral merchant losses since the start of the war were announced yesterday by Germany and Great Britain. The claims, which contradicted each other, follow:

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 8.—From the start of the war until Jan. 31, the German navy sank 409 British, French, and neutral merchant ships aggregating 1,493,431 tons, the German military command announced today.

It was asserted this figure includes only losses which could be established with "absolute certainty." It was added that another 354 vessels totaling over 600,000 tons were taken by German warships to German ports to be examined for contraband.

In announcing the British, French, and neutral losses, the Germans admitted the loss of 42 ships. Their losses were put at 13,196 tons of shipping confiscated at the outbreak of the war in enemy ports; 82,236 tons seized, and 141,525 tons scuttled to avoid seizure, a total of 236,957 tons.

Official circles here pointed out that today's figures on the empire and neutral shipping losses do not include vessels sunk by aircraft, but only ships sunk by surface craft, U-boats, and mines. Despite British denials, the Germans declared German air raiders early this month sank 35 British and neutral vessels. They added that 17 of the losses were confirmed from foreign sources.

The Germans branded as false the British claims that these ships were "harmless fishing smacks." According to official German statements, only armed patrol vessels and merchantment sailing in convoys were attacked by the reich's bombers.

The Germans claimed the heavy losses to neutral shipping can be gauged by today's announcement that a small country like Greece alone has lost 100,000 tons in British waters.

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—The British government today replied to a Berlin claim that the Germans had sunk 409 British, French and neutral merchant ships aggregating 1,493,431 tons up to Jan. 31 with an admiralty tabulation putting at 274 the total of such merchantmen lost up to midnight Feb. 4.

The British said the 274 empire and neutral ships sunk aggregated 925,044 tons. They denied the Germans had taken any prizes from the empires, altho the Nazis said a total of 354 ships, totaling 607,881 tons, had been seized as prizes.

The English tabulation broke down the 925,044 tons lost as follows: British, 143 ships, 505,998 tons; French and Polish, 14 ships, 76,689 tons; neutral, 117 ships, 342,357 tons.

seizure in enemy ports at the start of the war, seizure, and scuttling, the British reported the German losses at 253,587 tons as follows: scuttled, 125,705 tons; captured, 89,782 tons, and sunk, 38,100 tons.

A British naval source, in denying the seizure as prizes of any British or French vessels, said, "Thus it must be assumed that this figure is made up entirely of neutral vessels, which it is a known German custom to attack and seize illegally, plus fictitious additions by the department of Mr. Goebbels [Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda minister]."

The admiralty announced that 431 British merchant seamen had been killed and 235 wounded up to Jan. 31. It said it was pressing new arrangements for the protection of shipping from low flying German planes.

BRITISH TANKER, FRENCH STEAMER SUNK BY MINES

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Loss of a British tanker and a French steamer was announced here tonight. Sinking of the tanker British Councillor, 7,048 tons, in the North sea Sunday night after striking a mine was disclosed when all the members of the crew of 43 were landed at a southeast port. The 25 crewmen, mostly Senegalese, from the French steamer Marie Dawn, 2,156 tons, also were landed at a British port today. The ship sank in the North sea after hitting a mine. The 3,847 ton British freighter Highcliffe was reported ashore tonight on the northern coast of England.

NO PEACE WITH NAZIS! BRITISH LABORITES VOW

Party Board Issues Plea to German People.

LONDON, Feb. 8 (AP).—Great Britain's labor millions, thru the national executive committee of the Labor party, declared tonight unequivocally against peace negotiations with any Nazi government in Germany.

Hugh Dalton, British Labor party leader.

A document giving the war purposes and peace aims of the chief opposition British party demanded as a condition for ending the war actual acts of restitution and freedom for Poles and Czecho-Slovaks. Austria should be allowed to choose for herself whether to be in or outside the reich, it said.

The statement is to be submitted to the party's national conference in May for debate and adoption.

Attack on Finns Condemned.

Hugh Dalton, party spokesman, said the statement was more specific on war and peace aims than any definition of policy by the Chamberlain government. The latter, he said, never had gone so far in declaring against peace negotiations with the Nazi régime.

On this point the statement said:

"The Labor party is convinced that the allies ought not enter into peace negotiations except with a German government which has not merely promised but actually performed certain acts of restitution. In view of the experience of recent years no one can trust a Nazi government honestly to perform such acts or to abstain from future aggression."

Any peace treaty which will bring lasting peace to Europe, the statement said, must "succeed in reconciling the French claim to security with the German claim to equality."

Urges Association of States.

The statement demanded that the peace establish a new association or commonwealth of states, which should "control such military and economic power as will enable it to enforce peaceful behavior."

Dalton personally expressed hope a way would be found for the United States to participate in such an association.

"We do not seek the humiliation or dismemberment of your country," said the statement, addressed directly to the German people.

"If you establish a government sincerely willing that Germany shall be a good neighbor and a good European there shall be no humiliation or revenge."

OFFICE BURGLARIZED; 2 HELD.

Police were holding Joseph Baumstack, 2058 Magnolia avenue, yesterday after he was surprised prowling in the office of the Jeffers Coal company, 2055 Fullerton avenue. Joseph Franks, 511 Armitage avenue, was arrested later as an alleged accomplice of Baumstack in the burglary.

POLES SAY AMERICANS WERE SLAIN BY NAZIS IN MASS EXECUTION

PARIS, Feb. 8 (AP).—Polish authorities in Paris, in continuing charges of mass executions by Germans in Poland, have asserted two American citizens, a man named Szczygiel and his 19 year old son, were among the victims in a "massacre" at Wawer, near Warsaw.

They charged one out of every 10 inhabitants of Wawer was shot. The date was not given. The Polish information service said it had no additional information on the Americans.

TWO CLEWS TO IDENTITIES.

Paris reports of the execution of two Americans in Poland yesterday brought two possible identifications. In Passaic, N. J., a steamship ticket agent recalled a John Szczygiel and his son, Stephen, had applied in 1932 for passports to Wawer, Poland. It was understood the elder man had taken out first citizenship papers. In Connellsville, Pa., George Szczygiel of Everson said he believed the Americans reported slain were his first cousin, Anthony Szczygiel, and Anthony's 19 year old son, born in Poland to his second wife after Szczygiel returned there in 1917 after separating from his first wife in America.

A. F. OF L. BLAMES LEWIS FOR LACK OF LABOR PEACE

Calls on Roosevelt to Bare C. I. O.'s Attitude.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 8.—A direct appeal to President Roosevelt to disclose the reasons for the breakdown of peace negotiations between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial organizations was made today by the executive council of the federation. The council placed the blame squarely on John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., and said there should be an official statement by Mr. Roosevelt to that effect.

William Green, president of the A. F. of L., sent the following telegram to Roosevelt at the White House:

"The executive council of the American Federation of Labor now meeting in Miami respectfully requests that you make public the answers made by the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O. to your appeal that peace negotiations be resumed. The executive council feels as a matter of simple justice that this information should be given to labor and to the people of our nation so that responsibility for failure to resume peace negotiations as you requested shall be placed where it properly belongs."

Sees President Three Times.

Green has had three recent conferences with President Roosevelt at the latter's request on the subject of resuming the peace parleys. These were on Nov. 9, Dec. 6, and Jan. 16. After each one he made public what he had told the President—that the A. F. of L. was ready and willing to talk peace, but that Lewis has given no indication that he will do so.

"President Roosevelt has also interviewed the leader of the C. I. O. [Lewis] several times recently," read a report adopted unanimously by the A. F. of L. council today. "No public response was forthcoming from that individual.

"At his last conference at the White House [Jan. 16] President Green asked President Roosevelt whether he had received a favorable response from the leader of the C. I. O. President Roosevelt indicated that he had as yet been unable to prevail upon the leader of the C. I. O. to accede.

Assumes Lewis to Blame.

"We must assume that if the leader of the C. I. O. had agreed to resume negotiations we would have been informed long before this and peace negotiations already would have been under way. Thus we must draw the inescapable conclusion that the C. I. O. leader persists in his obdurate refusal.

"The responsibility for blocking progress toward the restoration of peace in organized labor therefore must fall upon one man, Mr. John L. Lewis.

"The working people of our country, the press, and the public at large are asking why peace negotiations are not resumed. As a matter of simple justice, the truth should be told to them. The President of the United States can do it. In the opinion of the executive council the time has arrived when the President of the United States should make the facts known.

"We therefore respectfully request him to issue a public statement on this matter so that the responsibility for continuation of the division which exists in the ranks of labor can be placed where it properly belongs."

Charge Lewis Wrecks Parley.

In reviewing the history of the A. F. of L.-C. I. O. negotiations, the council said that the first time Lewis "deliberately wrecked efforts to restore unity to the family of labor" was in December, 1938.

At that time committees for both organizations had reached a unanimous agreement on a settlement. This provided that the nine unions which originally seceded from the A. F. of L. to form the C. I. O. were to return to the A. F. of L. and keep their increased memberships and their jurisdictional extensions. The new unions in the C. I. O. were to confer with A. F. of L. unions in the same crafts and work out mergers.

Lewis vetoed this plan at the last minute. Last March, at President Roosevelt's request, the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. again appointed committees for negotiations. There were several committee meetings, the last on April 4.

Roosevelt Makes Plea.

The next day Lewis informed the A. F. of L. that he and his associates would have to postpone the talks because of other business. He promised to notify the A. F. of L. when the talks would be resumed, but has not done so in the last ten months.

Last August, Lewis, at a press conference, said that as far as he was concerned peace with the A. F. of L. was "impossible." The next development was in October when President Roosevelt addressed a plea to the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. conventions to resume the negotiations.

The A. F. of L. convention informed the President it was ready. But the C. I. O. convention ignored his communication. Then followed Roosevelt's personal meetings with Green and Lewis.

"When Lewis left his conference with the President," Green said, "Lewis refused to say what had happened. I can only presume he told the President there would be no peace. We are entitled to have the President tell us just what did happen.

"There is no present basis for peace under consideration. But the A. F. of L. has made no ultimatums. We are ready to explore bases for peace at conferences with the C. I. O."

FREE 4 ACCUSED IN GOON SLAYING OF GARAGE MAN

Four men arrested in connection with the fatal slugging of Marinus Hvid, north side garage owner, who was fatally beaten by labor goons on Dec. 27, were dismissed yesterday by Judge Joseph J. Drucker in Felony court at the request of State's Attorney Courtney's office.

Assistant State's Attorney William V. Crawford, in asking that the men be freed of asasult charges, said extensive investigation failed to disclose evidence which would link the men with the slaying. They are Frank Dougherty, a former employé in Hvid's garage; Charles E. Gilliam, colored; Roy McDowell, and Alex Schragel. The three latter were pickets for the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers and Garage Helpers' union which picketed Hvid's garage at 3514 North Halsted street.

Hvid was killed with a baseball bat while engaged in a dispute with the union. In a subsequent investigation police sought to learn if there is any connection between the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, a garage owners' association with which Hvid also had a dispute, and the union. No clew to the slayers has been found.

Even the Cabinet Members Are Heckled, Britons Told

BACK IN U. S., SHE TELLS OF HORROR IN POLAND'S FALL

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Isabelle Lucy Potocki, 24 years old, of Baltimore, arrived today from Poland with borrowed clothes and tales of her weird adventures during the German invasion of Poland.

Among unforgettable sights, she said, was the spectacle of Jews in German concentration camps "with their hair cut in the shape of swastikas."

Miss Potocki, whose father was a Polish army major, while her mother is an American, said she came back home hoping to find peace and security after nightmare weeks of dodging German bombs and machine gun bullets which killed 12 members of her family.

MADDEN REVEALS NLRB LOBBIED IN SENATE, HOUSE

Chairman Tells How He Encouraged Practice.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP)—The labor relations board was pictured by its own chairman today as a lobbyist before congress for the workers to whom the Wagner act applies.

J. Warren Madden, the chairman, acknowledged before a house investigating committee that he had given the board's regional directors a short course in how best to influence the national legislature.

Urged to Write Senator.

Madden said, too, that he had seen an appeal sent out by a former employé of the board to its regional directors, urging them to get local unions of the American Federation of Labor to write their senators and representatives in opposition to Wagner act amendments proposed by the A. F. of L.'s national convention.

Chairman Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] and Representative Harry N. Routzohn [R., Ohio] of the committee immediately questioned the propriety of the board's activities, while Madden defended them.

The committee also received evidence that the board had given temporary jobs on its staff to two men who had previously applauded the C. I. O. and negotiated for positions with it.

Seeks Job with C. I. O.

Edmund M. Toland, counsel for the committee, produced letters which he said had been found in the personal file of James G. Ewell, former business man and attorney at Buffalo, N. Y., who for a time was a trial examiner for the labor board. One of these, addressed to John L. Lewis, suggested that Ewell might be of service as an organizer for Lewis in the steel mills, and Toland produced additional letters in which the Buffalo man sought positions with the C. I. O.

The committee also received evidence that the board employed J. Raymond Walsh, economist and writer, as a trial examiner temporarily altho it knew that he had written a book about the C. I. O. and that he had previously been conferring with C. I. O. officials about possible employment with them.

MRS. FRANKLIN MILLER.

Boonville, Ind., Feb. 8 [Special].—A prize of $1,000 offered in a national contest to select the best three act play based on Abraham Lincoln's boyhood in Indiana was presented to Mrs. Franklin Miller, 1500 Lake Shore drive, Chicago, at a banquet here tonight. The play is called "Marked Corners."

The prize was offered by the Southwest Indiana Civic association. A total of 177 plays were submitted. Twenty of these were sent to New York, where professional judges cut the number to five. Indiana judges then made their selection from this number.

Mrs. Miller, who writes under the pen name of Francesca F. Miller, came to Evansville, Ind., by plane from Palm Beach, Fla., where she has been wintering with her husband. She was then driven by automobile to Boonville, the locale of her play. Mrs. Miller has published several books of poetry and has also written lyrics which have been set to the music of Carrie Jacobs Bond.

SING LEE FACES CHOICE: FAMILY HONOR OR $240

On Jan. 7 his son, Hing Lee, 29 years old, left the laundry. With him he took $1,581 that belonged to Sing. Last week Hing Lee was arrested in San Francisco, Cal., and yesterday he arrived in Chicago, guarded by Policeman Thomas O'Connell of the Lawndale station. Of the money, $1,243 was returned to Sing Lee; the prodigal son had spent the rest.

Hing is to appear today in the Felony court. If he is convicted of larceny the family name will suffer, but if he is acquitted his father must pay $240 to cover the expense of bringing him back.

"I'll be there to prosecute," said Sing Lee.

BOY, 5, KILLED BY AUTO.

Strawberry Point, Ia., Feb. 8 [Special].—Five year old Kenneth Luse, youngest of 10 children of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Luse, was killed last night when struck by an automobile driven by Leonard Nickoley, high school music instructor. The child had just alighted from his father's automobile and ran into the path of Nickoley's car, officials said.

FURNITURE UNION JOINS C. I. O. AFTER ROW WITH A. F. L.

500 Vote; Police Squads Guard Meeting.

Members of a local furniture workers' union, at a hectic meeting in the Workers' lyceum, 3202 Ogden avenue, voted last night to leave the American Federation of Labor and affiliate with the Congress of Industrial Organizations. More than 500 members were present. They voiced their preference by a standing vote.

Their action, taken under guard of police squads on hand to preserve order, climaxed a day of activity which began when officials of the union, local 18-B of the Furniture Workers and Finishers, barricaded themselves in their headquarters at 1575 Ogden avenue.

There they resisted an order from the New York headquarters of the A. F. of L. international union, suspending local officers who were accused of planning to lead the rank and file members into the C. I. O. union—the United Furniture Workers of America.

Communist Link Charged.

"Our purpose is not to mislead the workers," declared Richard Rochester, president of the Chicago Upholsterers City council and representative of the international union. "We are merely attempting to keep them from affiliating with a communist organization. The Dies committee definitely proved that the U. F. W. A. is communistic."

Rochester tried to enter the union headquarters in the morning to take charge, but was refused admittance.

Sergt. George Barnes, head of the new racket squad, was in charge of the police at last night's meeting. Hecklers prevented the session from getting under way. From the rear of the crowded hall came demands that an American flag be shown on the stage. "We're Americans and we want our flag," shouted one man. A flag was brought in, but the shouting continued.

Order Hall Cleared.

George Leach, a business agent of the union who presided, then ordered the hall cleared. By this time a crowd of 200 or more had appeared outside the hall, demanding admittance. Union agents stood at the door, and, when the hall was empty, allowed only those to reënter who had membership cards for local 18-B.

Leach and other local officials then attacked the A. F. of L. international officers, charging they had never supported the local. Promises of C. I. O. support and an outline of C. I. O. achievements were then given by Morris Muster, president of the U. F. W. A., and Jack Hochstadt, secretary-treasurer.

The standing vote was then taken, and it was overwhelmingly for the U. F. W. A. Only three men voted to remain with the A. F. of L.

The local officials, ordered suspended yesterday, were Joseph Pavlicek, president; A. C. Saunders, corresponding secretary; Peter Prusa, financial secretary; John Zimny, treasurer; Nicholas Blattner, Sam Sloan, and Leach, business agents.

Two British Cruisers Refuel in South American Ports

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Feb. 8.—The British cruisers Shropshire and Dorsetshire arrived at Montevideo and Buenos Aires, respectively, today to refuel and reprovision. The 10,000 ton warship will be permitted to stay in the harbors only 24 hours. It is the first visit of both cruisers to South American ports since they joined the British South Atlantic squadron to replace the cruisers Exeter and Ajax, both of which were damaged in the fight with the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee off the Uruguayan coast Dec. 13.

CATHOLICS CALL FOR REBIRTH OF GUILD SYSTEM

Way to Social and Moral Unity, Say Prelates.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—Sixteen prelates of the Catholic church in America called today for the reëstablishment of a guild system, "which will bind men together in society according to their respective occupations, thus creating moral unity."

With this, they declared, a reform of morals and a profound renewal of the Christian spirit will aid the nation to effect social reconstruction.

Under the guild or corporative system both employers and employés would be organized [as Pope Pius XI. suggested] "not according to the position they occupy in the labor market, but according to the diverse functions which they exercise in society."

[Guilds governed the craftsmen of Europe during the middle ages.]

Two Extremes Rejected.

Rejecting both extreme individualism and collectivism in government policy, the archbishops and bishops who comprise the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare conference declared:

"Our economic life must be reorganized not on the disintegrating principles of individualism but on the constructive principle of social and moral unity among the members of human society."

In "The Church and the Social Order," a 34 page statement on conditions in the United States, the prelates presented what Catholic sources considered their response to the recent encyclical which Pope Pius XII. addressed to the church in the United States.

The welfare conference called it "the most important utterance made by the Catholic hierarchy since the bishops' program of reconstruction of 1919."

Some Specific Demands.

The prelates declared that:

"The state must regulate the social responsibility of property so that the burden of providing for the common good is equitably distributed.

"To protect its rights labor must be free to bargain collectively, but the principle of force is equally wrong when used by labor or capital.

"Security of the workingman as against unemployment, old age, sickness, accident, and death, must be frankly accepted as a social responsibility of industry jointly with society.

"A living wage must provide decent support both for the workingman and his family, and must make possible savings to meet unemployment, sickness, death, and old age."

Surveying the entire field of economic life, the prelates said:

"It is manifestly impossible to expect good economic order if wages, prices, working conditions, and the public good are left to chance or to the haphazard methods of so-called free enterprise."

While the state cannot be relegated to the rôle of mere policeman or umpire, however, the prelates declared, "the state has been encumbered with all the burdens once borne by associations now extinct." [Presumably the guilds.]

"In conformity with Christian principles," they said, "economic power must be subordinated to human welfare, both individual and social; social incoherence and class conflict must be replaced by corporate unity and organic function; ruthless competition must give way to just and reasonable state regulations; sordid selfishness must be superseded by social justice and charity."

Argument for Guilds.

Chief qualifications of the guilds, the prelates said, are that "they are autonomous, embrace whole industries and professions, are federated with other constituent groups, possess the right of free organization, assembly and vote, and that they should dedicate themselves to the common good and with governmental protection and assistance function in the establishment of justice and the general welfare."

The prelates said the state itself and the existing free organizations of economic life should prepare the way for the "ideal type of vocational groups."

Prelates who signed the document were:

Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago [chairman]; John Gregory Murray, archbishop of St. Paul, Minn.; Joseph R. Rummel, archbishop of New Orleans, La.; John Mark Gannon, bishop of Erie, Pa.; Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Francis C. Kelley, bishop of Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla.; John B. Peterson, bishop of Manchester, N. H.; Edwin V. O'Hara, bishop of Kansas City, Mo.; John A. Duffy, bishop of Buffalo, N. Y.

Edward F. Hoban, bishop of Rockford, Ill.; Emmet M. Walsh, bishop of Charleston, W. Va.; Karl J. Alter, bishop of Toledo, O.; Charles Hubert Le Blond, bishop of St. Joseph, Mo.; Francis P. Keough, bishop of Providence, R. I.; Walter A. Foery, bishop of Syracuse, N. Y.; Bartholomew J. Eustace, bishop of Camden, N. J.

Japs Claim Victory

The Japanese yesterday reported their troops had captured the walled city of Wuming (1). Foreign observers confirmed Chinese reports that Chinese artillery had sunk a Japanese transport on the Yangtze river (2).

HONGKONG, Feb. 8 (AP).—Japanese reported today that their forces had captured the walled city of Wuming, about 30 miles north of Nanning, in Kwangsi province, as beleaguered China celebrated the advent of the Chinese New Year.

Bolster Chinese Claims.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 8 (AP).—Foreign military observers said today there was basis, despite Japanese denials, for believing Chinese reports that Chinese artillery had sunk a Japanese transport and killed 300 men in the Yangtze river 30 miles above Kiukiang.

Foreign sources said they had responsible information that Chinese operations along the Yangtze, particularly on the south shore between Wuhu and Kiukiang, were becoming increasingly strong. These reports said a new Chinese army, based in southern Anhwei province below the river, was virtually unopposed and had been harassing Japanese shipping.

CHAS. H. DENNIS, EDITOR, FETED ON 80TH BIRTHDAY

Charles H. Dennis, editor emeritus of the Chicago Daily News, was honored yesterday—his 80th birthday—at a luncheon in the Union League club. He has been associated with the newspaper for 59 years.

John A. Dienner, chairman of the Union League's committee on public affairs, presided. Nicholas J. Conrad, former president of the club, paid tribute to Dennis' long devotion to Chicago and civic betterment.

Paul Scott Mowrer, successor to Dennis as editor, presented him with a set of Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln, the War Years," on behalf of the editorial staff. A letter praising Dennis' career, sent by the newspaper's publisher, Frank Knox, was read. He was out of the city.

Candidate Hopes More Will Enter Primary.

After conferring with Illinois Republican leaders at the Palmer House and dining with relatives he departed at 11:15 p. m. on the Milwaukee road for a tour of the Pacific northwest and the west. His specific destination is Portland, Ore., where he will make a Lincoln day address Monday night.

Believes in Public Choice.

Acoompanying Dewey are Paul E. Lockwood, his executive assistant as district attorney at New York, and William S. Murray, chairman of the New York state Republican committee.

The candidate was quick to comment on his entrance into the Illinois primary campaign.

"I believe the people should have a voice in the selection of candidates for public office," he said. "That is the essence of our system of government. Because I believe in that system I have entered the Illinois primary and submitted my name to the people of Illinois.

"I trust the people will be given opportunity to make their own selection from among those who expect their names to be submitted to the Republican national convention."

Asked if he expects to make an active campaign in Illinois, Dewey replied:

"I hope I am given a chance to make an active campaign in Illinois by having some one to run against." [The candidate had not been informed at that time that Representative Hamilton Fish of New York may file at Springfield today.]

Dewey expressed amazement at the response to his nominating petition in the presidential preference primary in this state. His cousin, Leonard C. Reid, reported that 1,000 precinct committeemen outside Cook county already have returned their lists of 25 names each.

50,000 Sign, Says Cousin.

Counting the petitions returned by Cook county ward committeemen, more than 50,000 names have been received, he continued. A minimum of 3,000, or a maximum of 5,000 names is required. Reid said that he sent return envelopes on which no postage is required to the downstate committeemen and that hundreds of these affixed special delivery stamps to their returns and requested additional petitions.

Because the train upon which he arrived from the east was more than an hour late, Dewey cut short the Palmer House conference to have dinner at the Reid home, 4810 South Ellis avenue, where he once lived when he was connected with Mr. Reid's law firm.

First Stop in Montana.

During his campaign swing thru the Pacific northwest and the west Dewey will make six stops. His first will be at Butte, Mont., tomorrow. He will spend most of Sunday in Spokane, Wash., before continuing on to Portland.

He will start the homeward journey Tuesday, pausing at Salt Lake City, Utah, on Wednesday, Feb. 14; Boise, Idaho, Feb. 15, and Cheyenne, Wyo., on Feb. 16. An overnight stop will be made at Cheyenne.

Chicago will see the New York prosecutor again on Feb. 18, but he plans no speech here. On the following day he will be back at home.

PLANE HITS TREE IN SNOWSTORM; 1 KILLED, 1 HURT

One man was killed and another was critically injured yesterday afternoon when the plane in which they were riding crashed into a tree close to the farm home of Archibald Cornett, north of Hobart, Ind., and only a short distance from Gary.

Samuel Delvatore, 22 years old, of 529 Price street, Calumet City, lost his life. The injured man, taken to the Methodist hospital in Gary, is Ravell Deckema, 23, of Hobart. He is the holder of a private pilot's license. Delvatore, who was at the controls, was a flying student.

Members of the Cornett family said that they heard the engine of the plane, a Piper Cub, running just before the crash. It is believed that the two men lost their bearings in mist and snow and were trying to land when the accident occurred. One of the wings struck the roof of the farmhouse as it sheered round after striking the tree. The plane had taken off from the Hobart airport several hours earlier.

GARNER AND FISH MAY FILE TODAY IN STATE PRIMARY

Vice President's Backers Rush Petition.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Two presidential preference petitions may be filed today with Secretary of State Hughes at Springfield—those of Vice President John Nance Garner and of Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York.

Garner supporters were busy yesterday trying to gather at least the 3,000 signatures required to place the name of the Vice President on the Democratic ballot before the deadline tonight. It is understood advisers who urged this step believed they had until Feb. 19 to complete a petition. Discovery of the error—based on the fact that state and county candidates have 10 more days on which to file—started the Chicago group to work at double time.

Garner Refuses Comment.

Whether a statement of candidacy signed by the Vice President is on its way to Chicago could not be learned. Garner met all inquiries at Washington with a "no comment" reply. Julius F. Smietanka, Chicago attorney who was collector of internal revenue during the Wilson administration, was said to be in charge of activities here, but he declined to discuss what was going on.

The best opinion among those informed on the subject was that the Garner petition will be filed late today and that it probably will include the formal certificate of candidacy required of all candidates under the Illinois primary law.

The petition filed in President Roosevelt's name by the Nash-Kelly organization lacked that certificate of candidacy, and the organization has indicated its readiness to place the Roosevelt name on the ballot regardless of the law unless the President forbids it. If the Garner petition is filed and includes a certificate, it is reported, the Garner supporters will go into court and attack the Roosevelt petition if it is not completed by the addition of a certificate.

Fish Petition Incomplete.

The same question whether a certificate signed by the candidate is necessary will arise in connection with Congressman Fish's petition which is already at Springfield in the hands of Leslie Wheeler-Reid of Chicago. It does not include a certificate, and if it is filed in its present form, it is contended, the Democrats will accept it because of the Roosevelt petition.

The Thomas E. Dewey petition already on file includes a certificate signed by the New York prosecutor, but it is understood the Dewey supporters do not intend to attack the Fish petition regardless of its legal status.

Filed During Day.

Petitions filed at Springfield during the day follow:

STATE REPRESENTATIVE—27th district, Democratic, Felix S. Lewandowski, 1636 North Greenview avenue, Chicago; 39th district, Democratic, Leonard W. Peck, R. F. D. No. 1, Grand Ridge.

FILE ROOSEVELT PAPERS.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 8 [Special].—The Democratic Party organization of Wisconsin, the New Deal group headed by Gustav Keller, Appleton, and Edward P. Curry, Milwaukee, today filed petitions with the secretary of state here to nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt for a third term as president. The Wisconsin law does not require the consent of the nominee and the petition insures that Wisconsin will provide a test of third term sentiment in an advisory presidential preference primary April 2.

Petitions were also filed nominating four candidates for delegates at large pledged to Roosevelt or a candidate of his selection and for a partial list of district delegates.

HOTEL STEVENS MADE HEADQUARTERS FOR DEMOCRATIC POWWOW

The center of national political convention activities in Chicago was shifted yesterday from the Congress hotel, where it had been since shortly after the turn of the century. It was moved farther south in Michigan avenue to the Hotel Stevens.

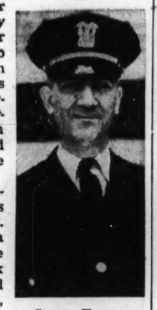
Oliver A. Quayle Jr.

Oliver A. Quayle Jr., treasurer of the Democratic national committee, made the change. He came to Chicago to look over the situation as a result of the committee's decision to hold its 1940 convention here.

"Because the convention will be the largest in the history of either party," said Treasurer Quayle before leaving on an afternoon train to Washington, "we felt the committee would need a large hotel for its headquarters. The fact that the Stevens has ample accommodations was the deciding factor in the choice."

ALLMAN NAMES BOYLE, HOMER POLICE CAPTAINS

Two policemen with almost parallel careers were appointed captains by Commissioner Allman yesterday in an order which also created seven new lieutenants and 15 new sergeants. Eighty-eight patrolmen were appointed from the eligible list.



George Homer.

The newly appointed captains are Mark F. Boyle, recently a lieutenant at the Brighton Park station, and George Homer, who has been serving as a lieutenant at the Austin station. Both were assigned to headquarters.

Boyle lives at 8119 Eberhart avenue with his wife and two children. He is 46 years old. He became a policeman on Oct. 28, 1922, was promoted to sergeant Dec. 31, 1928, and to lieutenant Jan. 2, 1936. He was in the navy during the world war.

Homer will be 46 years old tomorrow. He also is married, has two children, and lives at 245 North Mason avenue. He joined the department in April, 1919, was made a sergeant Dec. 24, 1927, and a lieutenant on the same day as Boyle, Jan. 2, 1936. He was in the army during the war.

Among the new lieutenants is Sergt. Andrew Aitken, former head of the bomb squad. The other appointees and the stations to which they were assigned are Michael J. Ryan, East Side; Edwin C. Johnson, Englewood; Edward J. Harrity, Rogers Park; Albert W. Anderson, Woodlawn; Michael Cleary, Austin, and William J. Smith, Brighton Park.

TEST CENSUS REVEALS SCARCITY OF JOBS FOR PERSONS IN TEEN AGES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 [Special].—The tendency of city populations to move into surrounding suburban areas, scarcity of jobs for persons in teen ages, and a sharp increase in the number of married women at work or seeking employment were revealed in the tabulations of a special census made public today by Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins.

The census was taken last August in St. Joseph and Marshall counties in Indiana—both considered representative of metropolitan and rural life thruout the nation—to test proposed questions and enumerating techniques for the nationwide population census beginning next April 1.

Secretary Hopkins said the two counties showed slight increases in population as compared with 1930 figures. The larger cities showed population losses, but their outskirts picked up sharply.

A movement to bring Municipal Judge John Gutknecht into the Democratic primary race for state's attorney was announced yesterday by a recently organized committee of which Attorney Raymond F. Hayes is temporary chairman.

The names of a score of members of the committee which were made public included Dr. John A. Lapp, Ald. Earl B. Dickerson, William E. Rodriguez, and Prof. Malcolm P. Sharp. The announcement said that a telegram had been sent to Judge Gutknecht asking approval of the committee's activities. Headquarters will be opened in the Morrison hotel this noon.

Judge Oscar F. Nelson, a candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney, will open his headquarters in the Hotel Sherman tomorrow afternoon.

REDS' SECRETARY ON TRIAL FOR PASSPORT FRAUD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 8.—Welwel Warszower, otherwise known as Robert W. Weiner, financial secretary of the communist party, president of the International Workers order and vice president of World Tourist, Inc., went on trial today for passport fraud in the same courtroom where Earl Browder, his chief, was convicted on a similar charge two weeks ago and sentenced to four years in prison and fined $2,000.

Attorney Stanley Fowler, in his opening address, said the defendant really is Weiner and an American citizen, but had lived in Russia for many years believing he was Warszower. Arriving as an immigrant in 1914, Weiner said he was Warszower, and when he went abroad on an alien's passport in 1932 he still believed he was Warszower, the attorney added. In 1936 he became aware that he was Weiner and obtained a birth certificate from the commissioner of records in Atlantic City, N. J. It was on this basis that he obtained a passport as Weiner on July 18, 1936.

Assistant United States Attorney Robert L. Werner had charged that the entry in the birth register in Atlantic City was a palpable and clumsy forgery made many years after the date of the supposed birth.

FINISH DRAFTING NEW RULES FOR MUNICIPAL COURT

A redraft of the Municipal court rules has been completed by a committee of lawyers and judges and will be submitted to the judges of the court in a few weeks, it was announced yesterday. The new rules will simplify and reduce the number now in effect.

The committee was formed because of complaints that the 312 rules of the court were too numerous and complicated. The new rules will conform in most instances with those of the civil practice act which are the basis of regulations in the Circuit and Superior courts. There will be 35 additional rules to meet the needs of practice in the Municipal court.

Riding Master Makes Bond in Wife Abandonment Case

William C. Booth of Libertyville, a riding master, was arraigned before Magistrate Michael J. Haney of Waukegan yesterday on a charge of wife abandonment. He waived examination and was held to the Lake county grand jury in bond of $1,000. The complainant in the case is Booth's second wife, Helen. Pending is a charge of disorderly conduct, placed by Mrs. Booth against the riding master and his first wife, Elizabeth Merrill Booth. The second wife is seeking a divorce.

presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

THE START OF A GREAT UNIVERSITY

By CALEB

AS LONG ago as July 4, 1857, the cornerstone was laid for a Chicago University located on a ten-acre site west of Cottage Grove Avenue and south of 31st Street, given to it from a considerable tract of land owned there by Senator Stephen A. Douglas. The Senator's stipulation was that it should be a $100,000 building, built of Athenian marble—two wings connected by corridors, with spacious accommodations for offices, classrooms, libraries and societies, gymnasium and chapel, as well as space for student dormitories.

By July of 1859, its first commencement had been held; but the financial panic of '57, the Civil War, the great Fire of '71, and the panic of '73, dogged it with disaster. By 1885 it had succumbed to overwhelming debt; title to its land reverted to an insurance company holding the mortgage; and its yellow-walled building stood desolate. Meantime, the Baptist Theological Seminary, established there in 1867, had transferred to Morgan Park in 1877, and brought William Rainey Harper to its chair of Hebrew in 1879.

Nine years later, at Vassar, Dr. Harper and John D. Rockefeller, Sr., met. Talk turned to the defunct Chicago University—and Mr. Rockefeller expressed his interest in an educational project to replace it. In May of 1889 his interest became a specific proposal: an endowment of $600,000, conditioned on matching that sum with $400,000 to be raised among subscribers satisfactory to himself and the American Baptist Educational Society.

Immediately arose the question of a suitable site. Dr. Thomas W. Goodspeed and Frederick T. Gates, then corresponding secretary of the Baptist Educational Society, after many inspections, agreed on an ideal location—unoccupied ground fronting on the Midway Plaisance between Washington and Jackson Parks—and after a hospitable interview with its owner, Marshall Field, the latter donated ten acres of his holdings to the new project, just fifty years ago this past January. Later gifts of his included ten more acres "for an athletic field," in 1899, and $100,000 in 1905.

Welcome benefactions totaling several millions came from many similarly famous donors: William B. Ogden, Silas Cobb, LaVerne W. Noyes, C. K. G. Billings, the Rosenwalds, and Rockefeller; and on July 1, 1891, Dr. Harper formally assumed presidency of the present University of Chicago. . . . Thus, as Dr. Goodspeed later phrased it, "Out of a soil made rich and productive by earlier institutions" flowered a great seat of learning—an educational center today accommodating some seven thousand students from all parts of the world, and representing an investment of more than $125,000,000.

NEW DEAL PUTS 423,691 MORE ON U. S. PAY ROLLS

Total Boosted to 987,538 in Seven Years.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—The federal pay roll reached an all time high last December, the United States civil service commission reported today.

The total number of employés on Dec. 31 stood at 987,538. This figure was almost 50,000 in advance of the previous record of 939,876 set on Sept. 30. The figures are exclusive of the employés of the military, legislative, and judicial establishments.

With the number on the pay roll nearing the million mark, federal workers drew $152,331,559 in salary checks.

Roosevelt Adds 423,691.

The civil service pay roll figures show that President Roosevelt has almost doubled the federal pay roll. On March 4, 1933, when he was inaugurated, the pay roll stood at 563,847. In less than seven years in office the Roosevelt administration has added workers at the rate of about 60,000 a year. The net increase under the New Deal is 423,691.

The records also showed that the pay roll has forged ahead steadily under the reorganization plan, which was advanced in the interests of economy. It has added 101,772 employés to the roll.

On April 30, five days after the President sent his executive order promulgating his sweeping reorganization program to give the nation more efficiency in government, the pay roll stood at 885,766 workers.

In eight months of operation the plan has added to the federal pay roll at the rate of about 15,000 a month. In the eight months the pay roll has risen from approximately 133 million dollars to 152 million dollars.

Promises Cut; Gives Increase.

In his reorganization message to congress of last April 25 Mr. Roosevelt promised a reduction of between 15 and 20 million dollars in administration expenses.

Of the 987,538 persons on the rolls in December, 127,597 were at work in the District of Columbia and 859,941 outside the capital.

Year.	Employés.	Year.	Employés.
1816	6,327	1934	673,095
1861	49,200	1935	719,440
1881	107,000	1936	824,259
1901	256,000	1937	889,550
1916	438,058	1938	917,303
1918	917,760	1939	987,583
1933	563,847

The commission report said the large increase in the pay roll over the Nov. 30 total of 932,641 was due to the Christmas rush in the post-office department.

New Deal Adds More to Pay Roll

Comparison of employes of the federal government from 1816 to the end of 1939. Total number of employes stood at 987,538 last Dec. 31, an all-time high.

SIXTH KINSMAN TO GET U. S. JOB FROM PRESIDENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—The nomination of David Gray of Florida, an uncle by marriage of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, to be minister to Ireland was expected today to encounter no opposition in the senate.

Gray will be the sixth member of the family in the government service, including President Roosevelt. Two other members of the clan who received high posts have died and a third, James, the President's eldest son, has gone on to more lucrative fields.

At the outset of his administration Mr. Roosevelt, following a tradition which had seen himself and Theodore Roosevelt in the chair of the under secretary of the navy, named Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, a cousin, to the $9,000 a year post. The assistant secretary died in 1937 and was succeeded by Charles Edison, now secretary.

Cousin and Wife Get Jobs.

Another cousin, Warren Delano Robbins, was named minister to Canada at $10,000 a year. He died in the spring of 1935. Two years later Mrs. Irene De Bryun Robbins, the minister's widow, was given a job as assistant chief of the office of foreign service buildings.

After taking the oath of office as decorator for the American ambassies, ministries, and consulates thruout the world, she was put on the pay roll at $6,500 a year. Mrs. Robbins, who was known before chiefly for dyeing her hair lavender, heliotrope, and other colors to suit her moods, has said she decorates largely by instinct.

A distant cousin, Preston Delano, controler of the currency, gets $15,000 a year and James H. Houghteling of Chicago, commissioner of immigration and naturalization, $9,000.

Frederic A. Delano, who is Houghteling's father-in-law and the President's uncle, holds down eight honorary posts on various commissions and planning bodies, which pay him only traveling expenses. He is in danger of losing the directorship of the national resources planning board in the economy drive of the senate and house.

Son Quits for Film Job.

James Roosevelt had two jobs. He first got into government service when he was commissioned a lieutenant colonel of the marine reserve by his father and drew full pay for active service when he accompanied his father on a visit to South America in 1936.

A few months later Jimmy entered his father's official family in the post of secretary at $10,000 a year. He resigned the post to enter the motion picture industry.

19 BUILD FRAUD CASE AGAINST 1ST WARD VOTE BOARD

Nineteen witnesses appeared in County court yesterday to testify before Judge Edmund K. Jarecki about irregularities in the 16th precinct of the 1st ward in the judicial election last June. Four polls officials of that precinct are on trial for contempt of court.

Nine witnesses testified that they did not vote in the election, altho their signed application cards appeared in the records. The others testified that they voted the straight Republican ticket. Only seven straight Republican tickets were counted.

PRESIDENT GETS FIRST BILL HIT BY ECONOMY AX

Two Other Trimmed Ones Passed in Congress.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8 (AP).—President Roosevelt received from congress today the first major measure to feel the heavy economy ax being swung at the capitol this session, a $251,822,588 appropriation for national defense—$19,658,747 under his request.

Congressional action on the bill was completed when the house accepted senate cuts of $12,270,000 without a record vote. The measure carries funds for extra expenses, such as the neutrality patrol, due to the European war.

Two Other Bills Slashed.

Economy advocates held the whip hand in action during the day on two other measures.

The house approved and sent to the senate a $107,225,660 appropriation for the state, commerce, and justice departments, and the federal courts, which was $2,438,350 less than the President had asked.

The senate voted an appropriation of $1,139,783,528 for various independent agencies, which was $39,596,261 more than approved by the house, but was still $54,920,945 less than the President's budget estimates. A joint committee will seek a compromise between house and senate provisions.

Anti-Red Moves Balked.

Passage followed two futile attempts to write in provisions aimed at forcing the administration to break off diplomatic relations with soviet Russia. One of the defeated provisions would have withheld the salary of the United States ambassador to Moscow; another would have denied use of any state department money for maintenance of an embassy in the soviets.

Just before final passage, the house refused, 134 to 211, to send the bill back to committee with instructions to deduct $2,166,000 from a $17,850,000 fund for the 1940 census. Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.], who made the proposal, said the amount he wished to deduct was to be used for a census of housing.

Taber's motion prevented Representative John W. McCormack [D., Mass.] from moving to recommit for the purpose of withholding use of state department money in Russia. McCormick was on his feet seeking recognition but Speaker Pro Tem Sam Rayburn recognized Taber. Only one motion to recommit is allowed under house rules.

Boost By Senate.

The independent offices bill as passed by the senate totaled $39,596,261 more than the sum voted by the house.

The measure was returned to the house for action on amendments—principally one alloting $39,000,000 to the maritime commission's construction fund.

PRESIDENT'S SON HANGS OUT NEW DEAL'S WASHING

Elliott Tells Parley He's Against Third Term.

Elliott Roosevelt, a son of the President, hung out the New Deal's family washing in the Stevens hotel yesterday before 3,000 spectators. He said, among other things, that Vice President Garner isn't as bad as John L. Lewis says he is, that some members of the Roosevelt family don't like the Dies committee ,and that he would not approve of his father running for a third term.

Elliott Roosevelt talked on "America Looks Ahead" at a joint meeting of the Illinois Lumber and Material Dealers' association and the Illinois Builders' league.

Predicts Rosy Future.

The substance of his speech was that the future of the country is rosy. However, he seemed to think there are a few dingy spots at present, most of which can be eradicated just by laughing heartily. This opinion came out in answers to questions posed by his listeners.

Someone asked him what he thought about the Dies committee's investigation of un-American activities.

"I think the committee has done a very good job and should be continued," he said, "even tho some members of my family don't agree with me."

He did not name the dissenting members.

In reply to a question whether the President will run for a third term, he said: "I don't know. But all the jobholders want him to. Personally, I think he shouldn't."

Challenges Lewis' Opinion.

"What do you think of Garner?" was another question.

"I don't think he's as bad as Lewis said he is," replied Roosevelt. The C. I. O. chief sometime ago called Garner a "whisky drinking, poker playing, evil old man."

Asked if he thought the power of Lewis should be curtailed, Roosevelt said: "There is no need to curtail it. You can do it more easily by laughing him out of power."

The difference between Lewis and William Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, he told another questioner, is that "Green wants to run a labor union—Lewis wants to run the country."

Against Union Donations.

A member of the audience then said he understood it was illegal for a corporation to contribute to a political party's campaign funds. He asked what young Roosevelt thought of a party accepting such contributions from a labor union.

"It's not a good policy in my opinion," he answered. "I know of one party which accepted such a contribution, and it has been squirming ever since." [The United Mine Workers contributed $600,000 to the Democratic party's war chest in 1936.]

In reply to other questions he said he believes his father, if he does not run for reëlection himself, will support any candidate who will carry on the New Deal's policies. He termed the National Labor Relations act a "good law," but said it should be amended to make labor as legally responsible as industry.

Confident Bridges Is Safe.

"Do you think the Bridges [Harry Bridges, head of the Pacific coast longshoremen's union] case is settled?" another questioner asked.

"Yes," said Roosevelt, "as long as Mme. Perkins remains in office."

When the wash was all on the line and the question and answer party broke up, the President's son told his audience not to take him too seriously.

"I'm here," he said, "purely by accident of birth."

PRESIDENT LAUDS SCOUTS' RECORD ON ANNIVERSARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—As honorary president of the Boy Scouts of America, President Roosevelt tonight extended his good wishes and congratulations to the organization on its 30th anniversary.

"I greet you and the friends of scouting everywhere with especial pleasure on our 30th anniversary," he said in a brief radio address.

"For three decades in our American life, the record of the Boy Scouts has been one in which the people of the nation can take genuine satisfaction.

"Through all these 30 years millions of American boys have found stirring and worthwhile adventure in scouting. They have also found an opportunity to exemplify through practical service to the community the loyalty and patriotism which are obligatory upon them as faithful Scouts and true Americans."

MRS. GEORGE F. STANISH JR.

GEORGE F. STANISH JR.

BLAME DOMESTIC RIFT IN DEATHS OF YOUNG COUPLE

Letters Bare Lost Love of Navy Officer, Wife.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 8.—Investigation of the deaths of Lieut. George F. Stanish Jr. of the United States navy and his beautiful young wife, who were found shot to death in their Waikiki apartment, today disclosed that the young woman's parents had sought to settle the couple's marital difficulties.

The bodies of the 29 year old lieutenant and his wife of less than two years were found yesterday. Police said the officer apparently had killed his wife while she slept and then shot himself.

Notes Tell of Rift.

Thru notes and letters found in the apartment police pieced together the story of the tragedy and concluded that Stanish had brooded over the loss of his wife's love.

One letter from Mrs. Stanish's father, Harvey Ball, of Tacoma, Wash., urged his daughter, Connie, to be a "true, faithful wife." Another letter, sent by her mother, counseled the young woman to be "a good wife and remain with your husband."

In a note which Mrs. Stanish had not mailed to her mother she told of an unwillingness to remain in Hawaii because she no longer loved the lieutenant, the police said.

Father Warns of Disgrace.

Detective Captain Benjamin Van Kuren made public the father's letter. It said:

"Connie, if you only knew how you have ruined your mother's life after the hardships endured for you. Why haven't you a spark of feeling not to ruin the few remaining years by bringing on this disgrace? You found a man honorable enough to marry you and you said you would be faithful to him.

"We intend holding the love and affection of George if it means giving you up. If you leave him we will give you up and never see you again. He made a real woman of you."

DIES COMMITTEE DEMANDS REPORT ON SILVER SHIRTS

Pelley Says Organization Is Anti-Semitic.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—The Dies committee on un-American activities today made a formal demand upon the department of justice for the findings made by government agents in a secret investigation last May of the Silver Shirt organization headed by William Dudley Pelley of Asheville, N. C.

The committee first heard yesterday that such an inquiry had been conducted under the then attorney general, Frank Murphy, who is now an associate justice of the Supreme court.

Pelley Reveals Inquiry.

This information came from Pelley himself. It startled committee members who have been seeking to learn something about the Pelley group for more than a year. They had asked the department of justice to aid them in finding Pelley and were interested to know why they were not informed that federal agents had already made an exhaustive investigation.

Pelley was on the witness stand for several hours today before the committee. His opinions are definitely anti-Semitic, he admitted. When he ran as a candidate for President on "the Christian party ticket" in Washington in 1936, his program called for disenfranchisement of 10 million Jews and a licensing system to prohibit them from owning property or conducting business.

"I still stand by that program 100 per cent," he told the committee.

Pelley was asked to comment upon a letter written by Robert C. Summerville, a former editor of his publication, Liberation, which stated that the Silver Shirts were active in promoting "a growing Christian militia to take the national situation by the horns."

Asks for Military Record.

"I parted company with Summerville because he wrote letters like that," Pelley said. "That term, Christian militia, might sound ominous but it is a common military term. I'm not trying to alibi, but an organization like the Silver legion should be judged by what it has done in seven years and not by what some young man wrote."

Pelley was asked why he had requested all Silver Shirt members to give information on their military experience.

"We were looking to a condition where there might be a complete overthrow of the constitutional government because of the communists' efforts," he said. "The organization was built on a military pattern but it was never armed."

7 PRISON GUARDS QUIZZED BY JURY ON SLUSH FUNDS

Illinoisans' Collector Eludes Subpena.

Seven state prison guards appeared yesterday before the Will county grand jury, which is investigating charges that illegal levies have been made by the Horner administration on salaries of state civil service employés.

After the guards were questioned as to whether they had paid the 2 per cent political fund levy which is being attributed to an organization known as the Illinoisans, State's Attorney James E. Burke announced that the jury would adjourn until Tuesday.

The delay is made necessary by the fact that Harold A. Stone, collector for the Illinoisans, has not been located for service of a subpena requesting that he appear before the grand jury.

John Kirincic, investigator for the state's attorney's office, said efforts to find Stone in Springfield or at his home in Woodstock, McHenry county, were unsuccessful.

The witnesses brought before the grand jury yesterday by First Assistant State's Attorney Charles H. Blim were: Fred Tucker, Ray Carrolon, Robert Krobie, Lee Arnold, and James Ford, guards from the old prison, and Lester Acord and James McBride, guards from Stateville.

Attorney General John E. Cassidy yesterday pointed out as erroneous a recently printed statement that he had refused to act on evidence of slush fund collections presented to him by the Union League club of Chicago.

"The Union League club presented me no evidence whatsoever," the attorney general said. "Their letter was a statement of conclusions and a condemnation of the practice in question. I replied to the correspondence stating that they had given me no evidence and that if they had evidence it was their duty to present it to the state's attorney of the county in which the alleged violation of law occured so that he, in turn, might present it to the county grand jury."

LINCOLN'S LOVE FOR ANN LIGHTS NEW SALEM YET

And Her Grave Tells of His Great Tragedy.

[This is the fourth of a series of stories in which the footsteps of Abraham Lincoln are traced from his birthplace in Kentucky thru Illinois to Washington and the presidency.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

New Salem, Ill., Feb. 8 [Special].—Abraham Lincoln, 22 years old, floated down the Sangamon river in a home made canoe in the summer of 1831 to the town of New Salem, which was to be his home for six years, and from which he stepped into the legal and political arena that led to his mighty destiny. Kentucky and Indiana shaped his childhood and boyhood, but it was this prairie town of a dozen log cabins on the bluffs of the Sangamon that matured him.

Not without thy wondrous story,
Illinois, Illinois,
Can be writ the nation's glory,
Illinois, Illinois,
On the records of thy years
Abraham Lincoln's name appears,
Grant and Logan and our tears,
Illinois.

What was it that was weaving its thousands of strands of thought in the mind of Lincoln, fashioning a leader for the new world? Was it nature thinking thru him? Was it humanity coming to flower thru the long, deep thoughts of his ancestors, of the stars, of God?

Of the Earth and the Stars.

Whatever it was, his was no lonely mountain peak of mind, writes James Russell Lowell in the most famous of Lincoln odes:

Broad prairie rather, genial, level-lined,
Fruitful and friendly for all human kind,
Yet also nigh to heaven and loved of loftiest stars.

The Lincoln memorial trail leads from the site of the first Lincoln home in Illinois, ten miles southwest of Decatur, thru Harristown, Illiopolis, Dawson and Riverton to Springfield, where it runs north thru Bradforton and Salisbury to New Salem state park.

Lincoln undoubtedly traveled these roads many times, but his first journey here from his father's home was along the winding river in the deep summer days. This river, which enters the Illinois river near Beardstown and thus reaches the Mississippi, was to be the center of his first political activity, its improvement his major platform as a new legislator at the old capitol of Vandalia.

First Winter a Hard One.

The first winter of the Lincoln family's sojourn in the Sangamon country [the land of plenty to eat] was a disastrous one. December of that 1830-'31 winter was the month of the big snow and the Lincolns were marooned in their cabin with low food supplies. Abraham cut wood and carried it into Decatur to be sold. His feet froze and he had to be nursed at a neighbor's home. Here he split 10,000 rails for 10 yards of jeans cloth. Dennis Offut came that way in February and offered Abraham, his cousin, John Hanks, and John Johnston, his stepmother's son, a job taking a load of goods down the rivers to New Orleans.

In the spring of 1831 the three started out on what was to be, perhaps, a turning point in the thought of Lincoln. He had seen slavery in operation before, on his first flatboat trip, but it hit him harder this time, according to his companions. He saw young women, mothers, children, put on the slave auction blocks, prodded to show their good points, families separated. It formed the iron of his later resolution on this subject, which already was beginning to divide the people. If this is not wrong, then nothing is wrong, he came to think.

Returning to the Coles county farm for a few weeks he helped his father to get started again, then he bade his family good-by and set out for New Salem.

Rebuild Town as Memorial.

In historical importance and significance New Salem outshines Mount Vernon and Mount Sinai, one enthusiastic commissioner of the Lincoln trail wrote in a report to former Gov. Louis Emmerson. W. R. Hearst gave the site of this abandoned town to the Old Salem Chautauqua in Petersburg in 1906. The land was transferred to the state in 1918 and in 1931, 100 years after Lincoln's arrival, the legislature voted $50,000 for permanent improvements there.

The work of rebuilding this town exactly as it stood in Lincoln's day has gone on ever since and is now about 30 per cent completed. The latest building is the reconstructed Hill-McNeil [McNamar] store in which Lincoln worked and where he was postmaster. A new postoffice is to be opened there in dedication ceremonies next Monday, Lincoln's birthday anniversary.

The state has built a new highway up the hill from where the Petersburg road turns off to New Salem. Here visitors enter parking spaces and then go afoot thru the town. Thirteen cabins, six shops, and the Rutledge tavern have been reproduced and furnished as they were in the 1830s, and so it is possible here, as in no other spot, to walk in the atmosphere, in the actual living conditions of Lincoln's youth. It is his most unique memorial.

Cooper's Cabin Real Thing.

The town is built along a street that extends half a mile along the bluff and down the hill to the site of the Mentor Graham school and the old cemetery. The Kirkham grammar which Lincoln studied at night with the help of Graham was used here. A copy of this book, said to be the original, is now in the Lincoln collection at the Decatur library.

One of the first cabins encountered on entering the village is that of Henry Onstott, the cooper. This is the only original building in the town and some of its logs have had to be replaced. The barrels are scattered around the cabin as of old and the big fireplace is there. In front of it the young Lincoln read Blackstone, a copy of which he found in an old barrel. Offut's store, where Lincoln first worked, has been built on its old site above the mill. Dr. John Allen's cabin home is there. He was a cultured man, a college graduate whose ideas greatly influenced Lincoln. The Lincoln-Berry store, where Lincoln sold whisky and other goods and where he got into what he called his "national debt," has been reconstructed.

There was little difference between rich and poor in those days. The home of the improvident Jack Kelso, Lincoln's fishing companion, the spinner of tales and the reader of poetry, and the cabins of the comparatively wealthy Dr. Allen and the Rutledges, all have about the same appearance of comfort. Families often lived, ate, and slept in the same room. Rope springs, corn husk mattresses, homemade chairs and tables and cupboards constituted the furnishings. Lincoln himself had bunks in the lofts of the stores where he worked.

Falls as a Storekeeper.

The outstanding events of this period of Lincoln's life were his courtship of Ann Rutledge and her death, his failure as a storekeeper, his first defeat as legislator and his later election, his enlistment in the Blackhawk war, where he was made a captain but saw no fighting, and his meeting with John T. Stuart and the decision to become a lawyer. He became something of a pilot on the river, defeated all comers at wrestling and rough and tumble fighting, and soon began to be recognized as a stump speaker of peculiar power.

Tragedy Hovers Above Him.

Lincoln had become a surveyor and he helped lay out the town of Petersburg, but it was in politics and law that the way seemed to be opening for him. He had won a seat in the 1834 legislature, and he was engaged to marry blue-eyed, yellow-haired Ann Rutledge, daughter of the founder of the town, James Rutledge.

Then happened that which was to cast a shadow upon his life forever, a deepening of the shadow caused by the deaths of his mother and his sister in Indiana. The Rutledges had gone north to a farm near Sand Ridge, about eight miles from New Salem, and there in the summer of 1835 Ann died of a fever. Abraham was sent for at the last and was with her for two hours. Ann had believed in him, had told him that he would rise high in the world, just as his stepmother had predicted. But it seemed for a time that there was no use going anywhere.

One may touch the edge of this tragedy here, visit the tavern where the tall, awkward youth first looked upon the fair face of his beloved, go to places where Aunt Hannah Armstrong, whose son Lincoln was afterward to save in a famous murder trial, comforted him, and where the plump Judge Bowling Green and his wife, Nancy, talked with him. The wind in the trees only can tell that story.

Ann's Grave Draws Many.

Ann's grave in Petersburg cemetery is a point of pilgrimage. It is marked by a stone on which is written Edgar Lee Masters' beautiful poem ending: "Bloom forever, O Republic, from the dust of my bosom." American flags fly always by this little headstone.

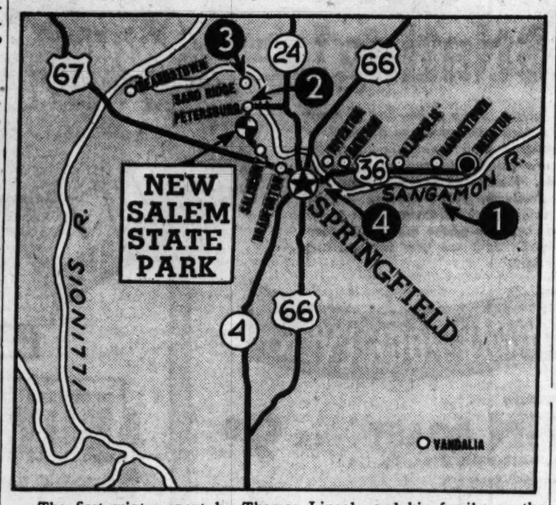
Edwin Markham has expressed this same thought about Lincoln's lost love:

From her beauty and her doom
A man rose merciful and just;
And a great people still can feel
The passion of her dust.

But life and time moderated Lincoln's grief and he went on. Questions were coming up at Vandalia that absorbed him, such as what to do about slavery. He had studied law hard and had formed a partnership with Stuart. New Salem was on the downgrade as a town and so, on a March day in 1837 Lincoln borrowed a horse and started for Springfield to hang out his shingle in a town of 1,500 inhabitants. He took his Blackstone and a few clothes. He was 28 years old, had seven dollars in his pocket, and was more than a thousand dollars in debt.

Lincoln and New Salem

Three of the buildings which have been reconstructed in New Salem state park. Dr. John Allen, a college graduate, was comparatively wealthy. The new postoffice is to be opened in dedication ceremonies next Monday, Lincoln's birthday.



The first winter spent by Thomas Lincoln and his family on the Sangamon river (1830-1831) was disastrous because of severe weather. Abraham cut wood and sold it in Decatur. His first journey from his father's home was along the Sangamon (1). In 1831 Lincoln went to New Salem, which is being reconstructed as a state park. There he worked at various jobs. He became a surveyor and helped lay out the town of Petersburg (2). He was elected to and sat in the 1834 legislature, which then met in Vandalia. At the time he was engaged to marry Arm Rutledge, whose family had meanwhile moved to Sand Ridge (3). There in the summer of 1835 Ann died of fever. Grief stricken, Lincoln pursued his study of law, continued with his duties in the legislature, and in 1837, with New Salem on the downgrade, moved to Springfield (4) to hang out his shingle.

LINKS ROOSEVELT EX-LAW PARTNER IN CHINA LOAN

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—An assertion that Basil O'Connor personally pressed upon President Roosevelt, his former law partner, and Secretary Cordell Hull the successful conclusion of a $30,000,000 loan to the republic of China in 1938 was made by Rudolf Hecht in papers on file today in the Appellate division of the state Supreme court.

Hecht is suing Hsi Le-mou, general manager of the Central Bank of China, and others for $1,000,000, claiming he was retained by Dr. C. T. Wang, former ambassador from China, and was promised that fee.

To a request for comment O'Connor replied that he had had no association with Hecht and did not know who he is. He added, however: "We did have one or two conferences with others about the matter of the loan, but we told them we would have nothing to do with it."

In Washington the state department said Basil O'Connor had never spoken to Secretary Hull about the loan or anything else.

Hecht's papers alleged that to expedite the loan he had obtained the services of Attorneys O'Connor, Arthur Garfield Hays, and Jerome Ziegler and those of Louis de L'Aigle Munds, Fred Fisher, and Samuel Feldman as associates.

Hays, he asserted, spoke to an unidentified United States ambassador to a European country for the purpose of preventing any opposition from that quarter to the loan.

Asked about this statement, Hays said he had had several conferences with Hecht and only with the Chinese ambassador.

Hecht said Munds had carried the burden of entertaining, and that Fisher and Feldman had used their influence with United States Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, then governor of Michigan, in behalf of the proposed aid to the Chinese.

Speaking of Fisher in his bill of particulars, Hecht said:

"Because of the great weight of his prestige and his close friendship, when the matter was submitted to Jesse Jones, then head of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, it was assured Mr. Jones' favorable and careful attention and probable approval."

Enjoy the SCOTCH WITH A STORY

An elephant never forgives or forgets. Captain White witnessed proof of this fact in Cambodia ten years ago. An elephant had been taught by his keeper, a fruit peddler, to recognize the value of coins by their sound as visitors dropped them into his cage. He would toss the coppers to his keeper and receive bananas in exchange. Once a French sailor tried to pass off a lead slug on the unsuspecting beast. As the coin dropped to the ground with a thud, the elephant eyed the sailor scornfully. The sailor departed in great hilarity. When he returned much later for another laugh, he was wearing a spotless, white dress uniform.

The elephant was there to greet him with two gallons of water, which he had stored in his trunk. Yes, the elephant did not forgive and the sailor never forgot. The taste of White Horse Scotch is unforgettable, too. The smooth, robust flavor of this famous Scotch lingers in your memory and reminds you why White Horse has lived on through the centuries. Why not remember to enjoy White Horse today? You'll find it in every fine bar and package store from one end of the earth to the other. But nowhere will you find the equal of this glorious Scotch. Match White Horse if you can!

Capt. Harold A. White, explorer and world traveler, relates his fascinating experiences in this White Horse series. Follow it week by week.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

DENIAL OF FREE SPEECH AND FAIR TRIAL.

An erroneous report conveyed the impression that the Ford Motor company had agreed to comply with the order of the National Labor Relations board that it refrain from criticizing labor organizations and circulating the views of its officials to its employés. The contrary is true. The company, thru its legal counsel, says it has no intention whatever of submitting to a loss of constitutional rights without exhausting legal recourse to prove that the labor board cannot take away from any citizen the privilege of expressing his views or arguing for his opinions.

The company denies that its purpose is to coerce its employés or tell them that they can't join the automobile workers' union. It maintains that it has the right to say that it believes its men are better off if they do not join and that only the Supreme court of the United States can finally take that right away.

In the days of NRA, of which the labor board is a present-day factional part, a small merchant gave the whole nation a picture of the new autocracy. He published an advertisment which, as he said, carried the blue eagle, but he said he had found that the bird was pretty tough on small fellows like himself. For some such protesting remarks the code enforcers descended on him, threatening him with penalties if he did not desist and make his peace.

The house committee on the labor board and Wagner act, investigating the operations of both, has compiled an encyclopedia sized record of the abuses of this administration, revealing how both employers and employés have been denied their rights by arbitrary and prejudiced orders and rulings. Members of the board have come slowly to the admission that all of the procedure cannot be defended, and to the further admission that they haven't been able to find a formula for the peaceable adjustments of labor controversies between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor recently denounced the injustices, not only the alleged discriminations against A. F. of L. unions, but the wrongs done employers. The council recommended to congress that the employers be given the right to appeal to the board when rival unions brought on a controversy in which the industrial management was helpless and also recommended that the right of free speech on labor questions be restored.

The disposition of burocracy to handle persons with scant or no regard for their constitutional rights has been well illustrated by the abuses disclosed in the labor act administration. The board's rules and orders have not only denied citizens the right of free speech but its practices have denied them the right of fair trial. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago recognized this second denial in an opinion holding one of the board's orders invalid. Said the court:

"The act authorizes the board to enter an order upon a complaint alleging unfair labor practices only after a 'hearing.' This must mean a trial by a tribunal free from bias and prejudice and imbued with the desire to accord to the parties equal consideration. There is perhaps no more important right to which litigants are entitled than that they be given such a trial.

"Its impairment ipso facto brings the court and administrative bodies as well into public disrepute and destroys the esteem and confidence which they have enjoyed so generally. Time and experience have demonstrated that the public as well as litigants will tolerate the honest mistakes of those who pass judgment but not the biased acts of those who would deprive litigants of fair and impartial trial."

TWO STOCK EXCHANGE INCIDENTS.

The declining importance of the New York Stock exchange was emphasized by several incidents last week. A broker had a big bunch of securities which had to be converted quickly into cash. To mention a few items, there were 20,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey, the stock John D. Rockefeller offered to buy a million shares of at 50 on an historic occasion; there were 13,000 shares of Socony Vacuum and 20,000 shares of Youngstown Steel Door.

A few years ago the stock market handled such business in its stride. On the books of brokers there were standing orders which enabled large quantities of fixed capital to be converted into cash instantly. But when the broker got these orders the other day he didn't dare throw them into the market. Resting orders are negligible. He arranged for the sales privately, off the exchange.

Last week there was another incident, the cause of which was not unrelated to the one just described. A membership on the New York Stock exchange was sold for $48,000. In 1929 there were sales as high as $625,000. Not since 1918 has a seat on the world's greatest security exchange been worth so little.

The value of a stock exchange membership is determined by what can be earned with one. And with trading reduced to a half million shares per day, the share of commissions for any one of the 1,375 members cannot amount to much. The exchange is geared to handle several million shares daily, and many items of overhead are fixed. So far this year there have been only two days on which as many as a million shares have been traded.

There are many causes for the decline in the importance of the big board. Among them is the virtual stoppage of new security issues. [Last year 371 million dollars' worth of new capital was acquired by American corporations, compared with nearly 6 billions in 1929.] What trade there has been is in old securities.

Then those who know most about the affairs of a company—the officers and directors—may trade in the stock of the company only subject to drastic penalty. That takes most of them out. Persons of means cannot take risks involved in buying securities because, if there is a loss, it cannot be used to offset other gains, and if there is a gain the government takes most of it with income taxes rising to 79 per cent. Take these two classes out of the stock market and the result is what we have.

These factors have affected stock trading on all American exchange centers. But in addition the New York Stock exchange suffers because of racketeering by the state government. The government at Albany insists upon collecting a tax on every sale on a New York exchange, even when both parties to a transaction live in other states. Thrifty persons can avoid the tax by sending their orders to Chicago and other exchanges, and do.

THEY HAVE TO HAVE A COATTAIL.

President Roosevelt is not a candidate in Washington, but he is a candidate in Illinois. There is no law against the third term, but there is an Illinois law against the certification of a candidate without a statement from him that he is one. That's the interesting statement Mr. Roosevelt hasn't made, but the Democrats in Illinois need a coattail so badly that they have agreed among themselves to forget the law and take a ride.

The language of the Illinois primary act is too plain to be misunderstood. In setting forth the requirements for a petition to place a candidate's name on the ballot, it says: "Each petition shall include as a part thereof a statement of candidacy . . . This statement . . . shall be subscribed and sworn to by such candidate."

Mr. Nash and Mr. Kelly filed the Roosevelt petition. It has no statement of candidacy. An exactly similar petition was filed in 1928 on behalf of Al Smith. That petition was refused, at the instance of the Democratic machine. Mr. Nash and Mr. Kelly apparently entertain no fears that the Roosevelt petition will be rejected. The primary certifying board that will pass on it consists of Gov. Horner, Secretary of State Hughes, and State Auditor Barrett. Like Mr. Kelly and Mr. Nash, they have been riding on the Roosevelt coattails for eight profitable years, and they have no intention of letting go, even if they have to break the law to hang on.

The Democratic machine in this state is, no doubt, a little jittery about its record. It has a right to be. Manteno, Cop-and-Robber Howe, and the 2 per cent shakedowns, among other things, are fresh in the voters' memories.

The Roosevelt name will help get out the primary vote. In turn, the machine will contribute the shakedown receipts, and throw in its pay rollers, the WPA, and the relief vote. It will use all its other resources to get out a big draft Roosevelt vote. The prairies will seem to be calling for him. The only thing that stands in the way is the law, and what's the law between friends who need each other?

Editorials of the Day

OMINOUS FIGURES.

[Detroit Free Press.]

In reporting on the cases of the 775,000 WPA workers dropped from the rolls last summer, under the 18 month dismissal rule, Commissioner Harrington says that in November 87 per cent of them still were without jobs "in spite of the fact that their dismissals occurred during a period of sharply rising industrial activity."

Twenty-seven per cent had been reassigned to the WPA, 28 per cent were on local relief rolls, and 32 per cent were depending on handouts of surplus commodities.

Only 13 per cent had developed initiative, energy, and capacity enough to hustle out and get private jobs.

Of course, it is likely that some did not have the health and strength to do that, and considerable numbers may have been living in especially depressed areas.

But taking all that into account, the number who took successful advantage of a rising job market when they found themselves on their own is ominously small.

The figures add force to the widespread charge that New Deal relief methods have systematically been breaking down the American spirit of self-respecting independence and have bred in place of it a spirit of pauperism and dependence and a tendency to sit back and demand public succor as a matter of right and in preference to earning an honest living.

"COPS AND ROBBERS."

[Aurora (Ill.) Beacon-News.]

The game of "cops and robbers" in some form will probably always be popular among small fry who like to whoop it up.

It has occurred to law enforcement authorities in recent years that the more "cops" they have among the neighborhood gangs, the fewer "robbers" they will have—in real life as well as in play. Junior police, boy patrols, and the like have sprung up in cities and towns all over the country, and juvenile authorities have noted encouraging results. A 12 year old who is really a part of the police force can't very well get into trouble. His honor is at stake. With swaggering boyishness he uses his authority to keep other lads out of the Juvenile courts.

The town of Homewood, Ala., "swore in" some 30 junior "cops" just before last Halloween, and the trembling burghers enjoyed the most peaceful Halloween in the history of the town. The kids who weren't on the police force were too harassed by the juvenile "cops" to get into mischief. The whole system works out much better than having uniformed officers bellowing and shaking sticks at the youngsters.

PRINTER'S INK CASTLE.

Storey's Castle vanished from the Chicago scene 50 years ago, but when we described it as a boyhood memory last year the "reader response" surprised us. Apparently that fantastic edifice is remembered by thousands of people whose curiosity about it, springing from childish impressions, is still keen.

Wilbur F. Storey, editor and publisher of the extinct Chicago Times, began to build this enormous marble structure in 1878 when he was in an incipient stage of paresis. The social ambitions of his third wife and his own egomania caused him to seek to surpass the palatial domestic establishments of such eastern millionaires as Commodore Vanderbilt. It may easily have been the largest and tallest house-building project ever undertaken in the United States. He died a few years later, practically bankrupt, and the "castle," with its interior unfinished, was demolished in the early '90s. Its marble was used for the fronts of numerous small houses in the Vincennes avenue-43d street district.

There is not much in print, outside the newspaper files, about Storey's Castle. The best contemporary source is "Thirty-five Years of Journalism," by Franc B. Wilkie, published in 1891. He was Storey's right-hand man in the editorial department of the Times.

Wilkie wrote in part:

"The 'architect' whom they selected to make the drawings of the house had been a ticket peddler in Wood's museum, and had no capacity as a designer. Storey's varying mental condition was exhibited as the mansion grew. Again and again changes were made: iron was substituted for wood; the conformation of rooms was radically altered; in fact, the work of construction exhibited all the vagaries of a person laboring under some form of dementia. . . .

"The old gentleman was in the habit of driving out to the house every fair day in summer. He worshiped the gleaming pile of marble. . . . It was, all around, a fraud, a monstrosity, a frightful humiliation, a disgraceful failure."

WEARING HIS FRAT PIN.

This is the sum and the meaning
Of all that has gone before;
This is the whole of the pieces
I scattered, and tattered, and tore.
This is the end of our dreaming,
For this is the dream—and still more!
Ah, yes, I know this as surely
As knowing of stars in the sky;
This is the reason the night wind
Whispers a soft lullaby.
This is the "when" and the "wherefore,"
The "whom," and the "what," and the "why."
Darling, at last I can wake from
The long, restless sleep I have had,
Waken to bask in the charm of
A long-legged, curly-haired lad;
Waken to play on my heartstrings
A melody both sweet and sad.
Now I have solved the whole riddle
Of life and its complexity—
Twilight—the dawn hush—the star glow—
Are no longer deep mystery.
Love is the answer to all things,
And you are the answer to me!

Disagreement Between Lincoln Experts.

Many years ago, when I was gathering material for my book, "The Death of Lincoln," Arthur Burton of Washington, D. C., was one of the surprising number of persons still alive who had been in some way associated with the tragedy of Lincoln's death.

Mr. Burton, in 1865, was night clerk at the National hotel, where John Wilkes Booth stayed when in Washington. He told me that the story about Booth saying there would be good acting at Ford's theater that night was a fabrication.

"As a matter of fact," said Mr. Burton, "I never saw Johnny Booth after an early hour on Thursday evening, the night before the tragedy. He was out all night, like nearly every one else in Washington, celebrating Lee's surrender on Sunday at Appomattox. Davy Herold came in early Friday morning looking for Johnny, and I told him Johnny hadn't been in all night. I was going off duty at the time, and to make sure I had a chambermaid unlock Johnny Booth's room, which was empty; the bed had not been slept in.

"I never saw Johnny again. About 3 o'clock Saturday morning soldiers came to the National and demanded the key of Johnny's room. I asked them 'What for?' and they said, 'There's a report he's the man who shot the President.' 'You're crazy,' I told 'em; 'Johnny Booth wouldn't hurt a fly.' I don't know who started that story about him telling me there was going to be good acting at Ford's theater. There wasn't a word of truth in it, but I've never been able to stop it."

HOUSE IN SPRINGFIELD.

Here in this simple house his presence clings
To tranquil, sunlit rooms and quiet nooks
About the silent hearth, and faded prints,
The sturdy desk, and rocking chairs, and books.

He has not known the tomb upon the hill
Where mortal dust reposes in long rest;
The formal grandeur of his distant shrine
Could never seem so singularly blest.

For here alone we sense the man who crossed
This portal and emerged into the ages;
The peer of all great-hearted souls in earth's

STOMACH EXTRACT FOR GASTRIC DISTRESS.

PLUTARCH tells us that "water continually dropping will wear hard rocks hollow." This saying may be applied with accuracy to the human body—particularly the intestinal apparatus. If one has abused the stomach, for example, over a long period, acute inflammation will finally give way to wasting of the mucous lining and hence the disappearance of acid and pepsin from the gastric juice. When such a situation occurs we are confronted with a failure of digestion because meals get off to a poor start. Materials are dumped into the duodenum improperly conditioned and we then oblige the secretions of the pancreas and of the liver to do double duty. While no discomfort may be experienced for a time, sooner or later the whole process of dissolving food breaks down and symptoms appear in profusion.

We may look upon chronic gastritis—with atrophy of the mucous layers—as accompanied usually by an inability on the part of the acid glands to secrete. But this is not the only disturbance. If performance is to be maintained we must supply artificially the ferments, the sources of which have been destroyed.

Recently the suggestion was offered that many of these victims could be aided thru the feeding of dried hog's stomach extract [ventriculin]. While pernicious anemia or cancer is not present, nevertheless, unless something is done—invalidism is likely to result. Many become chronic complainers because, as they put it, "Nothing that I eat agrees with me."

The case is reported of a 68 year old man who—for two or three years—had been rendered miserable with abdominal pain, lack of appetite, a persistent desire to vomit, and sharp loss of weight and vigor. Examination revealed that but little of his gastric surface was left. There was no free acid in the gastric contents. Treatment with ventriculin was then instituted, to which hydrochloric acid was added. Much to the surprise of the physician in charge, pepsin returned, but the restoration of the acid cells proved impossible. Under this régime, however, the patient regained his average weight and is now entirely without distress. He pays but little attention to special dietary menus. In this instance—no doubt because of his age—the chances are that he will be obliged to continue taking the extract if he is to be comfortable.

A rather striking set of circumstances was presented by a relatively young man [aged 34], who was thought to be suffering from a peptic ulcer. Careful examination, however, failed to disclose this lesion. Instead, the gastroscope [an electric lighted instrument which permits a view of the stomach wall] revealed but few scattered areas of normal mucosa. For nearly two years the patient had observed pain after meals which was relieved by the taking of soda. His trouble was aggravated by fried and greasy dishes and a substantial amount of belching, water-brash, and flatulence proved bothersome.

In order to rule out any trouble with the gall bladder, a study of that organ was made and it was found to be in good condition. Ventriculin was then administered with almost immediate improvement and, at the end of four months, no symptoms remained. Subsequent periodical examinations have shown a proper secretion of acid and of digestive ferments.

In the artificial feeding of this product we are including a principle the exact nature of which we do not know, but which has the power to compensate for a nonfunctioning gastric lining. Regeneration of this membrane will take place to a reasonable extent in younger persons. With many, it has been possible to discontinue the substance after a few months or—at most—a year. It should be clear that the preparation does not act as a medicine, but furnishes some lacking elements which the stomach glands—because of their absence—are unable to manufacture.

How Our States Got Their Names

29. NEW MEXICO.

New Mexico was named after the country of Mexico, probably by Spanish explorers, and the name was kept when New Mexico became a state. Some historians say the name was given because New Mexico resembled Mexico. Others think it may have been named in honor of three Franciscan missionaries slain in the 16th century after going north from Mexico to convert the Indians. New Mexico became a state on Jan. 6, 1912.

New Mexico state shield. It shows Mexican eagle with serpent in its beak and cactus in its talons, protected by outspread arms of American eagle. Below is state motto in scroll and date [1912] of statehood.

The state motto is "Crescit Eundo" [It grows as it goes]. The state song is "O Fair New Mexico," the state flower is the yucca, and the state bird the road runner. Nicknames given the state include the Cactus, Sunshine, and Spanish state, and the more poetic Land of Heart's Desire or Land of Opportunity. All seem self-explanatory.

PLACES OF REFUGE.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Having read of plans to invite mass immigration of Finns and Poles to settle in Alaska, which I think a splendid idea, I just want to call to your attention another suggestion of great importance. Since both Greenland and Iceland are of great strategic importance in aviation across to continental Europe, why shouldn't the United States purchase these "islands" [Greenland is almost a continent] from Denmark now while Denmark still has a right to sell them?

Should the European conflict drag out for years to come, and should both the empires and Nazis get exhausted and the wild hordes of Stalin spread communism all over Europe it would be well if our country had her flag planted there, well fortified, and an open refuge for refugees from all Scandinavia.

Besides the strategic value of Greenland and Iceland there is wealth to be had in the whaling industry and herring fisheries, and under the industrious inventive minds of Scandinavians farming would be vastly improved in Iceland. It would be also a good depository for the priceless art treasures of the universities and cathedrals of Upsala, Oslo, Trondhjelm, and Copenhagen, which could thus be saved to posterity from the vandalism of bolshevism. DAVID FORSLING.

PEDESTRIANS' RIGHTS.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Evanston is reported to have issued instructions to its police to issue notices against "pedestrian carelessness," "walking against red lights," etc., advising that receipt of three notices by a pedestrian will result in arrests. Aside from the fact that courts have repeatedly ruled pedestrian regulations illegal, the action of the Evanston officials is amusing when a person views the sign placed at the curb of Sheridan road at the turn at Northwestern university, reading "Walk on red light only." In other words, a pedestrian is supposed to cross Sheridan road on a red light and Chicago avenue on a green light. How is he to cross on a green light if turning traffic blocks his passage?

Evanston for years has had little regard for pedestrian safety, permitting the mass parking of cars on the streets, obscuring pedestrians' view, the real cause of accidents and deaths, and refusing to construct a walk for pedestrians on the lake front, forcing them to walk in the road with traffic. Evanston's multitude of signs and regulations, even painted on sidewalks, are ridiculous. Restriction of parked junk on the street is the safety problem solution. F. R.

OBSTETRICAL NOTE.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—A young mother asking for a cigaret when coming out of the delivery room of a maternity hospital is assuming a nonchalance she is far from feeling. It's only to impress others and not because of any indifference to her new offspring.

Smoking is not allowed during the feeding hours, and no nursery nurse will bring a baby into a smoke filled room. She would frankly tell a young mother to throw away her cigaret because she might drop hot ashes on her baby.

I have never heard a doctor say that cigarets were positively harmful to a mother or child. They are probably not nearly as harmful as overindulgence in some foods and drinks. The visitors in a maternity ward are more dangerous to a mother and new baby with their contaminated clothing, affectionate kisses, and soiled hands.

If a cigaret helps pass away time, or in any way makes a young mother happier, I can see no reason why it shouldn't remain a matter of personal preference. It can't interfere with a young mother's love for her baby any more than great-grandma's pipe interfered with her eleven offspring. HELEN DAVIS.

QUESTIONS FOR DADDY.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Alarmed by the rising hysteria over toy pistols created by Judge Braude and some high-minded aldermen, my young son, Junior, who listens to the radio with great gravity, suddenly turned on me with some vexing questions:

1. Did anybody ever get hurt with a toy gun?
2. Do real guns kill people?
3. Then, why, Daddy, do they sell real guns?

Perhaps Judge Braude or the gifted aldermen could help me cope with the quizzical mind of this 5 year old thinker.

MARRIAGE STATUS.

Chicago, Feb. 1 [Legal Friend of the People].—I have been advised to write you for the answer to my problem. My husband, who was married before, was divorced in Wisconsin in November, 1938. In May, 1939, we were married in Illinois and have been living here since. In Wisconsin one has to be divorced a year before they can remarry. My husband was divorced only six months. I was advised by the district attorney in Wisconsin that as long as we were married in Illinois and have a residence here it is legal. But his ex-wife was told by her lawyer that our marriage isn't legal. My problem is: First, is it legal; and second, if it isn't do we have to get a divorce or an annulment if we should decide not to remarry immediately? H. S.

Your case does not involve a violation of the marriage evasion statute, since that statute applies only where parties originally living in one state and intending to continue there go to a second state and contract a marriage that is prohibited and declared void by the laws of the first state, and then return to the first state. The Illinois courts have, however, independently of the marriage evasions law, enforced somewhat similar principles. See, for example, Wilson vs. Cooke, 256 Ill. 460.

We could determine the application of these authorities to better advantage if you had stated to us whether you and your husband were living in Illinois previous to the marriage.

The closeness of the legal question, the fact that we do not have all of the circumstances, and the fact that you have already received conflicting opinions, combine to recommend that you submit the question seriously to an attorney, who can go over all of the facts and make a real investigation of the law for you. It might be cheaper to contract a new marriage in case you wish to continue the present relationship. On the other hand we would advise you not to contract a different marriage in reliance on the invalidity of this one without first obtaining a divorce or annulment or a considered opinion as above suggested. Even tho the original invalidity of the marriage might be clear, the possibility should be considered that you may have lived together as husband and wife in a jurisdiction recognising common law marriages.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ESTIMATING THE RISK.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—I should like an opportunity to answer the letter of Mildred Estelle Carson, printed in your column of Feb. 6.

Miss Carson roundly excoriates us for not coming to the aid of Finland even tho it means our taking "a little risk," as she so charmingly puts it.

I wonder if Miss Carson is old enough to remember the last "little risk" we took? If she isn't, I'd suggest that she visit the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital in Chicago and obtain a liberal education in the humanities which she so valiantly espouses. Perhaps the sight of hopelessly maimed veterans of the "little risk" of 1917-'18 will cause her to cease her flag waving; it might cause her to adopt a sane spirit of patriotism in complete reversal of her present stand.

It is not a question of taking a risk that is paramount; it is one of whether or not we are going to succumb to foreign propaganda to the point of sacrificing American lives on the altar of European intrigue.

Miss Carson says that the blood of innocent Finns is on our hands. However, should we ever become involved in the stewing mess in Europe, the hands of Miss Carson and others of her persuasion will be drenched with the blood of Americans. Would that satisfy her?

JAMES HOWARD.

SHAME AND STIGMA.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—A salute to you, Mildred Estelle Carson, for so ably expressing the sentiment of every red blooded American who deeply feels the shame and stigma on our country for its selfish and cowardly refusal to help a valiant sister republic, which country will eventually be smashed to bits by the overwhelming odds arrayed against her. After Finland come Sweden and Norway, and maybe one of these days our heroes, who are willing to fight if invaded, will get their chance whether they like it or not. And, if, or when we are called upon to fight an invasion we will be standing alone, with all the world, including Finland and the allies, hating us with an undying hatred—all because of our yellow streak.

Some day we'll find to our sorrow that the peace at any price policy is an awfully expensive policy.

INDICT LAWYER FOR SKIDMORE; CHARGE PERJURY

Federal Jury Acts After Gambler Income Quiz.

William Goldstein.

Attorney William Goldstein, lawyer for William R. [Billy] Skidmore, was indicted on a charge of perjury yesterday by a federal grand jury in connection with the government's investigation into the incomes of Chicago gamblers. Skidmore, reputed political go-between for the gambling syndicate, was indicted last June on a charge of evading income taxes of $361,272.

The indictment against Attorney Goldstein is based on his allegedly false testimony regarding Skidmore before the June grand jury investigating his client. The indictment also names eight gambling places in which, it is charged, both Skidmore and William Johnson, reputed head of the syndicate, have an interest.

Linked for First Time.

This is said to be the first time that a relationship between Skidmore and Johnson has become a matter of official record. Their partnership has been generally conceded, United States Attorney William J. Campbell said, but never in all the investigations by local law enforcing agencies has it been stated officially.

HORSE-SHOE, 4721 North Kedzie avenue.

HARLEM CLUB, 4301 North Harlem avenue.

DEV-LIN CLUB, 6430 Drake avenue, Lincolnwood.

D & D CLUB, 1205 North Dearborn street.

4020 CLUB, 4020 Ogden avenue.

CLUB WESTERN, 9730 South Western avenue.

These are reported to be among the most profitable gambling hangouts in the city. Their history is replete with robberies and shootings—many of which, it is declared, never were reported to the police.

Testimony on Casino Club.

The testimony which brought about Goldstein's indictment concerned the Casino club. The indictment states that during the inquiry into Skidmore's income the grand jurors wanted to know whether he was connected with the Chicago gambling racket—more particularly, whether the building occupied by the Casino club was used for gambling.

It is charged that Goldstein, who has been Skidmore's attorney for 17 years, told the grand jury under oath that he knew "absolutely" that the Casino club was not a gambling place and had never been one. Actually, according to the indictment, the attorney knew that the club was a gambling joint and was aware that it was used for gambling when he negotiated its purchase for Skidmore.

The Casino club is on the first floor of the old Portage Park bank building. Federal investigators said that Skidmore bought the property at a foreclosure sale in May, 1937, for $33,500 plus $25,000 in back taxes.

Tells of Paying $150,000.

Goldstein, according to the charges, told the jury that at the same time Skidmore bought this property he also added several farms to his extensive holdings in McHenry county, paying out a total of $150,000 in currency.

The indictment indicates that this was only one of the deals in which the grand jury was interested. It states:

"Goldstein knew that it was material for the jury to know whether large sums of currency, totaling approximately $500,000, which he spent for the benefit of Skidmore and Johnson, were derived from operations and conduct of any gambling business either in Portage Park or elsewhere."

The indictment was returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes, who set bond at $5,000.

ROUTINE VERDICT OF MURDER ENDS O'HARE INQUEST

The inquest into the death of E. J. O'Hare, slain president of the Sportsman's Park race track and millionaire front man for the Capone gang, was closed yesterday before a coroner's jury in the county morgue. In contrast to previous hearings, when hundreds crowded the inquest room, there were five policemen, a member of the family, and three spectators present.

O'Hare was killed last Nov. 8 by shotgun blasts from an automobile containing two men which passed his car in Ogden avenue near Rockwell street. The jury returned a verdict of murder and made a routine recommendation that the police continue their search for the slayers.

O'Hare's sister, Mrs. Catherine Burris of Maywood, was present but did not testify. Deputy Coroner James J. Whalen announced he had called the inquest after Capt. Daniel Gilbert of State's Attorney Courtney's office and Assistant State's Attorney Robert Wright told him no clews had been found.

INDIANA BRINGS CHARGES AGAINST TWO IN BOMB PLOT

Other Complaints to Be Filed Today.

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 8 [Special].—Formal charges were filed tonight in Ligonier, Ind., against two of the men held in the bombing plot against the Indiana and Michigan Electric company. Additional charges will be filed tomorrow against three of the alleged plotters, County Prosecutor Arthur F. Scheer announced here tonight.

The charges in Ligonier, where two towers of the electric company were dynamited last Nov. 23, were filed in the City court by Noble County Prosecutor Lowell Pesley. Those named are John A. Marks, union leader, who was charged with being an accessory, and Frank Lung of South Bend, who was accused of using dynamite unlawfully. Bonds were set at $25,000 each.

Charges in South Bend.

Prosecutor Scheer in South Bend said Marks would be booked tomorrow on a charge of conspiracy to commit a felony, and that a similar charge would be placed against Parrish Freeman, a former convict. This charge, on conviction, carries a possible prison sentence of 2 to 14 years, and a maximum fine of $5,000.

The prosecutor said Freeman also will be charged with carrying dynamite for unlawful use, and that Lung would be charged with the unlawful use of dynamite.

Moves to Free Suspect.

Prosecutor Scheer's announcement was in response to the move this afternoon of George Sands, South Bend attorney representing Marks, who filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus to free his client. Sands said Marks was being held illegally by Chief of Police W. K. Ingram. Hearing on the habeas petition was set for 8:30 a. m. tomorrow before Judge Dan Pyle in the Circuit court here.

James R. Fleming, United States district attorney for northern Indiana, said he will present evidence in the case to the federal grand jury which convenes in Fort Wayne Monday. Federal authorities have jurisdiction because the electric company does an interstate business.

Makes Second Confession.

Police tonight obtained a second confession from Freeman, in which he amplified statements made in Joliet, where evidence supplied by the Indiana state police resulted in his arrest last Friday. Freeman implicated Marks as the author of the plot, and named Lung and Lawrence Yak as his companions on several of the bombing expeditions. Yak is being held in Kalamazoo, Mich., pending extradition proceedings.

Marks made a flat denial of all the charges. He is assistant business agent in the South Bend area for local B9 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, which has sought to organize 1,000 employés of the electric company.

EX-PROSECUTORS LINKED TO SLAIN CAPONE MOBSTER

Two former assistant United States attorneys, on trial on charges of operating a case fixing racket in the federal District court, were linked by prosecutors yesterday with one of the major figures in the old Capone gang.

The gangster was Louis [Steve] Schiavone, who was assassinated by shotgun killers last July in the suburb of Oak Lawn. He was identified yesterday thru a photograph as an operator of one of the largest illicit alcohol stills uncovered in this area since the end of prohibition.

The government charges that the former prosecutors, Daniel D. Glasser and Norton I. Kretske, connived with the underworld to prevent the prosecution of Schiavone and numerous other alleged bootleggers.

Three Others on Trial.

Three other defendants on trial with Glasser and Kretske are Attorney Alfred Roth, Anthony Horton, colored, a professional bondsman, and Louis Kaplan, described as a bootlegger. The case is being heard by a jury in the court of Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone.

It was further brought out by prosecutors yesterday that Schiavone, apparently representing the remnants of the Capone syndicate, financed approximately $1,000,000 worth of surety bonds in the last few years for defendants in various criminal cases, many of whom were charged with bootlegging.

At the time he was shot, Schiavone was carrying a copy of a confidential audit of the finances of the Elevator Operators' and Starters' union, local 66. His connection with the union has never been disclosed fully by Matthew Taylor, union president.

Warehouseman Forges Link.

The chief witness yesterday was William F. Workman, 6840 Wabash avenue, owner of a six story warehouse at 973 Cullerton street. He said he rented the building to a stranger in 1934 for $1,500 a month and did not know until after a raid in February, 1935, that it was used for a still.

[Records show that the agents found a 10,000 gallon cooking plant, 12,000 gallons of illicit alcohol and 100,000 gallons of mash in the warehouse. Thirty-two individuals and corporations, including Workman, were indicted as operators or suppliers of the liquor ingredients. Thirty of the defendants were dismissed without trial. Workman and one other got probation.]

Workman, a soft-spoken little man, told an amazing tale of how his case was handled. Soon after he surrendered for questioning, he related, he was released on bond. He said everything happened so quickly he didn't even have to ask to be freed. And, he added, he never had to pay the usual bondsman's fee.

Probation Comes Easily.

Then "some one" [he couldn't remember who] directed him to Attorney Edward J. Hess. When he was arraigned for trial Hess entered a plea of guilty for him and a few moments later Workman found himself on probation. This, the witness said blinking nervously, was also something of a surprise inasmuch as Hess didn't ask him much about the case or how he wanted to plead.

At this point in his examination by Prosecutor Martin Ward, Workman identified Schiavone's photograph, saying he knew the gangster as P. F. Ramsby and that he received rent payments from him on several occasions.

[Records show that Ramsby was one of the 25 individuals indicted in connection with the Cullerton street warehouse still and that the charge against him was dismissed later on the motion of the government, represented by Glasser.]

A few moments later Workman admitted on cross-examination that he received $25 per week from some mysterious source for the first eight months he was on probation. The money was handed to him in envelopes by strangers at Van Buren and Clark streets, he related, and he never asked where it came from.

"What was the money for?" asked Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart.

"I suppose it was for keeping my mouth shut," the witness replied.

Attorney Stewart brought out that it was after these payments were discontinued that Workman went to the federal agents and gave particulars of renting the warehouse which he had previously withheld.

The government's first witness was Gordon Morgan, chief clerk in the United States district attorney's office, who revealed that Sidney S. Eckstone was appointed foreman of the April, 1937, grand jury on Glasser's suggestion. In 17 days, Morgan said, this jury considered 20 bootlegging cases presented by Glasser and returned indictments in only eight. Glasser and Eckstone conferred frequently in the former's office, behind closed doors, the witness said.

FORMER ASYLUM INMATE ADMITS WAUKEGAN FIRES

A young man, formerly an inmate of the state asylum in Elgin, confessed yesterday to Waukegan police and deputy state fire marshals that he started several of the 30 incendiary fires that have kept Waukegan alarmed since September. He is John Pustavrh, 21 years old, of 932 Prescott street, Waukegan.

The arrest was made Tuesday by Sergt. William MacDonald of Waukegan. Suspicion was directed at Pustavrh after several fires had been set in the building in which he lives. Deputy Fire Marshal Frank Doherty said he was a typical firebug and started the blazes "because he couldn't help it."

Two church edifices were among the places the prisoner confessed burning. The First Congregational church of Waukegan was destroyed Nov. 19, with a loss of $22,000, and the Aguda Achim synagogue suffered damage of $1,500 last Sunday. Investigators said they believed Pustavrh started all 30 fires.

Lone Survivor of a G.A.R. Post to Be 100 on Monday

Griggsville, Ill., Feb. 8 [Special].—Edwin McAllister, only surviving member of G. A. R. post No. 438, will celebrate his 100th birthday on Monday. He will be honored at a meeting arranged by the Griggsville Parent-Teachers' association and American Legion post and auxiliary.

3 PLEAD GUILTY IN U. OF C. HOLDUP; GET YEAR TO LIFE

Three members of a robbery gang seized by the police on Jan. 22 were sentenced yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski in Criminal court to one year to life in the state penitentiary on two charges of robbery each.

The three, Earle Underwood, 23 years old; his brother, Lester, 32, and Henry Carman, 24, pleaded guilty to robbing the University of Chicago bursar's office of $4,558 on Jan. 9. They and a girl companion, Dolores Downey, 18, were seized when police traced a car used by the bandits to Miss Downey at 1560 East 64th street. The gang was reported involved in more than 50 robberies.

The Downey girl went on trial for robbery yesterday before a jury in Judge Joseph A. Graber's Criminal court. She claimed she was forced to accompany the gang on its crime tours. Both sides rested after she testified. The case will go to the jury today.

Australian Plane Forced Down in Crash with Eagle

MELBOURNE, Australia, Feb. 8(AP).—A collision between an eagle and a plane carrying 13 persons today caused the plane to take fire and make a forced landing near Dimboola. No one, except the eagle, was injured. The bird struck one of the motors, knocking it loose and causing the fire.

DEFENSE GRILLS WOMAN WITNESS IN BERWYN TRIAL

Mrs. Rosalyn Nye Hitzeman, the state's star witness in the Berwyn embezzlement trial, was cross-examined for eight hours yesterday by defense attorneys. They sought to shake her story that she cashed a $3,726 check on the Berwyn special assessment fund for the defendants, Ernest W. Mau, Berwyn treasurer, and Matthew Berg, former treasurer.

Mrs. Rosalyn Hitzeman.

Mau and Berg are on trial before a jury in Judge William J. Lindsay's Criminal court. Defense Attorney James M. Burke, representing Mau, sought to show that the witness had given the money from the check to her husband, Attorney Harry Hitzeman. Mrs. Hitzeman denied it.

Attorney Joseph T. Harrington, representing Berg, announced that the defense will call Rudolph Sabath, custodian of the Criminal Courts building, to testify that he was with Berg in the bank on the day in question, Jan. 23, 1937, and that Berg was not with Mau and Mrs. Hitzeman.

The state is expected to conclude its case today.

WOMAN FLASHES GUN AND ROBS 3 SO. SIDE STORES

A woman armed with a small pistol, about 25 years old, held up three south side merchants in separate robberies last night. Her first victim was Jack Beaucaire, owner of a hardware store at 4823 South Ashland avenue. She got $20. An hour later she held up a grocery at 6342 South Ashland avenue and obtained $12 from Louis Koplopoulos. Not long afterward the woman held up Frank Suchman in his fruit market at 4008 26th street, adding $40 to her loot.

WAUKEGAN MAN'S FAITH IN AUTO THIEF COSTS $256

Charles Cobb, now 19 years old, was put on probation in Waukegan a year ago on a charge of stealing an automobile because he seemed to merit a chance. Among those who felt that way was the owner of Harry's Drug store at 123 North Genesee street, Waukegan. He hired Cobb a few months ago to do odd jobs. Last Monday Herman Michelson, the store manager, gave the youth $750 to deposit in a bank.

Charles Cobb.

Cobb disappeared. He came to Chicago, bought himself new clothes, rode in taxicabs, visited bars, then went by cab to South Bend, Ind. He was arrested there on Tuesday.

Yesterday Cobb, who lives at 821 North Jackson street, Waukegan, was held to the Lake county grand jury on a charge of larceny. He had spent $256 of his benefactor's money.

When EPIDEMICS rage..
keep within this "Circle of Protection"!

THE new epidemic is now upon us, but there's no need to become panicky. People usually escape illness if they fortify themselves with the "Circle of Protection," that is, take the following precautions:

1. Get at least eight hours' sleep every night. 2. Open windows wide before retiring so as to get plenty of fresh air. But avoid drafts. 3. Refrain from overeating, especially sweets. Keep the bowels open. 4. Exercise at least fifteen minutes in the open every day. 5. Wash hands frequently so as to keep them free from germs as far as possible. 6. Avoid overheating in home or office.

IMPORTANT

Never breathe through the mouth. Only the nose can warm up cold air before it strikes the tender membranes. Only the nose can filter out irritating dust and other impurities which break down resistance to disease.

If your nostrils are clogged-up due to a cold or nasal catarrh, insert Mentholatum in them night and morning. Mentholatum will soothe the irritated membranes and help relieve the local congestion in the nostrils, thus enabling you to breathe more freely through the nose instead of the mouth.

N. B. If any member of your family has sore throat, fever (over 99 degrees), chills, headache, extreme weakness, and aching of back and limbs, put him to bed and call your physician at once.

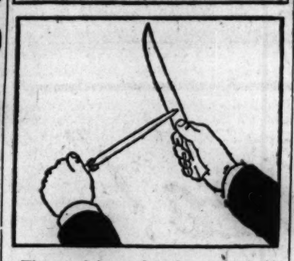
Truing Blade



The steel is used to keep the knife blade in condition. The steel is held in the left hand with the point held upward and away from the body.

The heel of the knife blade [where the blade enters the handle] is placed against the under side of the steel at its tip.

ADEQUATE TOOLS PROVE MAINSTAY IN MEAT CARVING

Tools in any trade are important, and the most expert carver would be at a loss without a good and well sharpened carving set.

The standard carving set consists of a knife, fork, and steel. The knife has an 8 or 9 inch blade and there is a guard on the fork to protect the carver's hand while he is cutting toward the fork. The steel is used to true the blade and keep the edge in good condition. The standard set can be used for all roasts and fowl.

In a steak set the knife blade is only 6 or 7 inches long and the fork does not always have a guard. This set may also be used for small roasts and fowl. This and the standard set are all that is necessary for the average family. When large roasts are to be carved it is convenient to have the oast meat slicer, with its long flexible blade for cutting large thin slices. With it is used a fork of widely spread tines called a carver's helper.

Keep in Separate Box.

Carving sets should be kept in a box separate from the other cutlery so that the knife will not be dulled or nicked. The blade should be sharpened occasionally and should be steeled in the kitchen before use.

To steel a blade hold the steel firmly in the left hand, thumb on top of the handle with point upward and somewhat away from the body. Place the heel of the blade against the under side of the tip of the steel and bring the blade down across the steel toward the left hand with a quick, swinging motion. At the beginning of the stroke the blade should meet the steel at a slight angle so that the edge of the blade, not the whole flat side, passes over the steel. The entire blade edge from tip to heel should pass over the steel in one stroke.

Dozen Strokes Sufficient.

The second stroke is identical to the first except that the blade is placed against the upper, or near, side of the steel. A dozen strokes alternating on each side of the steel usually is sufficient. Keep the strokes light, without bearing too heavily on the knife. Avoid holding the knife at too great an angle—a 25 degree angle between the edge of the blade and steel is about right.

There are a few principles of carving which every carver should know. First is a knowledge of the location of bones and joints and the directions of muscle fibers in the particular cut he is to carve. Knowing the direction in which fibers run makes it possible for the carver to slice across the grain. Cutting across the grain gives a serving of shorter fibers, which is more tender.

Keep Knife at Same Angle.

The carver's objective should be neat, even slices. Each stroke of the knife should be drawn the full length of the blade, with a clean sweep and not zigzag sawing motion. To keep slices even, never change the angle at which the knife is held once the blade has bit into the meat. All slices should be parallel. The thickness of the slice will vary with each cut, but in general about ⅝ of an inch is best. Too thick or too thin a slice is unattractive.

The hostess controls the carver's efficiency to a certain extent. It is for her to see that the meat is neither over nor under cooked. Meat that is not done is difficult to slice, and overcooked meat falls apart when cut. Except in the case of rolled roasts, which would fall apart, all strings and skewers should be removed in the kitchen.

Where to Place Plates.

When the carver's place is properly set he can work easily without danger of toppling over waterglass or spattering the table. Silverware is set exactly as at any other diner's place with serving spoons to the extreme right.

The carving platter is directly in back of the dinner plates, which are placed in the center of the place. If there are many plates it is convenient to have only 3 or 4 in front of him and the rest at his left in a line with forks and napkin. Vegetable plates are to his right unless there are so many of them that it becomes necessary to place some at his left.

VANILLA LEMON ALMOND—RED AND GREEN FOOD COLORS

"Now that's what I call good coffee"

How pleasant it is to have a friend telephone you and tell you what a grand time she had at your house the night before... how good the dinner was, and what her husband said on the way home about the coffee you served them: "NOW THAT'S WHAT I CALL GOOD COFFEE!"

The Correct Grind is guaranteed to give best results by any method of coffee-making. Caution—do not ask your grocer to regrind Hills Bros. Coffee. Regrinding results in a loss of flavor, aroma, and freshness.

IMPORTANT: Carefully observe timing for each method. Measure 2 level tablespoons of coffee to each cup of water. Vary water slightly for exact strength desired. Keep coffee-maker clean.

WHEN USING THE DRIP METHOD: 6 to 8 minutes preferred. If less than 2/3 capacity is made, the water will drip too fast, giving weak coffee.

WHEN USING A GLASS VACUUM-MAKER: Put upper bowl on after the water boils. The coffee and water should be in contact 5 to 7 minutes.

WHEN USING A PERCOLATOR: Start with cold or hot water. Percolate slowly 7 to 10 minutes after steady pumping starts.

WHEN USING A COFFEEPOT: Bring coffee to boiling. Stir. Remove from fire. Add a little cold water and let stand 5 minutes to settle.

WHEN USING THE STEEPING METHOD: Pour boiling water on coffee. Stir well. Stir again in 5 minutes. Steep for a total of 10 to 15 minutes.

Hint of the week

Never boil nor overheat coffee. This drives off the aromatic substances from the coffee and is detrimental to the quality of the beverage. Coffee can be brought to a boil but should not be allowed to continue boiling.

FOOD BARGAINS TIP SCALES IN FAVOR OF FISH

Sea Food Manna Rains on Markets for Lent.

BY MARY MEADE.

Fish in cans, frozen fish, fresh fish, fancy pickled fish, and everyday unpickled fish—fish, in short, are creating most of the bargain excitement this week-end.

Every fish has its day and all varieties are having a whole season now during Lent. If you like fish, now is the time to buy it. If you don't like fish there are many other Lenten foods on sale to take its place. Especially priced are noodles, spaghetti, macaroni, and cheese. They're sold separately or in combination dinners.

Poultry Bargains, Too.

For meat eating days, look for bargains in pork and poultry. All kinds of pork—sausages to pork loins—are widely featured. Lamb chops and beef rib roasts of all kinds are excellent buys. You'll find specials on the cheaper cuts of beef, but they're actually not as good a buy as the more expensive cuts, even tho they cost less.

If it's chicken for Sunday dinner, take your pick from roasting hens, capons, or stewing chickens. Hen turkeys running from 10 to 13 pounds are especially priced in some stores.

Nobody knows exactly what will happen to fresh vegetable and citrus prices within the next few weeks. Marketing experts make their predictions, but as yet it is impossible to tell the extent of the cold weather damage in many cases. At any rate, real bargains in fresh vegetables are few and far between this week, and it's the wise housewife who'll turn to fresh frozen vegetables and her can opener for at least a part of the green groceries.

Requires Less Preparation.

There are sales every week-end in ready to cook fresh frozen foods as well as canned goods. It should be consoling that both require less preparation than fresh produce.

The few good buys in fresh vegetables include cauliflower, which is actually a little cheaper this week; carrots, lettuce, and celery. Old potatoes, old cabbage [when you can find it], and dry onions are all still reasonable.

High priced are bunch beets, green beans, brussels sprouts, cabbage, new potatoes, peas, green peppers, radishes, and spinach. Tomatoes and cucumbers are in the strictly luxury class. Most of the vegetables mentioned have gone up again this week. Cabbage is expected to be even higher in a few weeks. Baby cabbages, not yet ready for market, were damaged most by freezing. Radishes are scarce and far too high for everyday nibbling. Green peppers and green peas are so scarce that they're being brought up from Mexico these days.

Citrus Fruit Slightly Lower.

Citrus fruits are a little cheaper this week, but are not down to the low prices before the freeze.

Apples are a little higher, but they're about the best all-around fruit buy on the market. Bananas and winter pears and western grapes where available are also reasonable. Rhubarb is quite reasonable, altho the price is slightly higher than it was a few weeks back.

Florida strawberries, which were just beginning to dribble in a few weeks ago, are now so scarce and so high that it's almost an understatement to call them luxuries. Fancy honeydew, plums, and nectarines from far off Chile are no more of a luxury.

Enhance Flavor of Lima Beans by Adding Sausage

To vary the flavor of your lima beans, bake them with link sausages. After the beans are soaked, cooked, and seasoned, place them in a greased casserole and lay sausage links on top. Place them in a moderate oven [350 degrees] until sausages are cooked thru and browned. For extra flavor add a little grated onion or onion juice to the beans.

Cherry Upside-Down Cake

Not a cherry pie—but a cherry upside-down cake, served with whipped cream cheese. To make the cake, melt ¼ cup butter in a heavy skillet or cake pan and blend in ½ cup sugar. Then cover evenly, with 2 cups pitted and drained red cherries. On top of this pour your favorite plain cake batter and bake as you usually would. When the cake is done, cool for a minute or two, then turn out on a round platter. Serve warm with cream cheese that has been softened with a small amount of milk and whipped until light and fluffy.

OYSTERS SERVED IN POTATO SHELLS ARE A FULL MEAL

OYSTERS IN POTATO SHELLS.
[Serves eight.]

4 large baking potatoes
Melted butter
1 pint oysters
French dressing
Hot milk
Salt and pepper
½ cup buttered bread crumbs
Paprika

Scrub potatoes and brush with melted butter. Bake in a hot oven [400 degrees] for one hour, or until done. Marinate oysters in French dressing for half an hour. Drain. Cut potatoes in halves lengthwise and scoop out insides. Mash, add hot milk, butter, pepper, and salt. Beat until fluffy. Line potato shells with mashed potatoes, leaving hollow in center of each. Fill with oysters and sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Sprinkle with paprika and return to oven for 15 minutes, or until crumbs are browned.

French Salad Dressing with Just Right Flavor

If a salad dressing is going to perform its function of dressing up a salad it must have a zippy, spicy flavor. You'll like this not too sweet French dressing:

FRENCH SALAD DRESSING.

½ teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon paprika
6 tablespoons salad oil
½ teaspoon onion juice
2 tablespoons vinegar

Mix dry ingredients and add to salad oil. Add onion juice and vinegar and shake or beat until well blended.

FASTER WAY TO CLEAN
—Cuts Down on 90% of Needless Scrubbing and Scouring You Do!

1. Scour part of bathtub with ordinary "lazy" cleanser. Notice how hard you work, how slowly dirt disappears.
2. Now try Bab-O. See how it dissolves grease so dirt gently wipes off, leaving bathtub sparkling white with far less work.
It's Grease That Makes Dirt Stick. Try Bab-O Which Dissolves Grease So Dirt Gently Wipes Away!
● What's the modern cleaning problem that makes you work so hard? Dirt? No—grease! It's grease that coats not only pots and pans but bathroom fixtures, painted walls, sinks, refrigerators, all porcelain and enamel surfaces—making dirt stick, and thus causing over 90% of the scouring and scrubbing you do!
How to get rid of this greasy binder? Ordinary "sluggish" cleansers, depending chiefly on grit, make you do most of the work. Here's the answer! Switch to Bab-O—the cleaner which was actually perfected to meet this problem. Bab-O contains an active special ingredient that quickly dissolves grease, so dirt easily wipes off. And because Bab-O works so much faster and more effectively, a little does more cleaning. Result: You can use less of it—you save not only time—not only work—but money too! Switch to Bab-O today.
NOTE: Bab-O is white—stays white even when wet—because it contains only pure cleaning ingredients.

Trick for Smart Guys.

If you want to confuse your friends and confound your enemies tell them the number in the upper right hand corner of their automobile driver's license. Simply look them in the eye. If the name is Wilson, pause for a moment, consult the following table, go into a trance, and then state that the number is W-425. The world is your oyster.

* * *

Here's how. Eighteen letters of the alphabet are listed below, with numbers designating the group into which they fall. To arrive at the number on the license for Wilson, take the first letter of the name, W, as the series number. Then for the first number use the number of the group into which the next letter of the name that appears in any of the groups belongs. In the case of Wilson it is L, and the number for L on the chart is 2. Letter S is in group 2, and N is in group 5, which gives the number of the license, W-425. A zero is added where sufficient numbers are shown for only two letters. If S and C are contiguous in the name, S is used and C is omitted in figuring the numbers. In cases of long names the numbers may be carried out to five places.

* * *

1—B F P V
2—C G U K Q S Z X
3—T D
4—L
5—M N
6—R

Collectors of old American glass and copper will be interested to know that it's now possible to add to their treasures without going on any long and tedious antique hunts. Today marks the opening in Chicago of a special showing of old pieces of glass in many of the popular patterns, and of items in old copper. Arranged against appropriate backgrounds these bits of Americana will be seen at their best, but prices will not be too high. EDITH WEIGLE.

Likes Ponsen's New Exhibit of Harbor Scenes

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the most distinguished of the month's exhibitions is that of landscapes and harbor scenes by Tunis Ponsen at the Tudor gallery, Chicago Woman's club. Mr. Ponsen is one of our well-known painters and his work is always a delight. These recent paintings were done on the Gaspé, that tongue of Canada which is still rich in primitive living, and at Gloucester.

"In Port" is a colorful little canvas showing a fishing boat drawn up beside the wharf. The shadows in the water are beautifully handled and the color and theme remind one of a Japanese print.

"Lifting Fog" is another striking picture, the grays as smooth and wet as fog itself. A group of tiny pictures is most intriguing and the larger paintings well repay a visit.

Paintings by Esther Austin are on view at the Drake hotel under the auspices of the All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts. There are portraits, studies of flowers, and landscapes in the show. Several of the portraits are charming, among them "Marjorie" and "The Summer Girl." The idea behind "Just a Cup of Tea" is good and has been beautifully brought out. The "Portrait of My Husband" is an effective piece of work.

The landscapes are less impressive than the flower studies. Perhaps it is because Frank V. Dudley has not such a high standard but, whatever the reason, it seems hard for other Chicago painters to get just that sandy feeling to sand which he gives. And Mrs. Austin dallies among the dunes so much she forces the comparison. Among the flower studies we liked "A Breath of Spring," "Peonies," "Night Blooming Cereus," and "Asters."

Two young modern exhibitions are on the walls of north side galleries. At the Katharine Kuh gallery, 540 North Michigan avenue, are water colors and drawings by Lester O. Schwartz. These are vague in outline, weak in drawing, and romantic in color. One can easily imagine perfume in the painting water. Figures of young paper-dollish girls are discovered in a number of the compositions. Our taste picked out a black horse, actually strongly built and alive, and another riding scene to which we would rather like to return.

At Gallery House, 17 East Elm street, are drawings by Rufus Bastien, Edgar Ewing, and Glenn Krause. The best of these three is Krause.

Apron with Ruffled Shoulders

MISS' APRON.

Ruffled wing shoulders are the outstanding feature of this apron to wear when you're tea party hostess. The same fullness motif is carried out in the generously gathered skirt and in the two plump pockets. Secure shoulder straps are reinforced by a back panel that is buttoned, making the garment simple to slip on. The most inexpensive of cottons, plain or figured, may be used, and the trimming need be nothing more than rickrack braid or bias binding.

If you'll look at the sketch at upper left you'll notice that the pattern also makes a sports apron. In case you've never heard of such a thing before, "we're telling you"! You may wear it for tennis or badminton, and a demure looking bonnet is included in the pattern.

Style No. 3156 is designed for sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 35 inch material for pinafore apron; 7¾ yards of binding; 1 yard of 35 inch for bonnet.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

It Is Parents' Job to Provide Play at Home

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940; News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

I know her now at 14, and I did also when she was 4. Some of the differences the years have made fascinate me.

The other day [being 14, as I said] she nonchalantly got up on the bootblack's high chair with its footrests, and read the paper while she had her shoes shined. As she did, I could see her again at four.

Now at 4, what does a child do in such a fascinating situation? Is she nonchalant? Not at all. At 4 she climbs 'way up into the big chair in the "shoe shine parlor" and watches with absorption every move of the bootblack. Nothing escapes her. The next day she's polishing your shoes with an astonishing and clever copy of his movements, tho her first few results may be a little gooey.

Almost every detail of ordinary everyday living is grist to the mill that is a small child's mind and imagination. Given a little interest by his mother, some easily bought imitations of real things, some "playing up" to him on her part, and he's an amused and entertained and contented child.

This is one whole field of play that keeps the small child from the aimlessness we've been talking about and want to avoid. Any ordinary home supplies the materials for countless hours of self-activity, of creative, imaginative play and occupation, derived from his interest in the activities of everyday living. The animals at the zoo, wash day at home, cleaning day, baking, cleaning the silver, telephoning, have an intense appeal for them, and can be played out by a child without a single so-called "toy."

"Our Toy and Plaything List," graded according to age, is a leaflet of interest to parents, teachers, and nurses. Send a large, stamped, addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Date Bureau Finds Girls for U. of C. Law Dance

Students of the law school of the University of Chicago became worried a few days ago because some of their number didn't have dates for the school dance to be given Feb. 17 in the Cloister club. So they established a date bureau. Yesterday it was reported that a number of girls had been registered and that there was no excuse for budding lawyers to stay away; the bureau was ready to furnish partners.

Pattern for Lord's Prayer

The Lord's Prayer

X-4711

Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil: For thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, for ever. Amen.

BY NANCY CABOT.

If you wish to keep the Lord's prayer in a conspicuous place for the instruction of little children, or if you want a copy of it to be hung on your bedroom wall, make a wall hanging yourself with the aid of this transfer pattern. The letters may be embroidered in either black or colors. If the small letters are done in brown and the capitals alternating in dull blue and gold, the ultimate effect will be that of an old parchment. A narrow blue frame would be impressive.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the Lord's prayer, No. X-4711, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

On the House

If you would add a personal touch to your garden gate, why not give heed to a new trend, and present it with your monogram or initials? You can use any type of lettering you wish, tho there's a point to keeping it simple. Paint it so it will stand out against the background of the gate itself, and in some color to blend happily with shrubbery and flowers—when spring comes round.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

It is a common occurrence for two defenders to have radically different ideas as to the proper line of defense against a given contract.

Smooth coöperation being the very life blood of defensive play, it is essential that one of them abandon his own idea and do his best to further partner's in order to avoid discord that is bound to be very helpful to the enemy. In today's hand West went blithely on his way as tho he had no partner. The result was what might have been expected.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 heart	1 no trump	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

North's free bid of one no trump was a trifle shaded but not really bad. East's double was certainly persuasive, as was South's redouble.

West opened the king of hearts and, altho his partner followed with the deuce, the ace was laid down and a third round led. East suspected that this line of defense was wrong [that declarer also was now out of hearts] and tried to protect himself by ruffing with the diamond ten but the declarer was too shrewd. He overruffed the ten, cashed the trump ace, led the seven of clubs to dummy's jack, and finessed against the jack of trumps. The finesse succeeding, he now ran off every trump, leaving himself with the jack of spades and the A-Q of clubs. Dummy kept the K-6-4 of clubs and poor East was hopelessly squeezed, being forced either to unguard dummy's club suit or to throw away the spade ace, which would promote South's spade jack to winning rank.

West was criminally stubborn in not following his partner's direction, as conveyed by the deuce and jack of hearts. East had doubled the final contract and should certainly have been given credit for knowing whether or not he wanted to ruff a third round of hearts. West's duty was to shift leads, and consideration of the dummy in connection with his own hand would have dictated a shift to spades rather than clubs. This would have defeated the redoubled game contract.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"The Light That Failed," adapted from Rudyard Kipling's fine story, is a picture of quiet distinction.

It has no spectacular moments, no big, dramatic punches. What it gives you is a bit of life, strongly and intelligently presented. With Ronald Coleman and Walter Huston in the leading rôles, you know pretty well what to expect. The picture's only flaw—to me—is Murial Angelus' uninspired portrayal of Maisie. Ida Lupino does a beautiful job as the "little bit of nothing," Bessie.

Messrs. Colman and Huston are seen as war correspondents in India, as the story opens. . . . The former saves the latter from a native spear and receives a cut over the eye for his bravery. . . . It heals, apparently. Heldar and Torpenhow, the war over, return to London where they don't know just what to do with themselves. . . . Heldar, an artist, decides to commercialize on his war experience and paints pictures that sell like hot cakes. NOT the sort of pictures he would like to paint and COULD paint, but the sort of thing the public wants. . . . And he tries to wed his childhood sweetheart, also an artist, but an unsuccessful one.

Maisie, however, wants a career and will hear nought of marriage. . . .

Comes a day when everything blurs to Heldar. The doctor tells him that the cut he had received has inflicted permanent injury which dooms him to blindness. . . . Before the darkness falls he resolves to paint ONE masterpiece. . . He does—of little tramp Bessie—who, in a fury, is to destroy it after its completion. . . .

But the night she commits her wanton deed is the night Heldar goes blind. The truth is kept from him till—Bessie herself, penitent and fearful—confesses. . . . Heldar makes his way to the front, where Torpenhow now is and. . . . I won't tell you the rest.

The sidewalk crowds won't go for this one. But the audiences Colman and Huston like to play to—WILL.

Both Kurtz and His Cello Have a Right Night

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Like all who play upon the cello Edmund Kurtz has his ups and his downs. Sometimes his instrument sings like an angel, sometimes it growls like a bear. Last night was one of Mr. Kurtz' up nights, and his appearance in Orchestra hall as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra—which organization he customarily serves as first cellist—was so successful that he was compelled to make three or four extra trips to the stage to acknowledge the applause.

His vehicle was Tschaikowsky's variations on a rococo theme, a piece which has a strange faculty for seeming worn, no matter how infrequently one may have heard it. It has, however, the sort of a charm which a slightly shabby and ornate 18th century chair might have, and Mr. Kurtz worked mightily to exploit this charm to the utmost.

His instrument sung piercingly and pungently by turns, and gave the melody's long breathed phrases a quite impressive nobility. The performance was marked by an intensity which led once or twice [in the more florid passages] to rather labored bits of playing, but which served to give the piece as a whole an air of importance which it does not quite deserve.

Hans Lange, conductor of the evening, revived Berlioz' "Fantastic Symphony." The work's extreme, yearning romanticism was plausibly presented in the beautiful first and third movements. In the fourth and fifth the brasses and percussion instruments succeeded in giving the performance that air of terror which is part and parcel, we are reliably informed, of the kind of opium dreams which may have inspired Berlioz' music.

Chadwick's charming little "Tam O'Shanter" came to one of its rare performances. The mystical, lyrical character of some of its themes and the sly Caledonian humor of the others were enough to make the audience wonder why we do not hear so taking an example of American music a little oftener.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra and the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra will trade platforms for two subscription concerts next season. The Chicago orchestra will play in Carnegie hall, New York, Nov. 20 and 22, and the New York orchestra in Orchestra hall, Chicago, Nov. 21 and 22. The tour and the New York concerts which will be its high points are among the many special features planned for the Chicago Symphony orchestra's golden jubilee season.

"It is well to bear in mind that the common creeds of Christendom do not begin with 'I want,' or 'I feel,' or 'I understand!' They begin with the simple confession, 'I believe!' All that we really know about God is not what we want, or feel, or what we have been clever enough to find out for ourselves, but what God has revealed in Christ." From the sermon of the Rev. Theodore Matson of the Augustana Lutheran Home Missions society yesterday at the Erlanger theater.

"We must learn the truth that God is not a dictator, but one to be found thru Christ who has the spirit of justice, mercy, and love. We must learn the truth that man is neither a slave nor an outlaw, but a child who must win his freedom by learning to live with his fellows and to draw his power from God. We must learn that God proclaims definite moral standards and that man comes to know God as he lives by and fights for those standards, many of which are being violated today." From the noonday sermon yesterday of Bishop Henry Wise Hobson of Cincinnati, O., at the Harris theater.

Hands Speak Eloquently; Groom Them

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate, Co., Inc.]

"Don't be afraid to speak with your hands, girls, because they make speech effective when the gesture is sincere. BUT BE CERTAIN YOUR HANDS ARE LOVELY TO LOOK AT!"

Such is the counsel of the world's most famous party-giver, Elsa Maxwell, who puts hand beauty at the top of her list of requisites for feminine pulchritude.

Says Miss Maxwell: "A woman's hands are expressive of the real person and are more noticeable than her mouth and her eyes."

Whether you believe that last sentence or not, you must admit that hands today are no little blushing violets. On the contrary sometimes! They scream and they shout. Against the loudspeaking nail tips Miss Maxwell pronounces the verdict that they're a crime against nature and a woman should keep in tune with what's natural in all departments of makeup.

"Hands," continues the party entrepreneur, "should be white, groomed to the tips, put thru a daily course of exercises for expression and they should be treated to two manicures a week.

"Never wear nails as long as a mandarin's but do accentuate artistic hands with slender nails slightly longer than the fingers. And don't attempt to dramatize a short, capable hand. Long nails look ridiculous on it. File them round and keep them short for harmony with the rest of the hand."

About speaking with hands, American women are becoming more adept in this practice formerly considered the prerogative of the Latin women.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

Some of the our favorite perfumes are out now in purse size bottles; we're delighted to hear about it. You probably will be, too, because the perfumes available in the inexpensive, convenient and practical sizes are as popular as they're beautiful.

All are famous. Perhaps our favorite is a floral blend, one of the most beautifully rounded perfumes in the world. It's been a best seller for years. Unless we're entirely inaccurate in recollection of its history, it's more than 50 years old. And any perfume that holds feminine favor for that length of time must be good, don't you think?

This is one of those sprightly, dancing scents but it doesn't lack the romantic quality. This trick of blending the artful with the artless is probably the secret of its charm.

Then there is another blend, not floral in the strict sense of the word; it's rather more sophisticated. It too is tremendously popular. Or, you may take your choice of a divine violet, a true gardenia or two other blends.

All perfume-loving but poor women rejoice when truly exquisite perfumes are made available in inexpensive quantities. And it's luxurious to carry perfume in your bag, so that you have it handy when the spirits need a fragrant cocktail. The flacons are leakproof, and fit snugly in a little leather kit that lessens the danger of breakage and saves compact or other items in the purse from scratches.

Miss Wetten Will Be Bride of Pennington

BY JUDITH CASS.

"Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hayes Wetten of 209 Lake Shore drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to James Sutton Pennington Jr., son of Allen James Sutton Pennington of Los Angeles, Cal.," is interesting romantic news that is being made known today.

Miss Wetten, who attended Dana Hall and Wellesley college, is a former president of the Service club and a member of the Chicago Junior league. Mr. Pennington was graduated from Amherst with the class of 1930. No date has been set for the wedding.

Thousand Guests at Cornell Parties.

More than a thousand pretty young women from colleges and boarding schools have gone to Cornell university to attend the Junior week festivities. The parties started yesterday and will be concluded tomorrow night.

An ice carnival on Beebe lake last night followed by house party dances started Junior week off brilliantly. The high spot of the celebration will be the Junior prom tonight.

Among young women from Chicago who will be donning their newest evening gowns this evening will be Miss Josephine Wallace and Miss Dorothy Warner, debutantes of this season. The former is a student at Vassar, the latter at Sarah Lawrence. Frank Stout of Winnetka is Miss Wallace's escort. Gordon Kiddoo and Erskine Wilder have as their guests, respectively, Miss Mary Walsh and Miss Anita Straub, another Vassar student, of Winnetka.

Miss Margaret Brown, who attends the Roycemore school, is Arthur Getz's guest. Miss Madeleine Hedly, another bud of last season, has Herman Uihlein of Milwaukee as her escort. Miss Jill Fabian, a Smith student, accepted Malcolm Vail's invitation. Miss Rosamund Purdy, Miss Frances Gordon, Miss Nancy Hoffman, Miss Dorothy Donovan, and Miss Barbara Lewis are other Chicagoans in the merry making throngs.

Winter Carnival at Dartmouth.

The Dartmouth Winter carnival, one of the most famous of college midwinter parties, is being held today and tomorrow at Hanover, N. H. Other hundreds of attractive young women will take part in the gay festivities there. Robert Dana Brown of Chicago, who is a freshman at Dartmouth, will have one of the leading rôles in the Dartmouth Players' Winter carnival farce-comedy, "Twentieth Century."

André Philip, member of the French chamber of deputies and professor at the University of Lyons, will address the Council on Foreign Relations at 12:30 o'clock today in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House.

Give Benefit Show at U. of C. Tonight.

Clifton Utley as a "bobby"; Arthur Bovée as a "gendarme"; Norris Tibbetts as a "cop," and Dean Charles Gilkey as a university campus policeman will interpret Gilbert and Sullivan's "A Policeman's Lot" this evening as part of the program for a benefit for the University of Chicago Settlement.

Mrs. Merle Coulter, chairman of the benefit, has planned a varied bill. The first half will consist of choruses and skits, including a preview of the "Mirror" show which will be given in spring. The skit has been written and will be staged by students. The other part, of a more serious nature, will include numbers by a duo piano team composed of mother and daughter, and dances by the Graff ballet.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Lucky Breaks.

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 8.—If the proposition needed proving—that one good part can "make" a performer—recent flickers have served as proof. . . . Ida Lupino, shoved around for years, finally landed a part in "The Light That Failed" that won recognition for this comely youngster.

Vivien Leigh's experience in "Gone with the Wind" is the most illustrious, and rôles in the same picture did as much for Hattie McDaniel and Olivia de Havilland. . . . "Good-bye, Mr. Chips" made Greer Garson internationally famous, but, unfortunately for her, her studio bonered by miscasting her in the followup.

Ilona Massey is a big shot now as a result of one rôle in "Balalaika." . . . Edward G. Robinson, after a long career as a gangster, wins a new lease on dramatic life as Dr. Ehrlich. . . . Joan Fontaine, long obscured as the kid sister of Olivia de Havilland, got one fat part in "The Women," and George Cukor lifted her to semistardom in one scene.

"Jamaica Inn" elevated Maureen O'Hara to top billing. . . . Robert Stack got his break in the last Durbin flicker, "First Love," . . . "Frontier Marshal" gave Cesar Romero a part that finally yanked him out of the also-ran class. . . . In "Pygmalion" young Wendy Hiller became a star. . . . "Hotel for Women" did it for Linda Darnell. . . . "Wings of the Morning" made a big name of Annabella, but she hasn't had a decent picture since, which is the fault of the scripters. . . . Ann Sothern, after banging along in vacuous rôles, finally got her teeth into a rôle in "Trade Winds" that led on to fame as Maizie.

"Jesse James" lifted Henry Fonda into the star division. . . . He played the part of Frank James, and did it so brilliantly [and grimly] that he stole every scene they gave him. . . . John Wayne won recognition in "Stagecoach," but since then has been handicapped by the most dreadful tripe. . . . Young Lon Chaney got his big chance in "Of Mice and Men," and cleaned out the larder.

Much has been written of Jimmy Stewart, but it was "Navy Blue and Gold" that launched Jimmy on the high road to stardom. . . . "The Awful Truth" did it for Cary Grant. . . . "Of Human Bondage" made Bette Davis a great star, but it was the Arliss picture preceding it that won her the opportunity to play opposite Leslie Howard in the Maugham story.

Hedy Lamarr has been traveling along on the momentum provided by "Algiers." . . . "The Prisoner of Zenda" established David Niven. . . . Franchot Tone busted into prominence in "Lives of a Bengal Lancer."

Sometimes a player is lucky enough to get a good rôle in his or her first picture. . . . Irene Dunne had that experience in "Cimarron." . . . John Garfield did it in "Four Daughters," despite the fact that he overacted. . . . "Hurricane" accomplished it for Jon Hall, but more important, it was this picture that gave Thomas

The Girl in the Shadows

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage, Cynthia is wrongly sentenced to prison, the scapegoat of Rory Clarke. At Honebyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. The two girls change places and identities—and in two weeks' of freedom, Cynthia marries Michael Alloway without telling him of her disgrace. After the honeymoon, Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to his job in Malta without her and she returns to prison. There she discovers she is going to have a baby. Cynthia breaks prison. Explaining her disappearance as a lapse of memory, Cynthia goes to stay with Michael's mother and sister Marion at Cloudleigh. Rory Clarke trails her there and blackmails her. Scotland Yard connects Cynthia with Rory Clarke. Detective Stevens seeks to interview Cynthia and arouses Marion's suspicions. Cynthia attempts to fly to Malta to join Michael, but is arrested at the airport. Her marriage on a date when she was supposed to be in prison clears her. She goes to Malta. While Bessie is applying for a job from Marion, Detective Stevens calls. He makes a date with Bessie. Realizing Stevens is close to the truth, Bessie sends a telegram of warning to Cynthia. Marion forces Bessie to confess the truth about Cynthia. Detective Inspector Rason questions Cynthia in Malta as to whether Bessie attended her wedding. Cynthia lies.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

THE LIE.

Cynthia's silence made her husband look at her. The next instant, with an exclamation, he was at her side. She had fainted completely away.

He picked her up and carried her to the bedroom. Laying her on the bed, he looked frantically around for something to revive her with. A cold sponge against her temples seemed to have no effect. He began to search for the smelling salts which he assumed all women carried—because his mother did.

He pulled open one drawer after another, burrowing and rummaging. A faint perfume came to him from the silken piles. Far back in a corner he found a little woolly bear, and his eyes softened. Under the bear lay a cablegram—he recognized the colored paper. One from him, no doubt, kept as a token. . . . Still groping for those confounded salts, he shifted the bear and read the typed strips.

"Remember I was at your wedding. Best of luck, Bessie."

Just for the moment his bewilderment swept everything else from his mind. Odd! Dashed odd! The cable was only a few days old and was evidently intended to remind Cynthia of something that a Scotland Yard detective had just traveled all the way out here to ask.

A faint movement from the bed sent him hurrying back to it. Cynthia was beginning to stir.

"I don't often faint," said Cynthia apologetically. "I can't think why I did then. Perhaps—" she stole a glance at Michael—"detectives are rather alarming even when they haven't come to arrest you."

"You overtired yourself, talking to him," Michael told her. "Or perhaps there were too many—coincidences for one afternoon."

She caught the slight—the very slight—edge to his voice and drew herself up straighter against the pillows he had put behind her. Her eyes strayed round the room, noting the disorder into which his search had thrown it. Not a drawer had he shut—and he seemed to have opened them all. He followed her gaze.

"Is that what you were looking for!"

He took her hand and held it with great gentleness.

"That's what I was looking for. But what I found was a very fetching little bear." He paused an instant. "I think you'll believe me when I tell you that I thought the cablegram under it was one of mine you'd kept. Nothing else would have led me to read it."

Cynthia slowly withdrew her hand. A terrible sense of futility settled upon her. Such a negligible chance, but it had happened; Michael had become suspicious and all the planning and lying, the wild risks and miraculous escapes had gone for nothing. There was an edge to Michael's voice and perhaps it would never be smoothed away again.

"Bessie Stockley seems to want to have been at our wedding," said Michael with a slight irony that he had never shown her before. "Whether she was or not."

It flicked at her exhausted nerves like a whip, but acted as a stimulant. She sat straighter still. If she could get a grip on herself, she could save the situation yet.

"She wasn't there, was she?" inquired Michael, still very gently.

"No. No, Michael, she wasn't. I told a lie."

Michael was silent.

"Bessie has good reasons for asking me to tell this lie for her," Cynthia hurried on. "I mean, honorable reasons. She's done nothing wrong, nothing criminal in her life; in fact she's taken a magnificent risk for—for some one else's sake. But it's essential for her safety and for the—other person's that she should have this particular alibi."

"Is the other person Clara Brown?"

Cynthia had a vision of what Clara Brown must mean to Michael. A girl who frequented night clubs in the company of men like Rory Clarke. A confederate of crooks. A hidden, sordid fugitive.

"No," she said, "it isn't."

Michael got up and paced the room.

"Speaking impersonally," he said after a turn or two, "I think it's the height of folly to deceive the police. At best it's antisocial. At most, it's ranging yourself on the side of lawlessness. . . . O, I take your word for it that your Bessie didn't help a convict to escape—anyway, she couldn't have, once she'd been transferred to another prison. But if she wants the police to think she was in a London church on August the 23d when she wasn't, she's obviously got on the wrong side of the law."

Cynthia was miserably silent.

"D'you know where Bessie is now?" asked Michael, still pacing.

Cynthia saw a gleam of hope.

"Yes. She's down at Cloutleigh and I hope Marion's finding her some work at the Manor. Now, Michael,"—as he swung round—"this at least you know of me, that I would cut off my right hand rather than let any but a brave, upright, good girl live under the same roof as your mother!"

"Yes, I know that."

"Then can't you accept this as the most honest thing I can say of Bessie—that she's never done anything in her life she'd be ashamed for your mother to know."

Michael's hands thrust themselves deeper into his pockets. His pacing had brought him to the window and he stopped to stare out at the path of moonlight that now lay upon the sea.

"Very well," he said. "I consent. Reluctantly, I admit. But to the best of my power I will never give you or Bessie away."

"Thank you, darling. That's truly generous of you. . . . And now I think I'll get up and change. O yes, I feel quite strong enough and perfectly rested."

• • • • •

Bessie had only been with Mrs. Alloway a week and already she was a success.

"I like her, Marion. She's active and extremely willing."

"I'm so glad, mother."

"Has it struck you, dear, that she is a little like Cynthia? In appearance, I mean. They could almost change places before people who didn't know them well."

Marion jumped. She was easily startled these days.

"I hadn't noticed it myself," she said, "but I seem to remember some story of the Brentifords and their gardner having an ancestress in common. A Brentiford heiress in the 18th century eloped with her groom, I believe."

"How very romantic!"

Mrs. Alloway returned to her paper, but from behind it she studied her daughter. Really, Marion was looking far from well. Bessie seemed to have come just in time.

"Don't you think, dear," she suggested, "that if Bessie continues satisfactory you might take a few days' holiday? You've been tied to me ever since the wedding. You deserve some gaiety for a change."

Insurance Company Sends Physician to Film Set; He's Needed

The insurance company sent a doctor to the set just in case.

There was no accident, but the doctor found his services needed anyway.

The Problem of Necking Partly That of Girls

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Being of the feminine sex, and because we hear more complaints from young women on the unwelcomeness of petting, we stood in danger of being persuaded that the young man is the always aggressive one in the game. We stand semicorrected now by the arguments of that student of human behavior in and out of marriage, Paul Popenoe, Sc. D., who puts the aggressiveness in petting parties right up to the girl.

In a recent magazine article Popenoe explains the girls' aggressive spirit in petting affairs as a development of the aggressiveness of the female in many other modern ways. In the march of progress, girls have taken away from boys most of the things which formerly distinguished them from girls, Popenoe notes.

They've taken his hat, his shoes, his sports, his haircuts; they've taken all his vices and would have taken his virtues if they could have discovered any, we're informed. They've robbed the boy even of his superior talent at pencil sharpening. Along with this, Popenoe says, the girl matures biologically, emotionally and socially more rapidly than does the boy.

In high school years, when girls and boys begin going together, Popenoe says, it is a one sided sort of social life in which boys are largely pawns to be moved around on the board by girls and the mothers of the girls, in a social game played by the females.

The girls call the boy and tell him when to come; their mothers call him down and tell him when to go. He does not make the plans for social affairs; he merely falls in with those which the girls have made for him. And so, even to petting parties, does the girl maneuver the scene, according to Popenoe.

Boys ask Dr. Popenoe: "What's the matter with girls?" If, the boys attest, they don't spend most of the evening in a clinch the girls won't go out with them again.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

"Dance, Fools, Dance," a Joan Crawford picture, lifted Clark Gable from the ranks of bit players. . . . One scene in "Girls' Dormitory" shoved Tyrone Power into the spotlight. . . . "Society Doctor" launched Robert Taylor, but it was a "Crime Doesn't Pay" short that won him the part.

"Varsity Show," which was fashioned around Dick Powell and Fred Waring, made stars of the Lane sisters, Rosemary and Priscilla. . . . "Rendezvous," her 13th picture at M.-G.-M., rang the bell for Rosalind Russell. . . . "Escapade" did it for Luise Rainer, who had been called in to break the strike initiated by Myrna Loy.

Ginger Rogers was considered just a good-looking chorine until "Flying Down to Rio" vaulted her and Fred Astaire into the big money brackets. . . . Humphrey Bogart owes his present fame to "Petrified Forest." . . . "Gilded Lily" saved Fred MacMurray at Paramount. . . . "The Silver Horde" offered Joel McCrea his first big break.

Paul Muni would have been fired by William Fox had it not been for "The Valiant." The late S. F. [Roxy] Rothafel can take the bows on Muni, because he held over the picture for two weeks at the Roxy and thus impressed the country with its value. . . . "Bill of Divorcement" sponsored Katharine Hepburn.

Edward Arnold scored first as the drunk in Joan Crawford's "Sadie McKee." . . . Fredric March became an overnight sensation in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." . . . "Pygmalion" won attention for Wilfred Lawson in the rôle of the cockney father. . . . Ronald Colman owed his stage success to Fay Bainter's "East Is West," which won him the important rôle in "The White Sister," made in Italy.

"Private Worlds" gave Joan Bennett the staircase scene and a new lease on stardom. . . . "Sing, Baby, Sing" was the turning point for Alice Faye. . . . Mae West got her break in a George Raft picture, "Night After Night," and Raft won first recognition as a coin-flipping gangster in "Scarface." . . . Mickey Rooney, always a fine kid performer, needed the rôle of "Andy Hardy" to grab popular imagination, just as dependable Lewis Stone, who never gives a bad performance, needed the rôle of Judge Hardy to get "hot."

It was the priest's rôle in "San Francisco" that established Spencer Tracy. . . . Tracy will tell you vehemently that an actor is only as good as his part. . . . The evidence supports him.

The performance will start at 8:30 o'clock in Mandel hall.

Teas to Follow Symphony Concert.

After-the-concert teas are especially popular on chilly Friday afternoons. Mrs. Chester D. Tripp will be hostess for the Cliff Dwellers today. Assisting her will be Mrs. Arthur B. Slade, Mrs. Charles Yeomans, and Mrs. Edward Tourtelot Jr.

Tea will be served also at the Cordon and the Chicago College clubs. An exhibition of dry points of oriental subjects by Cyrus Leroy Baldridge and Japanese block prints by old masters will be on view in the Cordon galleries. The exhibit will continue thru Feb. 28.

The Friday afternoon opera teas are being discontinued until after Easter because so many of the women who have been helping to raise a $200,000 opera fund have gone away on holidays. The first tea after Easter will be given by Mrs. Walter R. Kirk.

Members of the St. James Episcopal church congregation are looking forward to special services next Sunday celebrating Lincoln's birthday. Raymond Massey, who has the rôle of Lincoln in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," will read the emancipator's second inaugural address and the famous Gettysburg address.

Following the services the officers of the Woman's Parish league and the St. James vestrymen will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Massey at luncheon at the Casino. Mrs. Fremont Chandler and Mrs. Edward Rogers are co-chairmen of the league.

Mr. Massey will be the speaker at a meeting this morning of the volunteer workers of the Seeing Eye's Chicago membership enrollment drive. The meeting will be held at 10:30 o'clock at the Casino. The 275 women in Chicago and the suburbs who are taking part in the drive to raise funds for the Seeing Eye school at Morristown, N. J., meet every Friday.

Miss Marjory Banks Guest of France.

Miss Marjory Banks of New York, who is engaged to Uri B. Grannis Jr., has been spending this week with her fiancé and his family. The senior Mr. Grannis and his bride of a few weeks ago, the former Mrs. Jay Morse Ely, have been staying at her apartment in town. They are moving to Mr. Grannis' Lake Forest house next Thursday, however.

Mrs. Grannis plans to go to her plantation in Thomasville, Ga., about the middle of March. Her daughter, Mrs. Fred W. Fairman Jr., the former Caryl Ely, will join her there for a spring holiday.

An exhibit of the paintings and drawings of Tade Styka of Paris and New York will be opened today at the Staniewicz Art gallery, 49 East Oak street. An exhibition of masks, paintings and drawings of Wladysla T. Benda now on view at the gallery is being continued.

WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Grace Frye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sylvester Frye, to Frank Charles Carr will take place at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the Joseph Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. The Rev. C. Claud Travis of the Hemingway Methodist church in Evanston will read the service, and a reception will follow in the west ballroom of the Stevens hotel. WHEN YOUR HUSBAND SAYS THIS ABOUT YOU...

It's 2 to 1 you're serving Manor House Coffee!*

Imported, Blended and Roasted by Chicago's Leading Coffee Experts!

IN OLD CHICAGO: State Street, looking north from Jackson Boulevard, appeared like this in 1889. In those days, as now, McLaughlin's Manor House was the favorite coffee in Chicago's finest homes—the choice of the city's first families!

TO WIN PRAISE LIKE THIS from husband, guests and friends, serve McLaughlin's Manor House Coffee! Blended of choice coffees so rare we can supply it to only a limited market in and near Chicago! Roasted as only the McLaughlin craftsmen, with nearly a century of experience to guide them, know how! For keener coffee enjoyment every time, try McLaughlin's Manor House Coffee now!

TODAY: Wherever the smart set gathers . . . wherever there is a fine appreciation of life's better things, McLaughlin's Manor House is the choice. For it is utterly unlike others—though its cost is hardly more than that of ordinary, "factory-made" coffees!

SEE WHAT YOU'RE GETTING—You can see the goodness of McLaughlin's Manor House in this modern glass jar! Your own eyes show you how evenly roasted it is—how richly golden brown. You actually see the uniformity of each flavor-filled grain. And remember that Manor House comes in three grinds: for pot, drip, or glass coffee maker.

FRESH THROUGH THE LAST CUP! Unlike other coffees, the freshness of Manor House is protected even after you have opened the jar; the McLaughlin Flavor Guard Cap reseals the freshness every time you close the container.

BETTER THAN A 2 TO 1 FAVORITE! In impartial surveys all over Chicago McLaughlin's Manor House was declared the overwhelming choice by hundreds of coffee lovers.—In answer to the question "What is your favorite coffee?" McLaughlin's Manor House was mentioned almost as frequently as all other brands combined, leading "Brand B" better than 2 to 1; "Brand C" 5 to 1; "Brand D" 6 to 1!

TRY MANOR HOUSE ON THE "TEN-DAY TASTE TRIAL"

LET YOUR OWN GOOD TASTE DECIDE! To find complete coffee enjoyment . . . to hear your family and your friends rave about your coffee : : : is worth a trial, isn't it?

And that is all McLaughlin's Manor House asks. The trial must win you. You be the judge! Your own taste decides!

So try Manor House for ten days. In a day or two you will begin to notice the difference. At the end of a week you'll congratulate yourself on the change. And when you've made the full ten-day trial, you will never want to go back to ordinary "factory-made" coffee again!

TUNE IN NORMAN ROSS in "Coffee Time"... WMAQ at 8:30 a.m., every day but Sunday WLS at 2:40 p.m., Monday thru Friday

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mr. Eddie Shore, who has been around and about the National Hockey league, man and boy, for 14 seasons, skated onto the Chicago Stadium ice shortly before 8:30 o'clock last night to the strains of "Darling, I Am Growing Old," as rendered by Organist Al Melgard.

Two hours later Mr. Shore and his New York American associates skated off the rink with a 3 to 2 licking administered by the Chicago Blackhawks and a hunch that the aforesaid number is an ideal theme song for all of them, and especially for Eddie.

Shore, the 37 year old who is generally ranked the greatest defense man in hockey history, was making his first road appearance with the ancient Americans since the deal which brought him from Boston, but he wasn't the Shore of yore.

Bob Carse Outskates Eddie.

He gave no iron man performance, but took his turns on the ice in routine fashion. He essayed few solo rushes, the first of these being interrupted by a thumping body check from Earl Seibert, whom Shore, only a few days ago, named on his personal all-time, all-star team. Eddie was on the ice when all three Chicago goals were scored and on one of them found his 37 year old legs not quite up to a race with the 20 year old limbs of Bobby Carse, who stole the puck and outskated the veteran for the second Hawk score.

No hockey story involving Mr. Shore, however, would be complete without a goal and a penalty for and against Eddie. He got the goal in the final minute of play on a pass from Johnny Sorrell, and drew the penalty for holding Art Wiebe in the second minute of the third period.

Seibert Starts It Early.

The Hawk goals were scored by Seibert, Carse, and Phil Hergesheimer. With Tommy Anderson of the Americans in the penalty box in the first period Seibert rushed up to within 15 feet of the net after taking a pass from Rookie George Allen and blazed the puck past Goalie Earl Robertson. The time was 2:21.

The Carse-Shore race was run in the 16th minute of the second period, Bobby taking the puck on his own blue line and outsprinting Eddie all the way for a clean shot at the helpless Robertson.

Ab de Marco of the Hawks still had 47 seconds of a carry over penalty for roughing Murray Armstrong when the final period began. He had done just 46 seconds of this sentence when large Charles Conacher of the New Yorkers fired one of his rifle shots from the Hawk blue line, thereby spoiling any ideas Goalie Paul Goodman of the Hawks might have had about accomplishing his third shutout.

Phil Clinches Victory.

Hergesheimer waited until there were only 2 minutes and 24 seconds of regulation play remaining to score what proved to be the winning goal. He collaborated in a passing foray with Bill Thoms and Johnny Gottselig before batting the puck into the New York cage. The Shore goal then followed at 19:33, and the Americans began to act young again, but it was too late.

The Hawks' victory enabled them to hold fourth place, one game ahead of the Detroit Red Wings, whom they meet on the latter's ice tonight. After the Wing game, the Chicagoans will return to the Stadium to meet the New York Rangers Sunday evening.

BROWNS BUY PITCHER AUKER FROM RED SOX

Boston, Mass., Feb. 8 (AP).—The Boston Red Sox tonight announced the sale of Elden Auker, right hand pitcher, to the St. Louis Browns for an undisclosed amount of cash. Auker, chiefly famed for his submarine delivery, came to the Red Sox last season in a trade with Detroit. He won nine games and lost 10 for Boston in 1939.

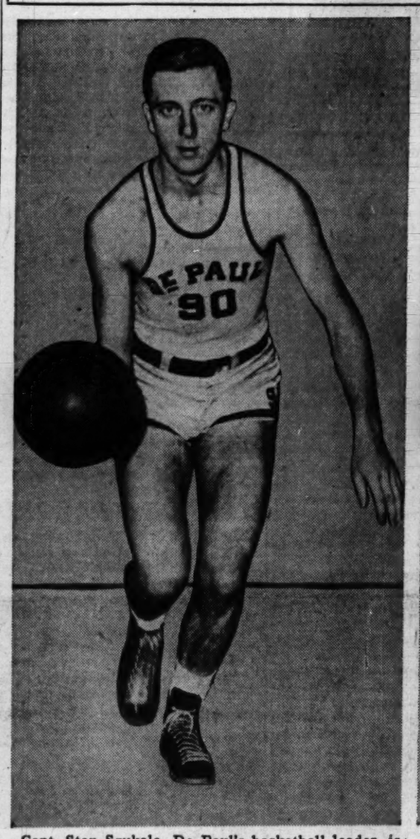
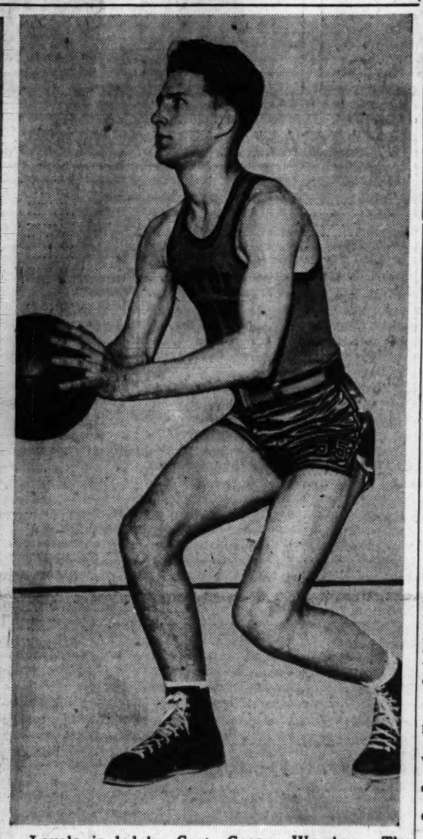
Records Are Forgotten When They Meet



Capt. Stan Szukala, De Paul's basketball leader, is an important figure in the attack which has enabled the Blue Demons to win 15 out of 17 games this season. He will see action tonight when De Paul meets Loyola in the Stadium in annual game sponsored by the Catholic Youth organization.



Loyola is led by Capt. George Wenskus. The Ramblers hope to make up for a losing season by victory in tonight's game against the team which has been host with Loyola in double headers in the Coliseum. Proceeds go to the C. Y. O. needy youth fund.

Old Friends Are Foes Tonight as Loyola Five Battles De Paul

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

De Paul's Blue Demons and Loyola's Ramblers tonight will meet in the Chicago Stadium in a basketball game wherein previous records for the season of either team may be forgotten. The occasion is the fourth annual battle between the two universities for the Catholic Youth Organization's needy youth fund.

Off the performances of the two teams to date in this campaign, the game should be all De Paul. The Blue Demons have won 15 of 17 games against the best teams in the country, losing only to Southern California in an overtime battle and to a speedy Indiana team. The effects of the Indiana game were regarded as highly salubrious, for the boys were beginning to be a trifle too sure of themselves.

Disastrous Loyola Year.

Loyola, on the other hand, has been undergoing one of the most disastrous seasons in its history. Twelve straight defeats make mention of that fact necessary.

So much for the records of the Demons and the Ramblers until tonight's game on the Stadium floor. This C. Y. O. benefit battle, in the three short years since it was originated by the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, founder and director of the organization, is another proposition. It has become as bitter an intracity sports feud as Chicago has, as proved by the first three games.

The first game, a postseason argument, played in March, 1937, was a perfect inaugural. It went two overtime periods before Loyola, which at one time during the regulation game had trailed by 20 to 6, won by a score of 46 to 43. The second game saw the Ramblers held to a 36 to 34 advantage until with only six minutes to go, Wibs Kautz and Mike Novak went to work on an ultimate victory margin of 53 to 40.

Free Throws Deciding Factor.

In last year's game free throws proved to be the deciding factor, Loyola making 14 while De Paul was missing 10. Thirty-two fouls were called, 16 to the side, and six players were ejected on personals, before Loyola won, 36 to 26.

Tonight's game will be the last of three on this evening's program. It will start between 9:45 and 10 o'clock. The first game, at 7:30, brings together the Immaculate Conception parish team, heavyweight C. Y. O. champions, and the Alphas, a colored team better known as the Collegians, winners of first round play in the Windy City league. Following this contest at 8:30 will be a battle between Mount Carmel, Catholic league heavyweight titleholders, and Fenwick, winners of the St. George holiday tournament. Lineups:

NORTHWESTERN BEATS BUTLER; MICHIGAN NEXT

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 8 [Special].—Northwestern tuned up for the resumption of its Big Ten basketball campaign by defeating Butler, 32 to 30, tonight. The Wildcats took the lead midway of the first half and were out in front, 18 to 14, at the intermission.

Ad Vance stood out for the Wildcats in the final period, hitting twice for field goals from far out on the floor after the Bulldogs had pulled into a 22-all tie. Butler again came on a few minutes later, making the score 28 to 27 in Northwestern's favor and again Vance sank a long shot.

The triumph was Northwestern's first in four contests, the Wildcats having lost three games just before the layoff for semester examinations. Northwestern renews its Big Ten campaign against Michigan at Evanston Saturday night.

16 SURVIVE IN SOUTH SECTION GOLDEN GLOVES

They're Eligible Now for City Tournament.

The Battle Front

Kansas City Star finals.
Peoria Journal-Transcript semi-finals.
Indianapolis Times semi-finals.
Grand Rapids Press third round.
Oklahoma City Oklahoman second round.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The South Side Golden Gloves novice tournament ended last night with 16 boxers surviving from a starting field of 194. Another enthusiastic crowd gathered in White City to watch the third consecutive evening of unremitting slugging.

Calvin De Feore, 5219 Kimbark avenue, and John Moore, 7224 St. Lawrence avenue, drew more enthusiastic applause than any others on the program, De Feore coming back to score a technical knockout in the second round after he had taken a terrific pounding in the earlier stages.

De Feore Fights Back.

As the bout began Moore sent his opponent to the canvas with a right to the jaw. De Feore got up at the count of nine but after a brief exchange he was down again. Moore dropped him still another time and the referee began edging in, ready to stop it. Then De Feore lashed out with a right that stretched Moore for a five count. Moore got up and De Feore knocked him down again. Once more they exchanged a volley of punches until they were interrupted by the bell.

As the second round began both whaled away with rights and lefts to the head. Suddenly De Feore wound up and let one go that landed with such a thud that Moore's seconds lost no time climbing into the ring.

The boys who survived the south side eliminations set out Tuesday evening with high hopes of demonstrating their ability in this tournament which is the proving ground of the youngsters who are strong on fighting spirit but weak on experience. When these boxers began their campaign they were stepping out on uncertain footing, for they never before had gone thru the rigorous routine of a big tournament. A few bouts in neighborhood clubs just about summed up their experience.

They Feel Like Fighters.

Now, however, they've gained the confidence that goes with survival in a tournament which has drawn the best novice boxers from a wide area of this fight minded city. They know they must have something or they wouldn't be in there now. Their victories in the south sectional tournament entitle them to places in the all-Chicago event which will be held in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22. There they will be shuffled up and thrown in with open division fighters of considerable experience.

The boys who survived last night's eliminations in White City joined forces with 16 west siders who already had qualified for the Chicago tournament, to form one of the strongest contingents of novice boxers which the Golden Gloves tournament has produced. This group will be reinforced next week by the north side representatives who will be Rustic Lament.

I'd like to go back to Ioway,
To the state where I was born,
To live with the folks and the farmers
And fraternize with the corn.

I'd say adieu to the walls of La Salle street,
I'd like to go back to Ioway
Where honest fortunes are made.

To the state that Jazbo pens from,
To the praisies that made me strong;
Back to the banks of Willow creek,
That's exactly where I belong.

Poets may dream in Chicago
Of mud, the fog, and the slime,
But the bards of good old Hawkeye

Land where my forebears settled
When the Sioux and the Cree roamed the west,
That's the land that made leaders;
Of all lands to me it's the best.

DEFENDS TITLE NINTH TIME IN 15 ROUND BOUT

Champion Is Rated 1-7 in Betting.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Joe Louis makes the ninth defense in his record breaking run as world's heavyweight champion in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, and at this writing not a creature was stirring who would predict Arturo Godoy of Chile could take the title away from him.

A crowd of between 18,000 and 19,000 customers is expected to sit in on the proceedings, contribute to a gate of more than $100,000, and thereby make the fifth straight appearance for Louis in the Garden with receipts running into six figures. The first preliminary is slated for 7:30 p. m. Chicago time and the main event at 9 p. m.

Betters Like Joe's Chances.

Louis is 1 to 7 to continue bombing against the Chilean fisherman where he left off against Bob Pastor in Detroit last September, and most betting is on just how long the rough, tough South American can last before becoming Joe's eighth straight knockout victim. Since Joe won the championship from Jim Braddock in 1937 only Tommy Farr, the durable Welshman, has gone the 15 round distance against Louis.

Godoy, as long as he stays in his crouch, will be fully conscious of the evening's proceedings. Tony Galento showed that a crouching, bobbing fellow can enjoy himself with Joe. However, the first time Tony came to the surface last June the roof fell in on him.

They Can't Both Be Right.

Both fighters were as confident tonight as Babe Ruth calling his home run shot. Louis, who has made few predictions since Max Schmeling made him eat his words in their first fight, said his usual brief piece about the fight ending "Jes' as soon as I tag him a solid punch."

More voluble was Godoy, who has trained hard thru eight long weeks for this shot. "I am confident I'll be the first South American to take the championship," he told the folks.

Chief interest in his chances centered in Godoy's body punching. He is better than fair belting at the midsection, and Louis' stomach never has been seriously tested before. Usually his opponents haven't had time to try.

Spend Night in Camp.

The fighters slept in their respective training camps—Louis at Pompton Lakes, N. J., and Godoy at Summit, N. J.—for the last time tonight. They break camp tomorrow morning and will be in the Garden at noon for the weighing-in ceremonies.

There is a possibility that Louis might be heavier than he ever has been. When he wound up his boxing work yesterday he scaled 204 pounds and is not expected to take off any of that before he turns up for the official poundage taking. He weighed an even 200 for Pastor and 200¼ for Galento in his most recent starts. Godoy figures to scale between 202 and 203.

Paychek Is Next Foe.

So certain are all concerned that Joe will finish on top tomorrow promoter Mike Jacobs even has announced his next opponent—or victim. This will be Johnny Paychek of Des Moines, and the fight probably will be held in the Garden April 3 for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund.

Tomorrow's fight will be broadcast in both English and Spanish [for South America]. Five heavyweight preliminary bouts have been lined up for the show, topped by an eight rounder between Buddy Scott of Dallas and Tommy Tucker of New York. The other four are six round affairs. The six rounders are:

Jack Marshall, Dallas, vs. Bill Poland, New York.
Henry Moroz, Scranton, Pa., vs. Joe Mattal, Binghamton, N. Y.

ROGELL SIGNS A CUB CONTRACT; FOUR STILL BALK

Hack, Leiber, Bryant and Galan Hang Back.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

A great wrong seems to have been done Bill Rogell, the ex-Tiger who, if worst comes to worst, will have to do some shortstopping for the Cubs this season. Rogell had been pictured as a holdout, along with such notables as Stan Hack, Augie Galan, Hank Leiber, and Clay Bryant.

Rogell's employment papers, properly signed, came back to Cub headquarters yesterday, whereupon the club admitted that the fellow who had participated in a couple of world series with the Tigers never had attempted to chisel his new employer.

All that Rogell wrote in about, after receipt of his contract, was the piano, the bed, the kitchen utensils, and a few other items in the Rogell household located in Detroit. Bill thought the club would offer a suggestion as to how his problem could be solved. The club must have offered to foot the freight bill for Bill.

It's Up to the Boys Now.

The four malcontents mentioned above now must reply to Owner P. K. Wrigley. He has written them again, but did not return the contracts, which were beginning to show signs of wear as the result of great mileage in the mails. The boss has asked for a few more convincing arguments by which the recalcitrants can strengthen their pleas for more pay.

If any of the four figure that the outlook doesn't warrant the expenditure of at least another postage stamp they'll find their contracts in possession of Robert C. Lewis, traveling secretary. Lewis will be at the gang plank when the first squad sails for Catalina Island from Los Angeles harbor the morning of Feb. 22. He'll be at the same spot, carrying the unsigned documents, on Feb. 29, when the regulars are scheduled for a ride across the channel. Holdouts are barred from the island camp, except at their own expense.

Clay May Fall in Line.

Bryant is the only dissenter listed with the first squad and the last heard from him was that he intended to dash into Chicago from his Ohio retreat to talk business with his employer.

Clarence Rowland, the Cubs' trade ambassador, returned yesterday from Tuesday's National league gathering in New York and reported he didn't hear of even one good trade suggestion.

The idea that the Boston Red Sox might sell Outfielder Joe Vosmik to the Cubs apparently wasn't considered. Manager Gabby Hartnett termed the guy too old. Bill Terry, Giant manager, was reported to have given Gabby an earful about the skill of First Baseman Zeke Bonura but Gabby, remembering the Bill Jurges and Dick Bartell affair, didn't weaken.

Dean Is Due Today.

Dizzy Dean, who hasn't signed but has agreed to Wrigley's revised terms, will be in town today in the interests of the Dean Baseball school which opens next week at Jackson, Miss., and Diz undoubtedly will call on his boss, sign the contract and then go out to buy the newspapers to see if he made the front pages.

Vice President Harry Grabiner of the White Sox departed yesterday for a California vacation and before locking his desk admitted five players had asked for better terms.

HORNSBY IN RUNNING

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 8 (AP).—President Hector Racine of the Montreal Royals disclosed today that Bill Killefer, Clyde Sukeforth, and Rogers Hornsby all are definitely in the running for the manager's job. One of them will be chosen by Monday when an announcement will be made.

Sukeforth, former major league catcher, piloted Elmira, N. Y., in the Eastern league last season; Killefer was coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National league, while Hornsby managed Baltimore in the International league.

Racine said President Larry MacPhail of the Dodgers might be here Monday to continue discussions of the proposed deal whereby Brooklyn would purchase stock in the Royals.

"We are trying to conclude arrangements for a new lease on Montreal's playing grounds," Racine said. "As soon as the lease situation is cleared up MacPhail will come here to discuss the deal."

Scholarships at Ohio Not for Athletes

No scholarships for athletes at Ohio State; fifty-one for University of Wisconsin athletes. Such was the contrast noted last night in a comparison of the last two reports by Western conference headquarters in amplification of the Big Ten report on the conference as a whole made public Jan. 29.

Statistics on Wisconsin were announced early yesterday as the ninth of a series, and were followed later in the day by the release concerning Ohio State, last of the reports on campus conditions in the Big Ten.

Ohio State athletes, in an institution where scholarships are rare, did not benefit from those endowments in 1939, according to figures on file with the conference commissioner. Only 1.72 per cent of Ohio's undergraduate enrollment of 8,955 held university scholarships, and this small group did not include any of the 525 students regarded as athletes—freshman numeral winners and members of varsity squads.

Legislators Help Out.

Wisconsin athletes, tho, are benefited by a legislative privilege that swells the volume of student aid on the Badger campus. Each of 133 state legislators in Wisconsin is empowered to appoint one out-of-state student to a scholarship for the tuition amount of $200. In addition to the legislative grants, competitive scholarships are available at Wisconsin on the basis of academic achievement. Such scholarships were granted to 97 students during the 1938-'39 term.

Of the undergraduate male enrollment of 6,787 last year, 423 students at Wisconsin were listed as athletes—varsity squad members and freshman numeral winners. Eight athletes held university scholarships, a proportion corresponding to that of the number of undergraduate men holding scholarships. And 43 athletes were holders of legislative appointments.

One Buckeye Athlete Gets Loan.

At Ohio State, only one athlete received a university loan, that for $45 from the Ohio Student Loan foundation, which grants loans to any needy student under direction of the university's dean of men. Loans at Wisconsin, also available to any needy student, were granted to 15 athletes in the aggregate of $701 thru a committee headed by the university registrar—a committee which also administers university scholarships.

Sixty-five, or about 12 per cent, of Ohio's athletes held jobs on which they were paid from funds of the university or the athletic association. The university maintains a student employment bureau which finds employment for all students, athlete or non-athlete. The 65 athletes thus employed last year earned an aggregate of $7,699.33, or about $118 each. Thirteen of the jobs were NYA assignments at $15 a month. The campus jobs ranged from library and laboratory assistants to stadium and natatorium guards.

Have Off-Campus Jobs.

No athletes were employed as concessionaires at Ohio State and none was accorded tuition remissions, according to the report. As at Minnesota [covered in a previous report] off-campus employment was a principal means of support for a majority of Buckeye athletes, afforded by their location in one of the three Big Ten conference cities of more than 300,000 population.

At Wisconsin a representative of the university athletic department, Assistant Director Guy Sundt, works in coöperation with the university employment bureau in the placement of athletes on campus jobs. The bureau, managed by Mrs. A. K. Meloche, places self-supporting students, athletes and non-athletes. Eighty-eight athletes earned $7,992.08 on campus jobs last year, including several in which they received meals in payment. Others included laborers, janitors, clerks, and trainers on NYA assignments, and concessions salesmen.

No mention of off-campus employment at Wisconsin was made in the conference report.

Wayne Fencers Defeat Northwestern Team, 10-7

Miss Jameson Loses 23 Hole Golf Battle

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 8 (AP).—The national champion and the tournament's defending title holder both were eliminated today in the Palm Beach women's golf semi-finals, making way for tomorrow's final match between Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., and Grace Amory of Palm Beach.

Miss Hicks, women's Western Derby champion, upset the national champion, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., 1 up, in a battle that went five extra holes. Miss Amory gained a 3 and 1 victory over Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., winner last year.

A wild second shot to a sand trap at the 23d hole placed Miss Jameson in trouble from which she could not recover and enabled Miss Hicks to complete a sensational rally. It was a similar shot on the second extra hole of the Miami Biltmore finals last week that cost Miss Jameson victory against Patty Berg of Minneapolis, 1938 national champion. Miss Berg won, 1 up, at the 38th hole, to start a comeback after missing the 1939 national meet. Patty did not compete in the Palm Beach meet.

Miss Jameson led Miss Hicks at the turn today, 2 up, going out in 37 to 39 for the Californian. But Miss Hicks took four holes to two for Miss Jameson on the incoming nine to square the match. Then after four extra holes were halved Miss Hicks drove out of bounds from the 23d tee and appeared beaten due to the penalty stroke. But she recovered by chipping dead to the pin to score a 5, one over par. Meantime Miss Jameson, her second shot trapped, required a 6.

Only Woman Hockey Owner Sells Her Wichita Club

Wichita, Kas., Feb. 8 (AP).—The Wichita club of the American Hockey association was purchased today from Mrs. Ella B. Wible by a group of Wichita business men. Jon Davidson and George Houston, members of the syndicate, declined to disclose the purchase price, but reports placed the figure around $15,000. With the sale of the club, Mrs. Wible ended a five year career as the only woman owner of a professional hockey club in the country.

W. J. WENZEL IS LEADING SCORER IN CASTING MEET

William Wenzel Jr., 2238 South Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, was the best of 25 casters who competed last night in the Tribune tournament being held in conjunction with the Chicago National Boat and Sports show on Navy Pier. Wenzel was one of the most surprised persons on the pier when it was announced that his score of 57 was high for the evening. He hadn't handled a rod and reel since his final fishing trip last summer, and had only an hour's practice before last night's contest.

H. L. Schurg was second with a 52, and Frank McVey third with 47. All three men qualified for the final Skish competition to be held tomorrow night. Fishermen who belong to no casting club, or who have belonged to a club for less than one year, will compete again tonight, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Hubbard Erickson, manager of the boat and sports show, announced yesterday that an extra feature has been added to the show schedule for tomorrow afternoon. It will be a ski race open to all comers. The race will start at the Oak street beach opposite the Drake hotel, follow a course to be laid out along the lake shore, and end in front of the pier. Prizes will be awarded to the first three men and the first two women who cross the finish line. Persons wishing to compete may enter by contacting Mr. Erickson.

EUROPEAN ICE REVUE TO OPEN STAND TUESDAY.

On Monday the Chicago Stadium will be turned over to the European Ice revue for one week. The painting of the ice and a dress rehearsal will take place on Monday and the show will open for seven performances on Tuesday night, running thru two performances Sunday.

MILKMEN'S UNION SUES SIX DAIRIES FOR $266,000 PAY

Seeks Compensation for Jobless Drivers.

A suit seeking to collect $266,000 from six Chicago dairies was filed in Superior court yesterday in behalf of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local 753, and 185 of its members.

The suit is an echo of the drivers' recent troubles from inroads made in the home delivered milk business by the sale of cash-and-carry milk in cut rate stores. Consolidation of some routes and elimination of others has resulted.

Agreement Broken, Say Drivers.

The drivers, represented by Attorney David A. Riskind, charge that the dairies violated a provision of an agreement signed with the union on March 1, 1937. The drivers say the agreement guaranteed six months remuneration to milkmen who lost their jobs thru shrinkage in the number of routes.

Representatives of the dairies last night said a clause similar to the one cited by the drivers has been a part of dairy union contracts for years. They said it was inserted when business was booming, to give drivers a choice where one route got so big it was divided into two.

The clause reads: "It is further agreed by the employer that when a route is split, the driver whose route is so divided shall have first choice of the two routes with full pay for the six months following, to be governed by the 30 days' average sales previous to dividing said route."

Ask Six Months' Pay.

The drivers, in their suit, interpret the clause to mean that when routes are doubled up, or one route is discontinued and customers split among drivers of neighboring routes, the companies guarantee the jobless drivers six months full pay. The wage scale is $48 a week plus commissions.

According to the suit the companies dismissed 185 drivers on March 1, 1939, and subsequently, and failed to continue their wages for six months as agreed. The drivers are asking a total of $256,000, with the union demanding $10,000 to compensate it fo. unemployment benefits paid out.

Six Dairies Concerned.

Borden-Wieland	87	$118,000
Bowman	69	92,000
Sidney Wanzer & Sons	13	19,000
Western-United	8	13,000
C. J. Wieland & Son	5	9,000
Capitol	3	5,000

The union on Jan. 30 rejected a proposal for a wage cut of $8 a week as one means of reducing the price of home delivered milk from the present figure of 13 cents a quart to a price nearer the store rate of 8½ cents a quart. The number of employed milk drivers has dropped from 7,400 to 4,400 since 1930.

PAPER TO FIGHT CONFISCATION OF A NEWS PICTURE

Bessemer, Ala., Feb. 8 (AP).—Trial of a newspaper photographer and an electrician on disorderly conduct charges, which the Birmingham News says involves its right to freedom of the press, was postponed to Feb. 26 today by Judge Palmer Keith Jr., because of a crowded docket.

Pete Little, News cameraman, was arrested yesterday when he disregarded a police order against pictures during a controversy between Bessemer officials and the Birmingham Electric company, retail power competitors since the city began selling TVA power over its system.

Little said his camera was confiscated and a plate was destroyed after he photographed a patrolman wielding a blackjack in the arrest of Clyde Dyer Jr., electrical contractor.

"We regard this incident as a direct violation of freedom of the press," said J. E. Chappell, president and general manager of the Birmingham News. "We will defend to the limit our right to print the news and we will carry the case to the highest court that will hear it if our photographer is fined for performing his normal duties."

CONVICT 2 DAIRY OWNERS UNDER SALES TAX LAW

John Player and his brother, Robert, operators of a dairy in Warrenville, Du Page county, were found guilty yesterday in a verdict returned by a jury in the Sangamon county Circuit court at Springfield of violating the state sales tax laws. Judge L. E. Stone is expected to impose sentence within a few days.

The dairymen were charged with failure to file sales tax returns for April, May, and June of last year. They contended they were not trying to violate the law, and argued that the criminal charges should not be heard until a civil suit pending in the Du Page county Circuit court since 1936 has been disposed of.

In the civil suit the state seeks to collect $1,094, representing unpaid sales taxes from 1934 to 1936. The Players are attacking the tax as unconstitutional.

Jerome Schwab Wills $12,000 to Charities

Bequests of $12,000 to charities are provided in the will of Jerome C. Schwab, former loop shoe merchant, who died Feb. 5. The will was admitted to probate yesterday by John F. Keeley, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. Mr. Schwab's estate was estimated at $100,000. Most of it is to be divided among his brother, Henry C. Schwab; a sister, Mrs. Henry G. Foreman; a nephew, Charles H. Schwab, and a niece, Mrs. Hannah Stern. Mr. Schwab lived at 3156 Sheridan road.

HOP SEA IN 30 HOURS, NEED 60 TO REACH BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Ten passengers and several tons of United States and Canadian mail for Britain, due in Lisbon, Portugal, today after a 30 hour Atlantic crossing by flying Clipper, will require from 2½ to 7 days for the rest of the journey because Imperial airways has no flying boat to link Britain with Portugal.

After covering 3,420 miles in 30 hours, the passengers will have to pass customs examinations in Portugal, Spain, France, and Britain, and travel on three trains and an airplane for at least 60 hours to cover the last 1,000 miles to London. The mail will take at least another week.

Daily Lisbon service by the Italian airline, A La Littoria, meets the Clippers and takes passengers and mail to Italy in less than 12 hours. By twice weekly Clipper service, German mail is taken on Italian airlines nearly a week nearer New York than is British mail.

COUNTY HOSPITAL HAS RECORD DAY OF 3,307 PATIENTS

The number of Cook County hospital's patients reached an all-time peak of 3,307 on Wednesday, Brig. Gen. Manus McCloskey, hospital warden, reported yesterday. The total yesterday dropped to 3,274 but remained ahead of comparable figures of last February, when the daily attendance ranged from 3,000 to 3,100, he said.

Gen. McCloskey said all hospitals approach their seasonal peak during the late winter. He said the hospital has a large number of pneumonia patients, but the proportion ill of respiratory diseases is not unusually large.

Most hospitals thruout the city reported their beds are all filled or nearly so.

MANTENO HEAD REPORTS NONE ILL OF TYPHOID

Dr. Walter Baer, acting managing officer of the Manteno State hospital, said yesterday that for the first time in more than six months none of the patients are ill from typhoid. Ninety-three typhoid carriers have been discovered in the institution, however, as a result of the survey undertaken while the epidemic which cost the lives of 53 persons was at its peak. The carriers will be isolated pending a decision as to their future treatment. Dr. Baer said a filtration plant, installed after polluted water from one of the hospital's wells was found to have caused the epidemic, is in operation but that further tests will be necessary before the well water can be declared safe.

TREATY BLAMED FOR BLIGHT ON SUGAR INDUSTRY

Business Hamstrung Leaders Charge.

[This is the third in a series of articles discussing the effects of the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade treaties on industries of the south and central west.]

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Down along the tortuous bends of the Mississippi river in Louisiana lies the famous sugar coast—the cradle of the sugar industry in the continental United States.

Dr. Pierre Crabites reports Cuba has vast trade advantage.

Within a stone's throw of the mighty river is the spot — now part of New Orleans Audubon park—where in 1795 was sounded the cry: "It granulates!" marking as successful the first effort to make sugar by boiling cane juice.

But the industry thus born has come upon trying times in recent years. Authorities say that since 1876 it has been subject to more regulations and restrictions and has been buffeted by more political squalls than any other in the land. It now is engaged in one of its greatest battles, a fight to free itself from the dual grip of the sugar act of 1937 and the Hull reciprocal trade treaties.

Charge Treaty Doesn't Reciprocate.

The industry's leaders charge that altho domestic sugar is a nonsurplus crop, consumed in its entirety in the United States, cane and beet farmers are restricted to less than half their potential acreage; that the sugar industry is bearing the brunt of the trade treaty with Cuba; and, finally, that the Cuban reciprocal trade treaty does not reciprocate.

[A resolution to continue the reciprocal trade agreements act unchanged for three years cleared its first congressional hurdle yesterday. It received approval of the house ways and means committee by a strictly partisan vote—14 Democrats for and 10 Republicans against. House consideration was scheduled tentatively for the week beginning Feb. 19. One Democratic committee member, Representative Disney of Oklahoma, voted "present."]

Before examining the industry's charges, it would be helpful to cover briefly its history and present condition. In 1789, six years before Capt. Etienne de Bore first granulated cane juice in New Orleans, congress had imposed a small tariff on sugar for revenue purposes. It was mere chance that the infant industry in Louisiana thus received a meaure of protection.

The tariff remained until 1876 while the industry spread eastward to Florida. Then, thru one of the few reciprocity agreements ever ratified by the senate, Hawaiian sugar was admitted duty free. The industry there was being developed by Americans. Imports soared from 10,000 tons to 100,000 in ten years.

In 1890, however, the McKinley tariff ended Hawaiian preference and resulted in the island voluntarily becoming part of the United States. After the Spanish-American war preferential treatment was accorded Cuba [in 1902]. Puerto Rican sugar was put on the free list. In 1932 Cuba was virtually the only foreign country shipping sugar to us and it supplied 28.2 per cent of the amount consumed.

Blame Laid on Wallace.

Meanwhile, the Louisiana industry had been changing. The sugar barons no longer ruled it. The acreage was breaking up into small farms. There now are 9,540 of these, operated by 19,000 farmers in 17 south Louisiana parishes [counties]. In the 40 years since 1900, the total of 307 sugar mills has been cut to 70. The light, individual plantation mills have been discarded for centralized, modern plants.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has charged that the sugar industry is inefficient and other critics have seized upon the reduction in the number of mills as proof not only of this but of the fact that the sugar industry is failing and disappearing!

Replying to Wallace's charges, leaders of the industry assert that the act of 1937 and Wallace's juggling of acreages are the chief blights. The American Sugar Cane league adds that from earliest days the cane far-

Federal Works Bring Electric Flood in West

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 8 [Special].—The gigantic works the government is building on the Columbia river and its tributaries in a 535 million dollar vision of a federal power empire in the Pacific northwest are in a region of comparatively small population. The marketing power from the Bonneville and Grand Coulee dams lies in Oregon, Washington, and minor portions of Idaho and Montana.

Population of the area in 1939 is estimated at 3,211,522. Of this 1,690,834 is urban; 747,322 is farm; 773,366 is rural nonfarm. It now has an installed hydro capacity of 1,213,386 kilowatts, much of it publicly owned. Henry Earle Riggs, former president of the American Society of Engineers, in a study last year said the present operating capacity of electric plants per 1,000 people in the area is nearly double the national average and in excess of any state or geographical division.

The Costs are Added Up.

Bonneville dam for power and navigation, 40 miles up the Columbia river from here, is to cost 75 million dollars; Grand Coulee for power and irrigation, 80 miles west of Spokane, is to cost 393 million; a flood control project, with power a possibility, on the Willamette tributaries is to cost 67 million. The total of 535 million is the same as the official estimated cost of 535 million of the Tennessee Valley authority experiment in a planned society. Population in the Tennessee watershed in seven states is 2,195,000 [1930 census].

When the huge works are finished the Pacific northwest will have more than three times its present generating capacity. Bonneville, when all units are turning out power, is to generate 518,400 kilowatts. Grand Coulee, when completed, will have a capacity of 1,890,000 kilowatts. The report of the Bonneville power administrator, issued Sunday, speaks of an ultimate power installation of 413,140 kilowatts in connection with the flood control project on the Willamette river.

Total of 2,821,540 Kilowatts.

This makes a total of no less than 2,821,540 kilowatts to be added eventually by these projects to a region which now has a per capita production rate almost twice as large as the average of the whole United States.

The Willamette proposal calls for seven dams on tributaries of this stream for flood control. Portland, the Rose city, is actually on the Willamette, but economically on the Columbia. Congress has authorized an appropriation of $11,300,000 as a starter on this project.

Altho a flood project primarily, it will have possibilities of developing four-fifths as much power as Bonneville, if needed.

Adding all these kilowatts of final capacity in these three projects to the present 1,213,386 would give a total power capacity for the Pacific northwest of 4,034,900 kilowatts, with a present population of 3,211,000.

The magnitude of this power may be seen from a few comparisons. It approaches the kilowatt capacity of New York [4½ million kilowatts in 1937] with a population of 13 million [1937 census estimate]. Pennsylvania, with 10 million population, has 2,928,000 installed kilowatt capacity. Illinois, with 7,878,000 population, has 2,226,000 kilowatt installed capacity.

Equals Illinois and Michigan.

The 4 million kilowatts here would be about equal to the kilowatt installed capacity of Illinois and Michigan together, with a population of 12,708,000. The six New England states, with a population of 8,597,000, have 2,677,000 kilowatts. These are among states on which taxes to pay for these enterprises will fall heaviest.

A Question of Economics.

He reported that Oregon, Washington, and Idaho for 10 years have had the lowest residential rates in the Union and nearly double the average residential consumption.

Bonneville dam, which originally was promoted years ago as a navigation proposal, with power secondary, was to cost 43 million dollars. Like other public projects the cost has grown until it is now listed as a $75,000,000 job. The locks were changed from barge locks to ship locks in the plans, stairways and elevators were added for spawning salmon going up river. Salmon is a $10,000,000 industry.

Locks Take Ocean Freighters.

The river is tidal to the site of Bonneville, a distance of 140 miles. The navigation lock, 500 feet long and 76 feet wide accommodates full sized ocean freighters. It permits passage of these vessels for 187 miles from the mouth of the Columbia to the Dalles. Above that, barge navigation is possible.

Ultimate cost of the project was announced two years ago by the federal power commission as $74,144,600, with 10 units of generators. Of this, $32,000,000 is a writeoff for navigation and other facilities. The allotment of cost for power was $42,181,000 and must be repaid by consumers in 40 years at 3½ per cent interest. Ultimately 57 per cent of the total cost is to be, allocated to power. Transmission lines have had 27½ million dollars of appropriations. Thus the cost of the kilowatts is cut down because about three-sevenths of the cost of the enterprise is chalked up to navigation and wet nursing the salmon and other facilities—items, however, that have to be paid for in taxes all over the country.

Insurance Firm Reports Larger Operating Profit

The North American Life Insurance company of Chicago yesterday reported a net operating profit of $91,252 for 1939, or about $6,000 more than was announced in the annual message to stockholders. Payments to policy holders and beneficiaries totaled $1,184,080.

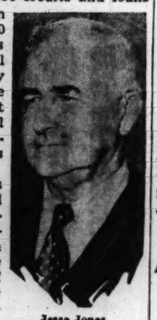
Foreign Credit Demand Is Big, Jones Reveals

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 8.—Foreign demand for export credits and loans will more than consume the 100 million dollars in additional lending authority requested for the Export-Import bank, Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones said today.



Jesse Jones.

His remarks were well timed from an administration viewpoint, coming on the eve of senate consideration of the measure which would double the bank's lending limit, or from 100 to 200 million dollars. This would permit additional financial assistance to Finland, China, and other nations which have the administration's sympathy.

Lists Planned Credits.

Jones called a press conference this afternoon and then opened the door to questions. With the matter of aid to Finland uppermost in capital consideration, the discussion naturally centered on prospective assistance to other countries.

Among the commitments which will be made to finance purchases of American goods for civilian use, Jones listed the following, if the legislation passes:

1. Up to 20 million dollars more for Finland, which has already received credits of 10 million.

2. Up to 20 millions for China in addition to a 25 million dollar loan made a little more than a year ago.

3. Up to 25 million dollars for Sweden.

Norway Wants More.

4. Possibly 10 million more for Norway, which recently received export credits of 10 million, still untouched.

5. In addition, half of the 21 American republics are asking for aid out of the remaining 25 millions which would be available.

"Some one will have to take half portions," Jones said. "If we gave every one all the credit they need there wouldn't be enough to go around."

He said that the Export-Import bank is now 35 million dollars overcommitted on its original authorization of 100 million dollars, but he added that there is still cash in the till because only 65 millions have been paid out and there are repayments.

Finland so far has consumed 3 millions of its 10 million in credits, Jones said, disclosing that the American commodities bought included gas masks, trucks, gasoline, and some agricultural products "for the civilian population."

Seek to "Clean Up" Russians.

The first item on the Finnish shopping list was soap which they said "they wanted to clean up the Russians," according to Jones. All of the 10 millions will be used within the next ten days, he said.

China requested 75 millions of new credits, which it proposes to pay off in tin, which the United States lacks, China is unlikely to get more than 20 millions, Jones said. The Chinese have repaid 2¼ millions of the 17 millions used out of the first loan. This was paid out of the proceeds from tung oil exports. The Universal Trading corporation of New York is handling the Chinese purchases in this country.

AIRCRAFT FIRMS SET NEW RECORD IN EMPLOYMENT

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 8 (AP)—Three aircraft companies said today they had reached an employment record. They are working virtually "around the clock" on more than $43,000,000 in backlog orders.

The three plants, Consolidated, Ryan, and Solar, have 5,365 employés, representing a monthly pay roll of $675,000. Executives said approximately 4,100 additional employés would be required before the factories reached their employment peak about July 1. Consolidated, which had 2,630 employés six months ago, now has 4,000, and is taking on 200 workers a week.

GENERAL MOTORS' SALES SET NEW HIGH MARK FOR JANUARY

New York, Feb. 8 (AP)—General Motors corporation today announced the largest January sales of cars and trucks in its history. Altho below December—as trade experts said was to be expected—the January totals surpassed the previous peak in 1936 by a wide margain.

Sales of General Motors cars and trucks to dealers in the United States and Canada plus overseas shipments in January totaled 181,088 units, compared with 207,637 in December, and 136,489 in January last year. Sales to United States dealers last month amounted to 164,925 units, against 188,839 in December and 116,964 a year ago. Consumer sales in January totaled 120,809, compared with 156,008 in the preceding month and 88,865 in January, 1939.

FREIGHT TRAFFIC VOLUME IS WELL ABOVE YEAR AGO

Revenue freight cars loaded by the nation's railroads during the week ended Feb. 3 increased 1.1 per cent over the volume of the preceding week and 14.6 over the corresponding week of 1939, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. The latest week's loadings were 657,004 cars, a gain of 7,516 cars over the preceding week and 83,877 over a year ago.

Loadings rose more than seasonally, the association said. Gains in miscellaneous freight, less than carlot merchandise, and forest products more than offset a decline in coal shipments.

	Week of Feb. 3.	—Change from— Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.
Miscel frt	254,963	+11,764	+40,617

In the week ended Jan. 27 loadings gained 0.6 per cent over the volume for the week of Jan. 20 and 10 per cent over the level of the similar week of 1939.

INDUSTRIES THAT AIDED CHICAGO TO BE HONORED

Twenty young women dressed in hoop skirts and pantalets will greet guests at the Chicago Association of Commerce's 36th annual dinner tonight. Those attending the dinner at the Stevens hotel will pass thru lines of liveried attendants wearing costumes which were the height of style in each decade from 1840 to 1900.

The affair will be a tribute to the industries which have aided in the development of the city's business and manufacturing activity. The foyer off the grand ballroom will be converted into a 19th century drawing room, with a display of portraits of some of Chicago's outstanding business leaders of the past.

Clarence B. Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel company, and Walter S. Gifford, president of American Telephone and Telegraph company and a former Chicagoan, will be the speakers. More than a thousand are expected to attend.

Actor Is Good; Wins Jury and Angers Judge

New York, Feb. 8 [Special].—Jerry Scott, former Broadway actor, today was denounced by Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibell because he was too good an actor. Judge Leibell was so annoyed at Scott's success in winning acquittal from a jury last Saturday that he gave suspended sentences to Scott's four co-defendants who pleaded guilty to the securities fraud charges.

Acting as his own attorney, Scott brought tears to the jurors' eyes, and Judge Leibell today said flatly that the actor hoodwinked them thru his ability to play on the emotions.

He Was Guilty, Says Judge.

"Scott was a schemer and the smartest of the whole lot," the court said. "He sold himself to the jury as he sold himself to the victims of this scheme. It was a good piece of acting. He wrote the bunk and swindle talk of the company's bulletins. He was guilty, and it is a shame to see such a miscarriage of justice."

Scott and his four co-defendants were charged with violation of the securities act of 1933 in misrepresenting the sales plan and service charges to the public in sale and promotion of "thrift investment certificates" of Foundation Plan, Inc. Some $18,000,000 of certificates have been sold during the last eight years.

Other Defendants' Sentences.

The other defendants were Harry C. Williams, former president of Foundation Plan, Inc., who was given a suspended sentence of a year and a day, placed on probation for 18 months, and fined $5,000, payable at the rate of $150 a month; James J. Connor, vice president, given a six month suspended sentence and placed on probation for a similar period; Benjamin Blumenthal, Massachusetts sales manager for the corporation, who was given a six month probation sentence and was fined $1,500, and Kirk C. Tuttle, who also received a six month probation sentence and was fined $1,000. The company was fined $2,500.

Scott, formerly of Tulsa, Okla., played bits in Broadway plays before he went into the securities business. The jury that acquitted him was composed of four women and eight men. Two of the women wept as Scott pleaded his case.

HOWELL CLEARED ON CORN 'CORNER' DAMAGE CHARGE

Thomas M. Howell, Chicago grain trader, was held by a jury in the court of Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday not to have been responsible for losses sustained by Soma Peto, Kansas City grain dealer. Peto had sued Howell for $10,000 damages, charging he had suffered losses as a result of an alleged corner of the corn market by Howell in July, 1931.

This was the fourth time the suit had been brought up in a federal court.

CHRYSLER'S NET PROFIT NEARLY DOUBLED IN 1939

Earnings Are Equal to $8.47 a Share.

Chrysler corporation yesterday reported its net profit in 1939, almost double that of 1938, amounted to $36,879,829, or $8.47 a share. In the preceding year the big automobile manufacturer earned $18,798,294, or $4.34 a share.

F. B. Davis Jr., head of rubber company, reports big wage rise.

Directors declared a dividend of $1.25 a capital share, payable March 13 to stockholders of record Feb. 19. At this time last year the company paid $1 a share. Total 1939 dividends were $5 a share.

The increase in earnings over 1938 came in the face of sharply lower fourth quarter net income last year than was reported for the final 1938 quarter. Net profit in the three months ended Dec. 31, 1939, was indicated at $5,476,711, or $1.25 a share, against $12,126,416, or $2.79 a share, in the corresponding 1938 period.

Rubber Company Has Good Year.

United States Rubber company reported its 1939 net income and sales were the best since 1926. The net income was $10,218,849, equal to $3.18 a common share, against $5,885,888, or 43 cents a share, in the preceding year. In 1926 net was $13,744,180.

The company's net sales amounted to $195,310,847, compared with $154,935,756 in 1938 and $215,528,309 in 1926. The sales were more than twice as large as in either 1932 or 1933.

F. B. Davis Jr., president of the company, which manufactures practically every article containing rubber, said that wages and salaries paid in 1939 to an average of 38,265 employés, exclusive of 19,055 plantation employés, amounted to $57,629,000. Total wages were 36.6 per cent above 1938, and total salaries were up 10.5 per cent.

The Auburn Automobile company now in reorganization under section 77B of the national bankruptcy act, reported its net loss before fixed charges for the year ended Nov. 30, 1939, was approximately $30,000. For the period from Dec. 11, 1937, when reorganization proceedings were begun, until Nov. 30, 1938, the loss on the same basis was about $216,000.

Middle West Holding Units Plan to Merge

Two of the Middle West corporation's subholding companies, Central and South West Utilities company and American Public Service company, yesterday filed a plan of consolidation with the Securities and Exchange commission.

The plan proposes the merger of the two subsidiaries into a single Delaware corporation to be known as Central and South West corporation. This would result in the elimination of one intermediate holding company. One class of new preferred stock and one class of common stock would be substituted for the four classes of preferred and two of common outstanding for both concerns.

Controls Holding Unit.

Central and South West is a holding company, and it controls American Public Service, which in turn owns utilities operating in Texas. Other operating subsidiaries of Central and South West are located in Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Mississippi.

The merger plan provides for the issuance of $18,870,950 of 5½ per cent $100 par preferred stock and 1,041,274 shares of $15 par common stock, both new issues to have voting rights.

The aggregate claim of the preferred stocks of both companies at par or involuntary liquidating value is $49,247,000, which includes approximately $15,000,000 of dividend arrears. Annual dividend requirements on the stocks are $2,381,000. Annual requirements on the new preferred stock would be $1,037,899.

Terms of Exchange.

Holders of the common stock of Central and South West would receive 1 new common share for each 100 old shares held. Holders of the $7 prior lien stock would receive 2.2 common shares and one preferred share for each share of old stock. Holders of the $6 prior lien stock would receive 1½ new common shares and 1 preferred share for each share held. Holders of the present $7 preferred would receive 4 common shares for each share held. The exchanges would clear up all dividend arrears.

Holders of American Public Service common would receive 1 new common share for each 4 old shares held. Holders of the 7 per cent preferred would receive 2½ new common shares for each three-fourths share held.

P. L. Smith, president of Middle West corporation, which is the top holding unit in the former Insull utility system, announced earlier this week that the subsidiaries would file a merger plan in the near future.

Expected SEC Order.

Previously it had been reported that the Middle West system would be one of the first to receive a "show cause" order from the SEC, demanding that it present a plan for financial and geographical integration of its subsidiaries according to provisions of the utility holding company act.

If the plan is approved by the SEC, it must then be submitted to the stockholders of both companies. Two-thirds of the stockholders must approve the plan before it can become effective, or a larger proportion if directors of the companies consider the approval of a larger proportion necessary.

The SEC hearing on integration proceedings against American Gas and Electric company yesterday were recessed until March 4 when counsel for the company told an examiner that they were not prepared to continue.

OIL PRODUCTION IN ILLINOIS SETS JANUARY RECORD

Illinois oil production in January was the largest for any month in the state's 35 year oil history, the state geological survey reported yesterday. Output of 10,825,000 barrels more than doubled the January, 1939, production of 4,446,000 barrels.

The survey said the record production was attained despite a drop of nearly 32 per cent in the rate of well completions as compared with December. Adverse weather cut well completions to 234 from December's 343.

On Jan. 1 there were 133 wells being drilled in 16 counties, and drilling ventures were in various stages of completion in 52 counties. A total of 5,259 producing wells was operating in the 53 fields which have been discovered since Jan. 1, 1937.

Dr. M. M. Leighton, head of the geological survey, said a decrease in the number of drilling operations is expected, partly because of the deeper sands in which operators are now interested.

ICC APPROVES KEESHIN TRUCK FINANCING PLAN

Minority Criticizes $2,850,000 Deal.

Keeshin Freight Lines, Inc., holding company in the nation's largest motor freight system, yesterday obtained permission from the Interstate Commerce commission in Washington to proceed with its $2,850,000 financing program despite the strong objections of three of the commissioners.

John L. Keeshin leads company.

The ICC disagreed on whether public interest was being sacrificed by allowing the holding company to issue $2,850,000 in 3½ per cent promissory notes and 15,295 shares of founders' stock. The Keeshin system has its operating headquarters here at 221 West Roosevelt road, from which are directed the movements of a vast fleet of highway motor trucks.

Mahaffie Criticizes Plan.

Criticism of the company's financing plan was voiced by Commissioner Charles D. Mahaffie, who with Commissioners Carrol Miller and Walter M. W. Splawn, dissented from the majority decision written by Chairman Joseph B. Eastman.

"Formerly, numerous holding companies accomplished financial feats, that, on analysis, astonished the world," Mahaffie asserted. "In the long list of such achievements it may be doubted if many are more remarkable than this.

"To be able to get the approval of a regulatory body to a project for financing the operating deficits of subsidiaries by the issuance of fixed interest obligations of a holding company which is itself in a precarious condition and to sell those securities to the reputedly wise, is clearly an achievement of a high order."

Worked Out by Keeshin.

The financing arrangements were worked out by John L. Keeshin, 42 year old president of the parent company, after a series of conferences with investment bankers in New York. Keeshin is the Chicagoan who developed the first nation-wide motor transport system in 1935 with the financial support of John Hertz, Chicago and New York capitalist and transportation expert, and Lehman Brothers, New York investment banking firm of which Hertz is a partner.

Keeshin applied to the ICC in Washington several weeks ago for authority to issue the promissory notes of which $1,600,000 would be used to refund a similar amount of 4½ per cent serial debentures of the parent company and $1,250,000 would provide working capital and advances to affiliated companies. The founders' stock would be retained in the company's treasury for conversion rights of the notes and preferred stock.

Keeshin Explains Situation.

Keeshin said the parent company was formed in 1935 and was an extension of a business started in 1914. The Keeshin system now employs 2,500 persons and serves 1,200 communities.

"Our difficulty has been that of seasoning," he explained. "The trucking industry is new. We had to get experienced man power and that takes time. There were other adverse influences, including floods, labor trouble, and rate wars. The rate wars alone cut our revenues about 21 per cent. Regulation by the ICC came in 1935 and tended to reduce our revenue because competing lines engaged in rate reductions.

"We feel confident that we can go into the black this year now that we have launched our rehabilitation program."

Eastman Approves Deal.

Chairman Eastman and six other commissioners in Washington joined in voting the company authority to proceed with its financing program. Mahaffie, Splawn and Miller dissented and one commissioner did not vote.

Eastman contended that the note issue was "essentially a refunding operation" to be conducted by those "who have a direct interest in saving the property." He said the proposed issue would be "compatible with the public interest" and that the alternative for the Keeshin firm would be bankruptcy.

"The essence of this case is that the system has been forced into debt by adversity," Eastman said, "but appears to be making good progress toward recovery. . . . No public inter-

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Heavy buying in the final hour of today's stock market put leaders up one to about three points.

Aircrafts, steels, motors, rubbers, mail orders, rails, and a wide assortment of specialties were in the forefront of the swing, and the majority closed at the best levels of the day.

It was the third consecutive rallying session and volume expanded sharply in the last hour.

Transfers totaled 867,820 shares, against 491,280 yesterday, largest turnover since Jan. 12. The concluding hour's aggregate of 367,000 shares was the top for any hour since Dec. 30.

The list was hesitant during the forenoon, with prices irregular and activity small. Aviations, however, went ahead thruout and extended their gains near the end of trading.

General Motors' announcement that January sales established a new company record for that month aided the automotive shares. Steels revived following a big Ford order for the metal at prevailing prices.

Conspicuous stocks movers included Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Boeing, United Aircraft, United States Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Great Northern, New York Central, Homestake Mining, Westinghouse, American Can, Johns-Manville, United States Rubber, Pullman, and Allied Chemical.

Atlas Powder jumped 1½ to 70 on a report the British were advancing funds for this concern to construct a new explosives plant to take care of allied war needs.

New year's highs were also posted for Dresser Manufacturing, Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit, and Studebaker, among others.

Coppers failed to make much headway. The price situation for the red metal was still considered cloudy. Utilities and oils also were narrow.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Bonds bounced up major fractions to more than a point in an afternoon of brisk dealing today. After a dull morning, trading increased just before the closing bell, and the final record of transactions was the best since Jan. 11—$7,367,650, face value, compared with $5,780,500 yesterday.

Rails and utilities led corporate issues to higher ground, with United States and foreign government dollar loans holding their positions firmly.

The federals had little play, and ended the day 2/32 point higher to 1/32 point lower, with the majority of quotations unchanged.

Standard Gas & Electric and Standard Power & Light bonds were accorded much interest in the curb, climbing about two points. Baltimore & Ohio issues dropped more than a point on the management's announcement that contingent interest would not be paid in May.

Chicago Stocks.

Prices showed an advancing trend on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with 67 of the 113 issues higher, 15 lower and 31 unchanged. Sales were 34,000 shares.

Associated Investment reached a new high of 41¼ on a gain of one point, Central and Southwest Utilities prior lien preferred reached 119, 65 and Hubbell, Inc., touched a new peak of 15 on a gain of the same fraction.

Bank Stocks.

Advances predominated in bank stock trading yesterday. Harris Trust gained two points to close at a bid of 297. Continental Illinois and First National each rose a point, closing at bids of 89½ and 241, respectively. City National declined one to 112. Other issues were steady.

MEN WHO HELPED LIVING STANDARD TO BE HONORED

Manufacturers Will Pay Tribute Feb. 20.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The man who improved the electric fuse, an oil man who advanced the process of making gasoline out of petroleum, an engineer credited with pioneering work in the development of the electric clock and electrical musical instruments, the inventor of the electric range—these and about 60 other Chicago and middle western inventors, engineers, and scientists will be cited for their achievements as "modern pioneers" who have made America a better place in which to live.

Ceremonies honoring the group will take place at dinner at the Palmer House Feb. 20 given by the Illinois Manufacturers' association and the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association. The dinner will be one of a series sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers to honor industrial pioneers.

Must Aid Living Standard.

To qualify as a modern pioneer the nominee for the group must have contributed, thru some invention or discovery to the American standard of living. Also, his invention is judged on the number of new jobs created in industry he has developed or stimulated. James D. Cunningham, president of the Republic Flow Meters company, is chairman of the Chicago committee.

Joseph G. Alther, vice president of the Universal Oil Products company, is credited with the development in 1936 of a furnace used in the petroleum industry which has greatly advanced the art of cracking oil in the production of gasoline, and saved millions of dollars to the public.

Developed Electric Fuse.

Vladimir N. Ipatieff, director of chemical research, Universal Oil Products corporation, developed catalysts used in the speeding of chemical actions for the petroleum industry that have been so effective that they have been applied to other industries. Pioneered in high pressure petroleum processing.

George A. Hughes, president, Edison General Electric Appliance company, in 1916 developed and patented the electric range which is now used in nearly 2½ million homes.

IDLE RESERVES OF BANKS DROP FORTY MILLIONS

Treasury tax collections and an increase in money in circulation were principal factors in a 40 million dollar decline in idle reserves of banks during the week ended Feb. 7, the federal reserve board reported yesterday.

Lendable excess reserves aggregated 5 billion 520 million dollars, compared with 5 billion 560 millions a week earlier. A year ago idle funds amounted to 3 billion 460 million dollars.

Money in circulation increased 37 million dollars to 7 billion 403 millions. The nation's gold stock rose 67 million dollars to 17 billion 998 millions.

TREATY BLAMED FOR BLIGHT ON SUGAR INDUSTRY

Business Is Hamstrung, Leaders Charge.

mers have operated under a soil conservation program that has made the land more productive after 100 years than it was when cane first was planted. This is supported by the results of an exhaustive survey by agricultural experts of Louisiana State university.

The plan—which was interrupted by restrictive legislation—worked this way: 30 per cent of the land went into plant cane [the new crop]; 22 per cent was in first stubble, or the cane that grows from the stubble of the previous year; 15 per cent was in second stubble, from the crop of two years before, and 33 per cent was in legumes or restorative crops. On the year following the plant cane would be where the legumes had been, part of last year's crop would be first stubble, and so on.

Two-Thirds Under Production.

Under this system about 66 2-3 per cent of the acreage was producing cane each year. In some cases 70 per cent of the land produced.

Under the act of 1937, however, cane acreage was cut to about 40 per cent of the available land. In some cases this was as low as 18 per cent. The act provides a formula the secretary of agriculture uses to allot quotas among the producing areas after he has estimated the domestic need.

Cuba and other foreign areas last year received 44.41 per cent of the market. The remaining 55.59 per cent was divided among the domestic beet area, the mainland cane area [Louisiana and Florida], Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. Louisiana and Florida drew 11.31 per cent of the domestic quota, or about 6 per cent of the domestic market need.

Louisiana is permitted to produce 428,000 tons of sugar a year, altho on the available cane lands it could produce 680,000 tons, experts agree. The university survey holds that the output could be increased to a million tons at the rate of 100,000 a year without upsetting the agricultural economy of the state and without the use of marginal lands.

Employment Would Benefit.

And, according to Charles A. Farwell, chairman of the educational committee of the American Sugar Cane league, the industry would employ 25,000 additional farm laborers for each 100,000 ton increase.

Back of the sugar act, leaders in the industry as well as disinterested experts see the reciprocal trade treaty with Cuba which, tho originating in 1902, has been broadened and made an integral part of the Hull reciprocity program. Were it not for this, the industry believes, the restrictions would not be clamped so tightly upon domestic cane growers.

It is felt that Cuba should be allowed to sell her sugar here—and even that preferential treatment for the island is not unreasonable—but the leaders and principal growers fail to see why "the secretary of agriculture should be allowed to strangle the domestic industry."

"All of us feel a responsibility for and an obligation to Cuba," said F. Evans Farwell, partner in the New Orleans sugar firm of Milliken & Farwell. "But we cannot understand why discharge of that obligation should bear so heavily upon the domestic sugar industry."

The Record of Cuba.

Dr. Pierre Crabites, lecturer on civil law institutions at Louisiana State university and formerly the American judge assigned to the Cairo, Egypt, Mixed Tribunal, has just completed a line of research into the value, potential and real, of the Cuban market under the Hull agreements.

"I was shocked," he said, "to find that in the three year period from the start of the agreements, 1935-'37, less than 3 per cent of our agricultural exports went to Cuba. I found further that for the four year period 1935-'38 Cuba's exports to the United States outweighed her imports from us by more than 200 million dollars." The record follows:

	Exports to Cuba.	Imports from Cuba.
1935	$ 59,191,630	$111,350,842
1936	66,706,390	129,734,248
1937	92,282,753	148,046,616
1938	76,328,810	105,840,434
Totals	$294,509,583	$494,972,140

The favorable trade balance for Cuba thus is $200,462,557.

"When one of its industries is hamstrung to promote this kind of reciprocity, a body blow is struck at the nation's welfare," said Dr. Crabites. "I do not challenge the good faith of the statesmen whose ignorance of the true principles of reciprocity results in such a sad example of misapplied zeal. Only well meaning men could make so terrible a blunder. Men of sordid motives wouldn't dare make such a deal."

Five Pertinent Facts.

Concluding his study, Dr. Crabites submitted the following as pertinent suggestions to the sugar cane league:

1. There are 372 counties in the United States in which sugar beets are raised and 22 parishes and counties devoted to the culture of sugar cane.

2. This vast sugar area is inhabited by 19,611,414 people.

3. The entire population of Cuba is but 3,962,344.

4. All the money derived from sugar in the domestic sugar area is spent in this country and becomes part of the national wealth.

5. Allowing Cuba to hold the balance of power in the sugar world eventually will mean penalization of the American consumer.

[Where Cuba buys her sugar processing machinery and the facts about Cuba's two attempts to gouge the American consumer and the present crisis facing the domestic sugar industry will be discussed tomorrow.]

NORTH AMERICAN CO.

Altho I have seldom heard of the company, I am told that North American company ranks with some of the biggest utility systems in the country. I would like some information about it.—D. A.

Answer: The North American company is one of the largest and oldest utility organizations in the United States. Its operating subsidiaries are ivided into four geographical groups: Missouri-Illinois-Iowa, Wisconsin-Michigan, Ohio, and the District of Columbia.

The subsidiaries serve metropolitan and industrial districts such as those of St. Louis, Milwaukee, Cleveland, and Washington, D. C., including about 672 communities and more than 5 million persons. About 80 per cent of gross operating revenues is from the sale of electricity, mostly to industrial and commercial users. The companies also furnish transportation facilities, gas, steam heat, and coal.

The parent company has outstanding funded debt of 70 million dollars; cumulative preferred stock of $50 par value divided into two series, 606,359 shares of 6 per cent preferred and 696,580 shares of 5¾ per cent preferred stock, and 8,573,974 shares of $10 par common stock.

Subsidiary funded debt totaled $274,732,850, preferred stocks, $93,271,013, and minority interest, $13,143,468—all of which constituted in effect a prior claim on the earnings of the utility system before interest could be paid on the parent company's debt. Unlike some other large utility holding companies, the North American company has had a fairly good earnings record thru the depression. The following table compares consolidated net income, earnings per common share, and dividends paid per common share in recent years:

	Net Income.	Earned Per Shr.	Dividends Per Shr.
1935	13,431,000	1.35	1.00
1936	16,744,000	1.74	1.25
1937	15,502,000	1.95	1.60
1938	15,109,000	1.55	1.20

(Note: Only earnings of subsidiaries whose common stock is owned more than 75 per cent by the parent company are consolidated.)

For 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1939, net income climbed to $18,633,192, equal after preferred dividends to $1.81 a common share. In the corresponding period of 1938 net income was $15,445,216 or $1.59 a share.

Fixed charges on the funded debt were earned 1.48 times in 1934, 1.61 times in 1935, 1.79 times in 1936, 1.88 times in 1937, 1.73 times in 1938 and 2 times in the 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1939. In the 12 months ended Sept. 30, 1938, fixed charges were covered 1.75 times.
